PUSH HUGE DEFENSE PLAN TOWARD VOTE IN SENATE

Fumble with Task of Stepping Up Plane Production.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—While the Roosevelt administration tackled in uncertain manner the problem of speeding up aircraft production, congressional committees today advanced the President's program for strengthening our national defense. Outstanding developments of the day were:

1. The senate appropriations committee reported favorably to the senate a bill appropriating 1 billion 821 millions for the army for the next fiscal year, of which amount 714 millions would be devoted to the procurement of additional personnel and equipment envisaged by the President's emergency program.

2. More than 100 aircraft manufacturing industry officials came to Washington to collaborate with the administration on plans to increase their production capacity, but received only a pep talk from administration officials. [Details on page 21.]

3. The house military affairs committee, considering plans to expedite the armament program, heard Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air force, estimate that the military planes proposed by Mr. Roosevelt would cost 7 billion dollars and require half a million men for operation.

4. The President asked congress for an additional appropriation of 35 millions for the purchase of rubber, tin, and other war materials not produced in the United States, bringing to 60 millions the amount he has allocated for this purpose.

5. Senator Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], the majority leader, announced that the army appropriation bill will be taken up by the senate tomorrow with a view to passage this week.

6. The President asked congress for an appropriation of 2 million dollars for construction of an airplane engine research laboratory and authority for the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics to contract up to $6,400,000 for the site and supervision of construction. The location of this laboratory in Chicago is being urged by authorities and business interests of that city.

Urges Rule by Civilian Board.

The question of administration efficiency in carrying out the new national defense program was thrust to the fore in the senate by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], one of the leading candidates for the Republican nomination for President.

Doubting that the country is "geared to the procedure" essential to the production of the vast volume of arms and other equipment required by the program, the senator advocated a "civilian munitions administration, which shall be put in charge of the ablest mass production manager in the United States, to control and manage this portion of this great and essential adventure."

"It is no reflection on the army and navy, trained in totally different fields of action, to question their competence to handle these procurement necessities on the tremendous scale proposed," he said. "It is a profession apart.

Fears Collapse of Efforts.

"I believe the statement is justified that every belligerent in the present war has set up a separate administration to manage mass procurement. I fear we shall fail of our objective—as we certainly have failed heretofore, at least in part—if we continue existing methods and procedure."

As an approach to this problem, the senator suggested that the President furnish congress with the report of his war resources board, headed by Edward R. Stettinius, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation. Vandenberg read the names of members of the board, outstanding industrialists whom Mr. Roosevelt appointed to work out a plan for mobilizing the industrial resources of the nation in a war emergency.

"Certainly there could not be a more efficient or more formidable personnel upon a committee of this nature," he said.

SURVEY REVEALS STRENGTH OF U. S. ARMY AND NAVY

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington D. C., May 20.—How strong is America? How strong is our navy? How can we resist on land? What have we on land, sea, and in the air?

These questions are an important factor in the controversy over rearmament. One faction contends a Nazi blitzkrieg is on its way to America and the United States should build a gigantic defense establishment, no matter what the cost. The opposing faction, while recognizing the need for expansion, cautions against hysteria in the interest of building an efficient, adequate protective force.

Amid the sound and fury of oratory over the wisdom of spending billions for national security, the navy contends the American fleet is the finest afloat and the army asserts the land forces are at their greatest peacetime strength.

Navy Surpasses Britain's.

The American navy numbers a total of 369 men of war—41 more vessels than its nearest rival, Great Britain, which has 328 as nearly as can be ascertained. Italy has 276, largely destroyers and submarines; Japan, 254; France, 177, and Germany, 149. The naval figures are as of May 1, 1940.

It is true many of the American navy's vessels are over age, but no more so than those of the other great naval powers. The navy has in its enlisted ranks 135,000 sailors, 25,000 marines, and almost 12,000 officers, making up the best personnel in the world in health, training, and education.

The enlisted naval reserves total about 70,000 officers and men. In addition, there are almost 200,000 men with sea experience in the merchant marine and other craft, including yachts and motorboats.

Peacetime Army a Record.

On land America has 228,000 officers and men in the regular army—the largest peacetime force in the nation's history and only about 50,000 short of the minimum defensive force set by experienced generals after the world war and still regarded as an ideal strength today. Of these, 60,000 are on duty in the Philippines, Hawaii, the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, and Alaska.

In the National Guard are 235,000 officers and men. In the officer and enlisted reserve are almost 150,000. Citizens' military training camps and reserve officers' training units have a total enrollment of almost 200,000, which could be expected to volunteer in the event of war.

Altogether these would provide an additional protective force of almost 800,000 men. In addition the nation has a reserve well of more than four million men who have received some form of military training or disciplined camp life, who could be readily whipped into an army.

New Equipment Sought.

It is true the army does not have enough modern equipment. However, it is far better equipped and organized today than it was before the outbreak of the world war. It also is experimenting with new weapons and new formations. At present a large part of the army is engaged in the most extensive war games ever held in the United States.

The army and navy have almost 5,000 planes. Almost all of these lack protective armor, bullet sealed gas tanks, and similar last minute equipment, but they are serviceable craft.

According to the best estimates, Germany has between 10,000 and 12,000 planes. This strength is for a nation which built to enter war and take the offensive.

In resistance against attack America still has the most favorable geographical position of any large power in the world. It is still protected by oceans on the east and west.

[Future articles of this series will discuss in detail the land, sea, and air strength of America.]

White House Bid to Landon Is Canceled

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Alf M. Landon, titular head of the Republican party, came to Chicago last night on his way to a Washington White House luncheon at the invitation of President Roosevelt, but was halted by a message calling the conference off. The rescinding of the invitation followed publication of an interview with Landon at Topeka Sunday in which he declared against any adjournment of politics on account of the war situation in Europe.

Alf M. Landon.

Landon, Republican nominee for President four years ago, strongly opposed any party coalition that would tend to decrease party responsibility, and was against any suggestion that the Republican national convention be postponed.

Message Comes Roundabout.

The message calling off the White House luncheon engagement was received by Landon thru a third person soon after his arrival in Chicago last night on his way east.

A long distance call was waiting for him. It was to the effect that Col. Edwin M. Watson, aid-de-camp to the President, had tried to get Landon by telephone at Topeka and Landon, having departed, he then called a New York friend of Landon, and the latter caught the Kansan by long distance in Chicago.

In brief, the message from the President, via Col. Watson and New York, was that "In view of developments it was thought just as well not to have the conference."

At the President's Service.

Mr. Landon said he would return to Topeka. He refused to comment, his sole remark being:

"I started for Washington, as I always do, at the invitation of my President. I am going home at his invitation. I am ready to go to Washington at any time at the invitation of my President."

Just what the subject matter of the conference asked by President Roosevelt was to be has not been divulged. Widespread surmises, however, have been that perhaps the question of a party coalition might have been proposed, with the possible eventuality of a coalition cabinet.

Among Republican leaders yesterday a vew was expressed that should any coalition move be projected or take place it might lead to pressure to postpone the Republican national convention and perhaps even the election itself, if possible, and this might get rid of the third term obstacle.

Whatever the contemplated subject matter of the White House conference was to be however, it appeared last night that Landon's forthright utterance against coalition had stopped the affair in its tracks.

No explanation was given of word "developments" which had called the affair off. But yesterday's newspapers carried the Landon statement assailing coalition talk in war hysteria.

In a speech at Warrensburg, Mo., Friday night Landon remarked that "if the President wants to call off politics, he ought to call off his Western political trip." Landon said one day the President talks of the war situation and the next day talks about a political swing around the circle.

HITLER'S TROOPS TAKE LAON AND PUSH FOR PARIS; ENGLISH DOWN 50 PLANES

Allied Airmen Raid German Supplies; Bomb Oil Tanks.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, May 21, Tuesday (AP).—British general headquarters early today said "repeated attacks (Monday) by German armored and motorized" formations had been repulsed by allied forces in Belgium. The attacks were made in the area south of the Scarpe river, which flows north of Cambrai, France, and against the Scheldt positions east of Antwerp, Belgium. "The Belgian army has contributed largely toward the success of the defensive battle now being fought," the announcement said.

(Maps on back page.)

LONDON, May 20 (AP).—Britain's airmen, outnumbered but claiming superiority, plane for plane and man for man, tonight were reported doing steady damage to supply bases and communication lines of the Germans driving toward channel ports for an attack on England.

An air ministry bulletin said fighter patrols of one Royal Air force group had brought down more than 50 Heinkels, Dorniers, Junkers, and Messerschmitts Saturday and Sunday. The British said their planes suffered "less than half that number of casualties themselves."

Raid Lasts Two Hours.

In a detailed account of Saturday's bombings of oil storage tanks near Hanover and railway junctions at Cologne, the bulletin said, a "strong formation" attacked oil tanks at Misburg. Roads and bridges behind the German lines at Gembloux, Givet, and Namur on the Belgian front also were reported bombed.

The midnight attack on the oil tanks lasted two hours and the raiders reported: "At one stage in the operations seven bombs were seen to fall diagonally across the target and three big explosions immediately followed. Several huge fires were seen to break out."

The raiders said that on their way home they saw that oil tanks which had been bombed on Friday at Bremen still were "well alight." In the attacks on railway junctions, 36 bombs were dropped on one point, the account said, with "several direct hits."

Bomb Wrecks Bridge.

One end of a bridge over the Sambre river was destroyed by a bomb, and German troops on the march near Gembloux were "machine gunned and dispersed."

The air ministry asserted British bombers last night scored a direct hit on a railway bridge at Roux, south of Brussels, and attacked troop and tank concentrations in the Aisne sector in France.

Swinging north of the fighting front, the British airmen then attacked oil refineries in northwestern Germany and started seven fires in the airdrome at Varnes, north of German-held Trondheim, Norway. The British said 14 fighters and two bombers were missing.

LOUVAIN LIBRARY IN RUINS; 700,000 VOLUMES BURNED

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER.
WITH THE GERMAN WESTERN ARMIES, May 20 (AP).—American newspaper correspondents, guests of Adolf Hitler, today saw the ruins of Louvain library, which was erected on Herbert Hoover square by coöperation of numerous American universities. The building had been gutted by fire. Its 700,000 volumes must be considered lost.

Arrow locates Louvain.

All floors had been swept by the blaze. No one seemed to be able to say by whom or how the blaze had been set. From the basement wisps of smoke still rose.

Picture of Desolation.

Practically the entire population of Louvain, 41,000, had fled. The German military commander of the city, Lieut. Col. Engelmann, tried to form an emergency city council with a fire captain and the lone professor remaining as the nucleus.

There was neither light nor water available. The city presented a picture of desolation.

However, life in Brussels, on the surface at least, went on unperturbed.

Another scene which I saw was the shambles of the Chateau of Sternockerzeel—property of the Archduke Otto, pretender to the non-existent Austrian throne.

Staff Headquarters in Castle.

The British had made the castle a divisional staff headquarters, which prompted the Germans to bomb it.

One bomb dug a hole 30 feet deep beside the massive structure. The repercussion blew off part of the roof.

Otto's shaving outfit was superimposed on the grand piano. Hungarian newspapers and costly French prints were jumbled together.

Finds a Letter Written by Zita.

Wandering from one desolate room to another, I found in the boudoir of the former Empress Zita the carbon copy of a letter she had written in French to a relative.

She observed, "As you saw in the papers, Otto has gone to America." Of Otto's brother, Felix, also in America, she wrote, "I suppose he talks Yankee."

The scene at the castle was one angle of the kaleidoscopic view of the battle-scarred area where Hitler changed his general headquarters three times today to keep up with his forces.

Brussels Practically Unhurt.

I had expected to see a large part of Brussels in ruins. As a matter of fact, the city itself is practically unhurt, but Schaerbeek railway station, outside the city, where trains connect to all parts of Belgium and, indeed, all Europe, was demolished. Residents of Brussels accepted the occupation philosophically.

Shops were well filled with customers and supplies. Only the telephone lines were not working—the high command having deemed it inexpedient to resume general telephone business.

Traveling over the abandoned battleground in an automobile disclosed a human drama of the misery and horror wrought by modern war.

Sees British Prisoners.

We saw a group of 25 to 30 English Tommies almost as soon as they were captured.

Tomorrow we will be back at the front, closer than ever to the fierce battle.

Col. Gen. Walther von Reichenau asked us to visit him in the late forenoon tomorrow. When we inquired whether he was near the front he replied significantly "Quite near." Reichenau is the man who achieved fame as a tactician in the Polish drive.

From what I have beheld, it is evident that Germany's tremendous air force dominates the fighting in Germany's attempt to bring France and Great Britain to their knees.

Germans Advance to Oise-Aisne Canal in New Drive.

BULLETIN.

PARIS, May 21, Tuesday (AP).—Military commentators asserted today that Laon is in French hands, despite the German claim to have captured the city. They said other points still held by the French where the Germans are thrusting into northern France included Cambrai, Peronne, and La Fere.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Maps on back page.)

BERLIN, May 20.—Adolf Hitler's fast striking German army tonight pushed beyond Laon, 75 miles northeast of Paris by road, and was headed toward Noyon, only 50 miles north of the French capital.

The high command announced Laon had been stormed and captured and that the swastika flag "is flying from the citadel" of the French city.

Foes Trapped in Triangle.

At the same time it was announced that powerful French, British, and Belgian forces were trapped in Belgium near the French border in a pocket.

The Germans are using a pincer movement to crush the enemy force along the Belgian border. One claw is represented by the force driving west of Brussels toward the coast. This extends at one point as far west as Tournai. The other claw points northwestward from the salient cut into the French line near Cambrai.

[The French yesterday reported the Germans had driven a 16 mile wedge into French territory from St. Quentin to Peronne on the Somme river.]

The Germans declared that 300,000 British troops "realize their precarious position and are rushing toward the English channel in forced marches."

In addition to the British, the Germans estimated the allied strength in their path thru Belgium as more than 1,000,000 French and 250,000 Belgians.

Reports Enemy in Retreat.

The Nazi high command announced that the French and Belgian army tried to break thru the pocket toward the south near Maubeuge and south of Valenciennes. The Germans declared this army suffered terrific losses, especially in tanks and mechanized equipment.

The German communique said the French and Belgians were retreating toward the coast after their vain effort to break thru shattered their columns seriously.

The Germans attributed the failure of the French and Belgians to get out of the trap to the fact that the Nazis yesterday brought up strong forces toward Saint Quentin and toward the Aisne river near Rethel.

Right Wing Swings West.

The right wing of the German army has been strengthened according to the principles which Gen. Count Alfred von Schlieffen taught the German general staff.

In his original plan this right wing was to swing southward and encircle Paris. The announcements of the German high command indicated that the right wing close to Maubeuge and Saint Quentin was heading westward instead.

"German armored and motorized forces reached the battleground of the battle of the Somme of 1916 on the road to Cambrai and Peronne," the Germans announced.

It was reported German troops were nearing Arras, which is 50 miles from the channel.

"The English, French, and Belgian forces trapped in the pocket must move rapidly if they want to join the bulk of the French army on French soil before the Germans close in on them from Belgium and the Saint Quentin sector," German military circles said.

Nazis predicted that German submarines which now can use Dutch bases will lie in wait to attempt to torpedo British transports if the British try to move their troops from the continent "to their island."

The Germans said that the allied forces in Belgium suffered heavy losses in motors and tanks in the pocket which will further delay their retreat, while German Stukas [dive bombers], fighting planes, and "destroyer squadrons" were harassing them and destroying their communication lines.

Hold Up Armored Columns.

The same strong air forces were operating in the Laon sector, where the Germans said they had succeeded in "holding up armored columns marching northward from Laon and compelling them to withdraw."

"In Belgium the inner line of fortifications of Liege, as well as all the fortifications of Namur except one, are in German hands," it was announced.

The German air force is taking an active part in the battle, concentrating its attacks on lines of communications behind the front and on French and English air bases.

The Germans said that in the coastal waters near France and Belgium Nazi airplanes destroyed two destroyers and seriously damaged a destroyer, a French torpedo boat, the Incomprise, and a total of 15,000 tons of merchant shipping.

[Jane's Fighting Ships, authoritative manual of naval vessels, does not list France as having such a torpedo boat as the Incomprise.]

Announce Plane Losses.

It was announced that German plane losses yesterday totaled 31 planes. The Nazis claimed they shot down or destroyed 143 enemy aircraft.

The British today continued their air raids on Germany, which the German communique said were "carried out at random." A number of civilians were killed, Germans maintained.

"The only military objective to be hit was a camp of prisoners," they exclaimed. "Seventeen prisoners were killed in a camp between Muenster and Hanover."

Unverified rumors said that "a number of factories producing war equipment were hit by bombs in Hamburg and Bremen."

German propaganda chiefs directed a new attack on France, trying to accomplish a double aim—first, to undermine the morale of the French people and to drive a wedge between the English and the French.

Charge British in Flight.

Reports were to the effect that the British fled from Belgium the same as they fled from Namsos in Norway and that "the British have been withdrawn from the only sector they held on the Maginot line, in Lorraine."

Broadcasters said the Lorraine population demonstrated against the fleeing English forces.

NAZIS DRIVE NEW 16 MILE WEDGE IN FRENCH FRONT

Defenders Hold in Fierce Battle Near Cambrai.

BULLETIN.

PARIS, May 21 (AP).—Allied warplanes and tanks were reported today to have inflicted costly losses among German motorcyclists darting into northern France at the head of an attempted drive for the channel coast. French said the motorcyclists were using a new technique of swift daylight thrusts and then nightly withdrawals to temporary bases. The allied planes retaliated by strafing and bombing them before they could regain their bases, at the same time attacking them on the ground with tanks.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 20.—The Germans today drove another 16 mile long iron wedge into French territory—westward from St. Quentin to Peronne on the Somme river—and lessened by that much the distance that separates them from French ports on the English channel.

The objectives now definitely seem to be Arras and Calais. Arras is roughly 30 miles northwest of Peronne down a straight highway and Calais is about 60 miles beyond Arras. Calais was reported heavily bombed this morning.

This turn of the German spearhead gave the impression that a 75 mile push down the Oise river toward Paris has faded out in favor of a sweep by German panzer [motorized assault] divisions seeking to seize the strong fortified line of the Somme and then strike on the flank and rear of the French, British, and Belgian armies operating to the north.

[Berlin reports estimated that a successful drive to the sea might isolate 300,000 British soldiers on the allied northern flank.]

All for Channel Drive?

One theory of military experts tonight was that the Germans will not seek to drive toward Paris, but will stake all on seizing channel ports and possibly taking the Briey iron mining region north of Metz, against which their drives to the east of Sedan appear to be aimed. This would also be a step toward turning the main Maginot line.

By not attempting to sweep too far south in France, the Germans would keep their lines of communications shorter and conserve the gasoline which would be required for the indicated assault on England as soon as they might reach the channel.

A swift drive to Arras also offers the possibility of cutting off and sewing up the allied troops in a pocket along the same lines as the maneuver in Poland by which some Polish divisions [the Germans said 170,000 men] were encircled near Kutno, east of Posen [Poznan].

Fierce Battle Near Cambrai.

The fiercest fighting today raged at Caudry, 10 miles southeast of Cambrai, in the region north of St. Quentin. The Germans continued to pour all their tank reserves into the carnage with the force of a pneumatic drill. The French high command said, however, that the combats at various points on this line had left the situation generally unchanged.

The French admitted that Peronne probably was held by advance German elements, but said Cambrai definitely still was held by French troops.

The German advance westward from St. Quentin down the straight road to Peronne was said to have been carried out by five panzer divisions—about 60,000 men.

French tanks and artillery were said to be putting up formidable resistance to the Germans' westward surge and it was reported that British troops, too, had been brought into the breach north of St. Quentin and were fighting alongside the French.

Driven Back Across Aisne.

A hard fight continued today to the southeast of St. Quentin—between La Fere and Rethel. At Rethel the Germans are attempting to cross the Aisne river toward Rheims. Some units did get across last night, but French counterattacks were said to have driven them back and blasted away the German bridgehead. Many groups of Germans were said to have been caught on the south side of the Aisne and captured.

Farther east heavy artillery attacks were launched against Montmedy and its bridgehead and the left wing of the Maginot line [the "Little Maginot" line along Luxemburg and Belgium — the main line extends southward from Montmedy].

The fighting near Montmedy was fierce, the French said, but the German attacks were repulsed. To the German claim that they had captured an "important fort No. 505" near Montmedy, the French said no fort was taken; that the Germans merely captured an unimportant casemate which did not constitute part of the Maginot line.

"German Dead Piled High."

It was said the Montmedy attacks had heavy artillery preparation followed by waves of infantry. The French said the German attackers were beaten off by the crossfire of the Maginot line, leaving their dead piled high in front of the main forts.

The French night communique said "great activity of our aviation continued during the day. Numerous reconnaissances prepared for the engagement of bombing formations against the enemy's armored elements. A heavy tonnage of bombs was launched on columns, delaying their progress and inflicting severe damage."

The general situation today was characterized by strategic withdrawals of British and Belgian forces in the narrowing corner of Flanders which they hold. Several German attacks on the British rearguard were reported.

[A British military report said the British troops in Belgium were dropping back to keep the German push at Cambrai and Peronne from driving a wedge between the northern flank and the French army. The British asserted, however, that no gap had been punched in the allied front.]

In the battle at Cambrai the Germans appeared to be seeking—in concert with their forces at Peronne—to converge on Arras and head hellbent for Calais.

High command authorities said that the situation remains serious in this region. In this area the fighting is of a seesaw nature and elements of the German and French forces are so interlaced that sometimes the French are in the rear of the Germans and sometimes the reverse, so that there is no line at all except one entangled and zigzagging.

The French attached great importance to their reports that the Liege and Namur forts in Belgium are holding out. While these forts hold the Germans have only a few railway lines to rush up supplies across the Meuse to their advanced troops. Furthermore, the roads across the Ardennes mountains are not numerous, and it is figured here that these roads must now be in very bad shape after the passage of so many heavy tanks.

This, coupled with the constant harassing of the German forces by the British and French air forces, makes the task of supplying the great masses of German troops now grouped between the rivers Aisne and Escaut an exceedingly difficult one, military analysts say.

This map of the Chicago area illustrates the distances German army must advance to reach objectives. The Germans were 75 miles from Paris when they reached Laon. The 85 mile radius represents the distance from German held Peronne to Calais, channel port.

1,000 Ton British Warship Wrecked by German Bombs

LONDON, May 20 (AP).—The admiralty today disclosed the loss of the escort ship Whitley, a 1,090 ton converted destroyer. It said the vessel had been bombed and subsequently beached. Four casualties were reported.

BRITISH CONTINUE WITHDRAWAL AS FOE PLUNGES ON Fight to Protect Channel; Must Make Stand Soon.

BY DREW MIDDLETON.

WITH THE BRITISH EXPEDITIONARY FORCES IN FRANCE, May 19 [Delayed] [Passed by Field Censor]. (AP).—The British Expeditionary force, fighting with a desperation born of the knowledge that its columns stand between the German hosts and the death of an empire, continued withdrawals today to positions on which inevitably they must make a final stand.

No one can say where or when the allied high command intends to counterattack, but one consideration every one agrees on: It has to come soon, or not at all.

The most likely point might be to the north, where the Germans, pouring thru Brussels, are vulnerable to flanking movement and air attack.

Censorship Clouds New Line.

The situation resulting from an incredibly swift Nazi advance still is obscure. Even experienced officers admit they have no idea of the exact extent of the fighting or for certain where the next German blow will be delivered.

Censorship more rigid than ever forbids mention of the whereabouts of the new line, but it is far stronger than any on which the British have stood thus far.

Only this much can be said of the British position in this hour of the gravest peril to the empire: In the south, withdrawals which started 96 hours ago are said to have reached St. Quentin.

There were isolated instances where the German mechanized columns have pounded their way even farther into the heart of the region which saw some of the world war's heaviest fighting.

The British left flank, which made a strategic withdrawal, cut up but conscious that it mauled the Germans badly at Louvain and at Wavre, now is in a better position. Battling stubbornly, it checked half a dozen German attempts at a break thru and appears adequate to handle any large scale attack.

Germans Superior in Air.

The lavalike flow of Nazi forces has rolled on to the sea at Antwerp on the north and is moving southward protected by a cloud of "Luftwaffe"—bombing and fighting planes.

Despite desperate forays by R. A. F. pilots against German formations far greater in number, the German air force maintains its numerical superiority in the skies. Villages far behind the lines have been machine gunned and bombed in the last 24 hours, and the retreating British and French have been harried by strafing and bombing.

The B. E. F., once more as in March, 1918, stands with its back to the channel and a triumphant German army before it, but a new danger now exists. Using mechanized cavalry as mobile units, the German high command has flung forward hundreds of tanks and armored cars.

Reserves Forced Into Action.

This not only has brought the death and destruction of war to cities and towns which had considered themselves safe from ground attack at least, but also has complicated the general strategical situation by forcing the allies to throw reserve units into action.

The situation is confused in many sectors where the French, British, and Belgians, fighting shoulder to shoulder, seek to ward off mechanized blows.

There have been isolated allied successes. A German mechanized column nearing a city I was in yesterday was smashed and destroyed by the combined fire of antitank guns and French 75s hurriedly rushed into action. At Louvain the German infantry met its match against raw courage and the splendid discipline of a British Guard unit and a rugged Irish regiment.

THE BATTLE LINE AS DRAWN BY NAZI ARMY MEN

BERLIN, May 20 (AP).—Latest authoritative German reports today gave the front line of the European war approximately as follows:

From the Dutch-Belgian border at the mouth of the Scheldt river southward along a line running just west of Antwerp and following the Scheldt and Dendre rivers before they reach Ghent; then west almost to Audenarde, which is south of Ghent and west of Brussels; then to the east outskirts of Tournai [15 miles east of Lille], east to a point immediately north of Mons and then farther east across Jumet and Chatelet, the latter about six miles east of Charleroi.

Then the line runs southwest over Nalinnes and Beaumont to Avesnes, northwest to Lequesnoy, then to the east outskirts of Cambrai, south to Peronne [northwest of St. Quentin], southeast thru Lafere and Laon, southwest to the Oise-Aisne canal, approximately 10 kilometers [slightly more than six miles], then east thru Rethel, Montmedy, and Longwy and along the Luxemburg border to the west wall.

HITLER ANOTHER KING FREDERICK, GOERING CLAIMS

Pictures Him as a Master Military Strategist.

BERLIN, May 20 (AP) [via radio].—Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering compared Adolf Hitler to Frederick the Great today. He pictured the Nazi Fuehrer as a master military strategist, who personally maps even minor actions "down to the very last detail."

Back in Berlin for a 12 hour visit from the front, Goering disclosed that the Belgian fortress of Eben Emael, in the Liege area, had been considered by German militarists as the strongest fort in the world and that it had been captured in conformity with plans "made by the Fuehrer himself."

Like Frederick the Great, Goering said, Hitler possesses an "almost incredible amount of expert knowledge of every type and kind of arms." The field marshal asserted that there is no warship, no gun and no weapon in existence which Hitler cannot judge as to its effect on operations.

He said Hitler, in long nights of study, originated the plans for all recent Nazi conquests.

300 SPORTSMEN SET UP DEFENSE PATROL PROGRAM

Marksmen from 7 States Attend Rally.

BY BOB BECKER.

Three hundred sportsmen from seven central western states met last night in the Hotel Sherman and drafted plans for the organization of the Sportsmen's Defense reserve, a civilian army of modern minute men pledged to defend their homes and communities in the event of a national emergency.

Walter Peacock.

The sportsmen, most of them officers of rifle, trap, and skeet clubs, attended the meeting as representatives of thousands of marksmen in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Ohio, Kentucky, and South Dakota.

By letter and telegram as well as by their delegates at the meeting these marksmen expressed their enthusiasm for the formation of a civilian reserve.

Growth of Interest Described.

Walter C. Peacock, Chicago merchant who has been a leader of hunting and shooting organizations in the Chicago area for more than 40 years, presided at the meeting. He explained that the interest in the new organization has grown tremendously since it was announced Saturday in THE TRIBUNE.

By unanimous vote Peacock was named chairman of a six man committee appointed to prepare plans for extending the organization to all 48 states.

The other members are William L. Bourland, president of the Lincoln Park Gun club; Larry Doll, secretary of the Illinois Skeet association; William T. Lodge of Monticello, Ill., executive secretary of the Illinois Federation of Sportsmen's clubs; Russell Wiles Jr., a director of the Illinois Rifle association, and Glen Smith, a member of the skeet committee of the Glenview Country club.

Parachute Troops Cited.

Peacock said the committee will report on organization plans by the end of the week.

"Recent developments in the European war, especially the use of parachute troops to demoralize areas behind the line, has awakened American sportsmen to the vital need for just such an organization as this," Peacock told the meeting. "We want to bring together in one vast civilian army the 7,000,000 club marksmen who will form an immensely powerful third line of defense for America.

"This reserve will not be a war mongering body, seeking to embroil the country in any international struggle. It will be a purely civilian organization devoted to the inner defense of the nation."

Attendance at last night's meeting exceeded all expectations of Peacock and the other leading sportsmen aiding him in organizing the reserve. Arrangements had been made to accommodate 100 persons at the most.

Leaders Pledge Coöperation.

Sportsmen who attended and promised the coöperation of their groups included Kenneth Reid, general manager of the Izaak Walton League of America; J. M. Kinsella, president of the Illinois Skeet association; Frank J. McCoy, president of the American Police Revolver league, and H. B. Payne, president of the Illinois Trap Shooters' association.

The oldest sportsman at the meeting was George Schall, 88 years old, 5815 North Washtenaw avenue. Schall, a veteran rifleman, said that in 1918, as a member of the Illinois Volunteer Training corps, he was the oldest private in the army.

Representatives of the Illinois Federation of Sportsmen's clubs announced at the meeting that the board of directors of the organization had passed a resolution approving the reserve and predicted that more than 50,000 of the federation's 125,000 members will join the reserve within a week.

During the meeting telegrams pledging coöperation were received from the National Skeet association, the All American Skeet team, and dozens of shooting clubs and American Legion posts in all parts of the nation.

TELLS OF DUTCH RELIEF AT END OF NAZI BLITZKRIEG

Some Citizens Victims of Confused Police.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BENTHEIM, Germany, Near the Dutch Frontier, May 20.—Altho Holland was forced to surrender before the enemy, the experiences in the 5 day war had been so bitter, terrifying, and horrible that the announcement that Dutch soldiers had been ordered to lay down their arms was greeted thruout the country, if not with enthusiasm, certainly with obvious relief.

Day and night during the blitzkrieg every few hours Amsterdam residents had been awakened or summoned to shelters by screeching air raid sirens. Bad news followed bad news. Reports that parachute troops were fighting here, there, and everywhere, even in the streets of Amsterdam, unnerved the police even more than the citizenry.

Fails to Halt: Shot.

Two hours before the capitulation was announced a man crossing the street in broad daylight in front of the Hotel Carlton was shot because he failed to halt on a signal. Behind the hotel another man was shot from the roof of his own home.

Regular police and civilian guards were so nervous that they pointed their rifles and revolvers willynilly. The night before, in front of the postoffice, ordinary pedestrians had been herded into groups and forced to hold their hands up in the air.

Altho there was no real news indicating the military situation was hopeless just before the capitulation on May 14, one could guess as much. The British on Sunday [May 12] had removed their nationals. The next day the French consul, without even notifying any one, departed, but after telephoning the American consulate in Amsterdam to take over his duties.

Notified by Doorman.

The next day the Belgian consul left and gave the key to his office to a doorman. The doorman telephoned and informed the American consul that he had been put in charge of Belgian interests.

For the first three days of war—May 10 thru 12—bitter denunciations were made against German sympathizers or members of the "fifth column," which the government announced was being systematically wiped out.

On the fourth day, however, the writing on the wall became clearer. German citizens were allowed to leave their homes where they had been confined up to that time. All Germans who were entitled to relief were told they could obtain it by going to the proper authorities.

Beginning of the End.

Therefore, despite the optimistic official war communique, every one knew it was the beginning of the end. Twenty-four hours before the capitulation was announced, when it became known that Queen Wilhelmina and the government had departed for England, the Dutch said openly: "Civilians and soldiers cannot be asked to make any further sacrifice after having been deserted by their leaders."

However, the announcement that the soldiers were ordered by Lieut. Gen. Henri Gerard Winkelman, Dutch commander-in-chief, to lay down their arms created an immediate transformation. The armed civil guards manning every corner and strategic position disappeared from the streets as if by magic.

The street corners were packed immediately with people discussing the latest developments. THE TRIBUNE correspondent saw them smile, then laugh and joke, something he had not seen since the war began. The city's lights were on full blast. The ending of the depressing blackout and the frequent air raid alarms alone caused relaxation.

The next day when the Germans in armored cars and tanks passed thru the city there was almost a holiday air. There were no cheers, but the Germans' formal occupation was done with soft hands. Trucks bedecked with trees and garlands of flowers concealed the menacing character of their guns. Young boys on bicycles followed closely behind the lorries on which the German soldiers, who did not appear to be more than 19 or 20 years old themselves, kept up a running conversation.

Told of 600 Hostages.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent motored to The Hague on that day. All the way from Amsterdam to The Hague the roads were filled with German army units. At The Hague this correspondent called on the German press ministry to get a visa to leave. The floors and walls of the German legation had been torn up in a search for hidden documents. The whole German staff now bossing the country only a few hours before had been prisoners in the Hotel des Indes.

I was told that 600 Germans who had been arrested in Holland were taken to Great Britain as hostages. The Germans now are considering exchanging British, French, and Belgian nationals caught in Holland for these Germans.

Train service has been restored in Holland, except where blown up bridges prevented it. This correspondent, coming by automobile to Bentheim, crossed the IJssel river on a German pontoon bridge.

FRENCH MASS TO HIT NAZIS ON 2 FLANKS, SWITZERLAND HEARS

BASEL, Switzerland, May 20 (AP).—Allied forces under the direction of their new generalissimo, Gen. Maxine Weygand, are preparing a counter offensive to pinch off the German pocket from the Valenciennes region to Rethel, it was reported here today.

Valenciennes, just across the Belgian border in France, is on the northern flank of the allied west front. Rethel is on the south side of the Nazi thrust.

Bearing out the reports heard here were the massing of British and Belgian forces supported by French motorized units in the Valenciennes region, and a still more powerful French force at Rethel and nearby Rheims, behind the Aisne river. The French concentration south of Rethel is said to include large tank and armored car divisions and is ready to move despite Nazi bombing raids.

Chicago's Campaign to Get Aircraft Factories Pushed

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Mayor Kelly has opened Chicago's campaign to obtain the new aircraft engine research laboratory that congress is expected to provide for the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics. It became known yesterday that the mayor went to Washington last Saturday and saw President Roosevelt about the laboratory and Chicago's place in the rearmament program.

"I told the President," said Mayor Kelly last night, "that Chicago wants the new research center. I explained our inland safety, our unequaled machine tool industry, our educational facilities upon which the new center could draw, and our central location at a network of transportation lines.

Committee to Choose.

"The President said that the final choice of a new site for the laboratory will lie with the members of the national advisory committee. He said he could see no reason why Chicago would not be an excellent place for it."

The mayor also indicated that the possible location in Chicago of branch factories of the main aeronautical engineering companies was discussed. The President in his messages referring to rearmament repeatedly has said that the big aircraft and engine builders must move inland to less vulnerable locations.

Representatives of the city and of the association of commerce found out early this year that there is little likelihood that such aircraft companies as Boeing at Seattle, Douglas and Lockheed at Los Angeles, Glenn L. Martin at Baltimore, Pratt & Whitney at Hartford, Conn., and Wright Aeronautical at Paterson, N. J., will move their main plants inland. They are too busy with army and foreign orders.

Expansion of existing facilities to increase production will offer such concerns opportunities to establish branch factories, Mayor Kelly said. He expects these branches to be erected inland by government order, and many may be attracted here.

"Oscar Mayer of the association of commerce and Leverett S. Lyon are going to Washington on Wednesday or Thursday to push our claims with the manufacturers as well as our hopes with the NACA," Mayor Kelly said.

Tells Financing Plans.

"No other middle western city has more natural advantages than Chicago. In the last few months a dozen groups here have made arrangements to finance modern aircraft factory building of virtually any size required on land adjacent to some one of the 30 odd airports in the Chicagoland industrial area.

"We could erect these buildings by the time machine tools could be delivered of the type required for real production such as the President has in mind. It would be a matter of two or three months, probably.

"Furthermore we have large foundry buildings, large factory facilities that could be utilized instantly should the emergency be great enough. Finally the greatest bottle neck in the aircraft industry—trained labor—would be no problem here."

Chicago's advantages are also being laid before the Allied Purchasing commission. It has indicated willingness to finance the construction of certain aircraft and engine factories here. Mayer proposed use of Chicago's facilities to Arthur B. Purvis, director of the commission, and several concrete propositions are now being considered by him, Mayor Kelly said.

GERMANS ERECT FORTS FOR LAST STAND AT NARVIK

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 20 (AP).—German troops defending the Norwegian ore port of Narvik from allied attackers tonight were reported erecting fortifications along the Narvik-Kiruna, Sweden, railroad for a last stand.

[In London, a British dispatch said the Swedish radio had announced that a Polish unit captured the southern side of Narvik fjord.]

Meanwhile, Sweden denied officially that Germany had demanded permission to pass supplies and troops thru northern Sweden to aid the Narvik unit. Earlier, informed sources said Sweden had told Germany such transit would not be allowed.

Reports from Norway said that the Varnes flying field, east of Trondheim, was subjected to a heavy bomb attack by British flyers last night.

Blast Scatters Nazi Ships.

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

STOCKHOLM, May 20.—Reports from Goteborg today told of the scattering of a German convoy by the sinking of a warship off Hoenoe. One of the ships moving southward suddenly burst into fire and sank, it was said. The other ships dispersed, some going north, others south. The sinking was believed due to a British mine laid in the Skaggerak.

ITALY SPEEDS UP WAR MOVES; RAID DRILLS ORDERED

Demonstrations Against Allies Stir Rome.

ROME, May 20 (AP).—Italy swung her war preparations into a new high speed tonight as the feeling grew stronger in many Italian minds that her entry into the conflict merely was a matter of time and new demonstrations against Great Britain and France broke out in Rome.

The war department ordered three days of air raid drill and blackouts in Rome province as well as at Terni, 45 miles northeast, where great arms and munitions factories are running full blast.

Nothing developed to indicate whether general mobilization was imminent, but military experts said the closing of schools on May 31, two weeks ahead of schedule, would make buildings available for temporary barracks if needed.

Duce Gets Army Report.

Premier Mussolini received a report from Marshal Pietro Badoglio on troops posted on the frontier. It followed a report last week on the Littorio line of fortifications in the north which Il Duce ordered further strengthened.

Whether an Italian move would come on the French frontier or on the eastern borders facing the Balkans was a secret likely to be learned only after such a move was made.

Air raid drills and blackouts were ordered to start tonight in Terni, Rome, Milan, Turin, and Genoa, to continue for three days.

Cry for Mussolini.

From the Piazza Venezia, where Premier Mussolini failed to appear in response to cries of "Duce, Duce," the crowd separated and headed for the British and French diplomatic establishments, seizing flags from buildings as they went.

Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano's speech in Milan yesterday left Italians expecting Premier Mussolini to rally them suddenly some day to hear their army was on the move—just as he did when he launched the conquest of Ethiopia.

Count Ciano said Italy awaits only the "order of the day" from Il Duce "when he will have decided upon it."

The foreign minister tomorrow will go to Albania, Italy's Balkan outpost. Friends said he intended to inspect public works which were started after Italy occupied Albania on April 7, 1939.

Meanwhile, many Americans made their plans to leave Italy. A large number of priests and nuns reserved passage on the liner Rex which will sail from Genoa on May 29. American authorities estimated there are only about 550 United States citizens in Italy who likely would require to be taken out, with some 1,500 more Italian-Americans probably choosing to remain.

Strength of Army and Navy

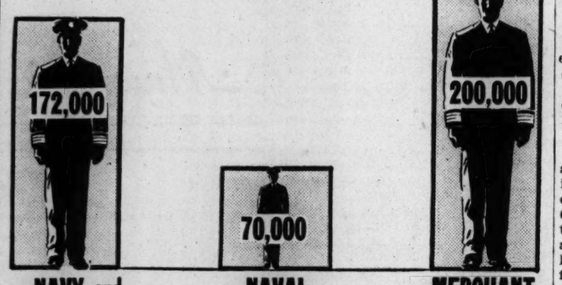
Comparison of the strength in numbers of the various land forces of the United States. In addition the nation has a reserve of more than 4 million men who have received some form of military training or disciplined camp life who could be called into army.



Comparison of the manpower of America's sea forces, including the merchant marine, who might be called upon in time of war.

PHONE SERVICE IS CUT BETWEEN BRITAIN, FRANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 21, Tuesday.—Telephone communication between Britain and France was cut off suddenly at 6 p. m. yesterday. Early this morning it still was impossible to get in touch with Paris by telephone from London, altho telegraphic and cable communications were working more or less normally.

For more than two hours last night all French radio stations but one went off the air. The exception was the long wave station, Radio Paris, which broadcast music and talks.

Continental telephone officials in London told inquirers that no statement could be made except that there was an "indefinite delay" on phone calls to the continent.

AGED MAN FORGETS ADDRESS.

A man about 80 years old, who knew his name was William Borg, but could not remember his address, was found by Summerdale police at Bryn Mawr avenue and Broadway last night.

ITALY'S CURBS VIRTUALLY KILL VATICAN PAPER

ROME, May 20.—The Osservatore Romano's circulation today amounted to only a few hundred copies, it was reliably stated. Thus the once great Vatican newspaper, for all practical purposes, has ceased to exist, at least until the campaign by the Italian government is called off.

For the time being the Holy See apparently has accepted the government's terms. The paper no longer prints news of political or international significance; its famous column by Prof. Guido Gonella has been suppressed, and Count Giuseppe Dalla Torre is no longer permitted to write editorials.

The Osservatore Romano was the only newspaper, in the American sense of the term, published in Italy. On its last free day, May 11, when the pontiff's messages to the sovereigns of Belgium, the Netherlands, and Luxemburg were published, the Osservatore had its maximum circulation of 150,000 to 160,000.

DON'T DISOBEY, INDIA IS TOLD BY NATIONALIST

BOMBAY, May 20 (AP).—Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, a left wing All-India Nationalist congress leader, declared in a speech at Lucknow today that "launching a civil disobedience campaign at a time when Britain is engaged in a life and death struggle would be an act derogatory to India's honor."

Jawaharlal Nehru.

His statement had a disconcerting effect on the radical section of the congress, which believes that England's difficulty is India's opportunity to achieve her independence.

Mohandas K. Gandhi, Nationalist leader, has advocated a civil disobedience program but only on condition that his followers carry it out without violence.

70,000 U. S. ARMY TROOPS LOCKED IN 'BLITZKRIEG'

With the Third Army in Louisiana, May 20 (AP).—Seventy thousand seasoned, streamlined troops—almost all the combat strength of the United States army—tonight were locked in simulated combat in western Louisiana forests in a "war of maneuver" somewhat similar to that raging in France.

The problem being worked out—an attempt to dislodge and cut off the bulge of an invading army which struck with heavy initial successes—is in the form of counterattacks on the "Red" army.

Before dawn today the "battle" began anew—the third of four exercises being worked out in the army's greatest peacetime maneuvers—as the defending "Blue" army changed to the offensive and hammered at the "Red" entrenchments. Nearly a hundred National Guard generals and other officers are here to study the problems.

PUSH HUGE U. S. DEFENSE PLANS TOWARD A VOTE

Fumble with Problem of Speeding Plane Output.

to Senator Vandenberg's suggestion is problematical. The war resources board is something Mr. Roosevelt would prefer that all should forget. The board had barely got going on its task when there developed a revolt of New Dealers against any plan proposing to place the mobilization of industrial resources in the hands of big business men instead of the burocracy. They charged that J. P. Morgan dominated the board and compelled Mr. Roosevelt to scrap it. He hurried the board into a report, but suppressed the report.

The senate appropriations committee gave the President the 200 million dollar blank check he asked to expedite aircraft production and other defense measures with the proviso that the executive shall report its disposition to congress by June 30, 1942.

Voted Under Protest.

For the blank check the committee allowed for the army 66 millions in immediate cash and 66 millions in contract obligations. The remaining 68 millions will be incorporated in the 963 million dollar navy appropriation bill, together with the 250 millions additional the President asked for the navy.

Senator Elmer Thomas [D., Okla.], chairman of the military appropriations subcommittee, disclosed that Senator Alva B. Adams [D., Colo.], and the Republican members opposed the blank check appropriations. To the argument that lump sums were voted by congress during the Spanish-American war and again during the world war, they replied that we haven't declared war yet.

The committee made public the testimony of the hearings last Friday in which Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and other officers detailed the proposed expenditure of the additional 714 millions.

Marshall Defends "Blank Check."

Army and navy officials appeared before three house committees, explaining the nature of the new national defense proposals.

The military affairs committee heard Gen. Marshall defend President Roosevelt's request for $200,000,000 to be spent at his discretion. Such a fund is "a trivial amount" for use in the present-day situation, he declared.

The war department wants to expand the army air corps to 10,000 planes as the first step in attaining the total of 50,000 planes mentioned by the President as his goal, Gen. Marshall said. The army now is limited to a maximum of 6,000 aircraft, but has less than half this number on hand.

Maj. Gen. Arnold, discussing the proper air defense of the United States against invasions such as Europe has witnessed recently, envisioned a flying force patterned after Germany's but on even a larger scale.

Asks 7,000 Front Line Planes.

Gen. Arnold estimated that Germany has 6,000 operating combat planes, with a reserve force of 18,000 planes from which immediate replacements can be made for the combat force.

"For the proper defense of this country, in case of a war similar to that now being waged in Europe," he testified, "I should like to see about 7,000 planes in our front lines, with several reserve corps. It would take a production of 50,000 planes to support such a setup."

The cost of such an air force would be staggering, Gen. Arnold admitted. Questioned by Representative Charles H. Elston [R., O.] he testified that the average cost of army planes is between $70,000 and $80,000. To this could be added another $70,000 for organization, equipment, ground crew, etc., making an average cost per plane of $140,000.

"Then 50,000 planes would cost the country about 7 billion dollars," commented Elston. Gen. Arnold nodded in agreement. He added that there is needed an average of ten men on the ground for each pilot and plane in the air. A 50,000 plane force would require an air personnel of 500,000, or more than twice the size of the entire army at present.

Gen. Arnold was questioned in detail about the capacity of the fighting ships now being built for the army. He admitted that these planes need modernization, in the light of European developments.

"They are first class, but still they need modernization, such as self-sealing gasoline tanks and additional armor plate," he said. "With these improvements they will be first class planes in any man's army."

The army at present has only 2,792 planes, Gen. Arnold testified. It has about 3,000 trained pilots.

Lacking in Defense Guns.

With Brig. Gen. Lorenzo D. Gasser, deputy chief of staff of the army, in the witness chair, the committee learned something of the inadequate antiaircraft facilities of the United States. The most efficient antiaircraft unit is the 90 mm. gun, with its 25,000 feet range, of which the army has not a single example at present. They are in production and the army is asking for 138 of these guns.

The army's proposal to complete the mechanization of only one brigade under the present plan was criticized by Representative Charles I. Faddis [D., Pa.]. At least 10 divisions ought to be mechanized, he insisted, at an approximate cost of $250,000,000.

Gen. Gasser demurred. It would take 18 months to 2 years to mechanize 10 divisions, he said. The present plan is for a "balanced program" of mechanization.

"What kind of shape would we be in to resist an invading mechanized army?" demanded Faddis. "If we're going to spend great sums of money, let's devote it to spending where it will do the most good."

Outlines Naval Program.

Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, outlined behind the closed doors of a house appropriations subcommittee the details of the navy's $250,000,000 share of the President's program. Other naval officers were before the house naval affairs committee to explain emergency legislation designed to put warship construction machinery in high gear.

Gen. Marshall explained why, out of the present regular army of 227,000 men, there are only 80,000 mobile ground forces available in continental United States. About 45,000, he said, have been assigned to the air corps and the remaining 102,000 are distributed in foreign garrisons, training schools and administrative positions in depots, arsenals and corps areas.

The additional 732 millions provided for the army, said the chief of staff, will provide for the personnel and munitions for 750,000 men, plus replacements—a total of 1 million men.

From this appropriation will come the funds to break bottle necks in the production of equipment, specifically: powder plants, an additional plant for the manufacture of semi-automatic rifles, an ammunition loading plant, an expansion of an existing loading plant, the erection of storage facilities at arsenals, and several other small plants.

The additional funds also will provide for the procurement of 200 heavy bombing planes, for expanding the present nine civilian aviation schools and establishment of others, for an increase in the number of pilots from the present goal of 2,400 in two years to 7,000 a year in order to maintain the army's present plane strength on a war footing, and for additional enlisted men and flying cadets to implement the expanded training program.

New Units Contemplated.

Among the new units provided by the additional funds will be a regiment of pack artillery for use in rough country, a battalion of 8 inch guns, an additional battalion of 155 millimeter guns for use in coast defense by mobile troops, units now lacking of an antiaircraft regiment of coast artillery, and 2,700 "zone-of-the interior" troops by which Gen. Marshall said he meant the "vast rear installations that make the machine run."

The chief of staff said the army goal is nine regular divisions at peacetime strength, a total of 280,000 men, which is the maximum obtainable by ordinary recruiting methods by next September. He surmised it then would be necessary to raise the regular army strength to 400,000.

From the new money would come funds for 21 additional antiaircraft guns for mobile troops in addition to the 117 for coast defense previously provided for but not yet produced. Altogether the additional funds would provide for one mechanized division.

TAFT WANTS U. S. TO STOP PLAYING WITH IDEA OF WAR

Demands Strict Neutrality and Adequate Defense.

St. Louis, Mo., May 20 [Special].—Senator Robert A. Taft brought his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination here tonight with one of the strongest appeals he has yet uttered for strict American neutrality, financial as well as military, in the present European war.

In an address to Republican leaders of Missouri at the Jefferson hotel, Senator Taft demanded that the country "stop playing with the idea that we may enter the war and devote ourselves to a genuine program of defense."

He said he is willing to leave the leadership in foreign affairs and their practical working out to the President. He contended no one could lay down "any unchangeable principles for our foreign policy" under present conditions in the world, and reiterated his support for a "sound program of preparedness."

Insists on Right to Criticize.

However, he insisted that one and all, particularly the Republican party, maintain the right to criticize the President or his measures. He admonished the Republican leaders not to be deterred in this criticism by accusations of partisanship.

"If there could be any course more selfishly partisan than that which seeks to use a great world crisis to boost a third term, I don't know what it could be," said the senator.

Senator Taft declared there is no reason for this country even to think of entering the war under present conditions. He said that if the proper means were taken to defend the United States there would be little cause to consider anything except the Atlantic ocean as this country's first line of defense.

The senator questioned that a German victory would weaken American defenses or even destroy trade. "I don't understand why if peace is once restored, we could not trade as well with Germany as with England," he said.

Sees Peril in New Deal.

Regarding a fear of a "wave of totalitarian ideas" sweeping over the Americas he had this to say: "There is a good deal more danger of the infiltration of totalitarian ideas from the New Deal circle in Washington than there will ever be from any activities of the communists or the Nazi bunds."

The senator seemed to feel that there was considerable agitation for our participating more directly in the European trouble.

"We are not engaged in the present world war," he said. "But there are a number of vociferous writers who think we should be. Have they the support of the President of the United States? He has made no definite move toward war, but he has made a number of disturbing statements which indicate that he might favor that position if the people would permit it."

Points to Chicago Speech.

He then cited several of the President's utterances—the so-called "quarantine" speech in Chicago, passages from his messages to congress, and others.

"Why should the President dwell upon the possibility of a German attack on the United States by air, picturing German airplanes approaching by way of Africa and South America to drop bombs in St. Louis or Kansas City?" he asked.

"Apparently it is to enforce the argument that we must not permit Germany to win the war, because we would be immediately subjected to an attack by air for which we are not prepared. Why otherwise stir up the emotions of the people when their feet ought to be firmly planted on the ground? It is certainly unnecessary as an argument for preparedness, for congress is only too anxious to appropriate whatever is necessary for national defense."

Warns on Finances.

At another point, Senator Taft declared: "We are in a very vulnerable financial situation. We began the last war owing nothing, and with a balanced budget. If we entered the war today we would start owing 45 billion dollars, and with an annual deficit of 4 billion dollars merely for peace time expenditures.

"How foolish and dangerous does the New Deal spending policy look at the present moment! Sound finances are an essential part of national defense.

G. O. P. Official

MISS EILEEN O'DANIEL.

Miss Eileen O'Daniel, regional director of the women's division of the Republican national committee, will arrive in Chicago Thursday to interview prospective speakers for the Republican Speakers' bureau.

She will speak at a Republican preconvention party at the Hamilton hotel from 3 to 5 p. m. Friday. The major Republican candidates in Illinois also will speak at the party, sponsored by the Woman's National Republican club of Chicago, of which Mrs. Jacob Baur is president.

Miss O'Daniel has served with the committee since 1935 and was appointed regional director April 1. As such, she acts as liaison officer between the women's division and local women's groups in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin, and Minnesota.

DEMOCRATIC AID TO ARRIVE TODAY FOR CONVENTION

Oliver A. Quayle Jr., treasurer of the Democratic national committee, will arrive this morning to establish the base of operations for the Democratic national convention on July 15.

With members of his staff he will open the first section of the committee and convention headquarters in the Stevens hotel, a nucleus that will be expanded with the growing needs of the convention planners. The committee offices will be on the fourth floor of the hotel, but by convention time approximately two-thirds of the hotel will be occupied by Democrats.

Quayle and his assistants will arrive on the Liberty Limited of the Pennsylvania lines. A press luncheon will be given in his honor at noon by Joseph P. Binns, managing director of the hotel.

FRENCH REVIVE MILITIA OF DAYS OF JOAN OF ARC

Guards Use Telephones in Place of Trumpets.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 20.—France's folk proverb, "The more a thing changes the more it remains the same," is dramatically confirmed in the creation of new territorial guards who can trace their ancestry back to the medieval militia of Louis IX., who was both saint and monarch.

True, the new guardsmen have different weapons; they are better equipped; they possess the latest devices contrived by science, but their job is essentially the same as seven centuries ago.

In 1791 the local militia was abolished during the French revolution, but with the advent of the "fifth column" and parachute troops the French government decided to resurrect these provincial guards in modernized form.

Posted in Village Belfries.

However, there are many resemblances with the past mingled with picturesque contrasts. In the days of Joan of Arc the militiamen were posted in village belfries to sound the alarm by means of trumpets. The guardsmen of 1940 will do exactly the same thing by means of telephones. During the middle ages each village had to furnish a certain number of militiamen. Centuries have passed, but the requirement stands.

Formerly the enemy came on foot; today he may come thru the air, dropping from planes. The medieval militia wore armor, carried spears, and were expert archers; today's guardsmen carry rifles and each squad will have a machine gun.

Nevertheless, the task in 1940 is the same as in the days of Richard, the Lion Hearted, "to guard vulnerable points of the French countryside and to protect them against surprise attacks by alien invaders." This phrase, from a medieval document, was reproduced in substance in last week's decree instituting the new territorial guard.

Sets Up Morocco Militia.

RABAT, French Morocco, May 20 (AP).—Gen. Auguste Nogues, supreme commander of the French defense forces in North Africa, today ordered the formation of a territorial guard [similar to the National Guard in the United States] to help protect the interior of Morocco for the duration of the war.

First Squadron of Indian Air Force Fully Equipped

SIMLA, India, May 20.—The first squadron of the Indian air force was announced today to be fully equipped. It is composed mostly of Indian personnel except for a number of technicians.

Sikorsky Shows Helicopter That Novice Pilots Can Fly

Bridgeport, Conn., May 20 (AP).—A Russian born aeronautical engineer, whose airplanes blazed the trail for the Atlantic and Pacific air services, demonstrated today a relatively new principle of flight which holds great promise for both national defense and private flying.

Igor I. Sikorsky, 51 year old designer of Clipper planes, stepped into a spiderlike contrivance and rose vertically under perfect control from a small patch of ground on an airport on the outskirts of Bridgeport.

There he hovered, moving forward as a motorist would move his car at low speed. Presently he descended, touching the ground easily. Again he went aloft, turning to right and left to show that a novice with a little instruction could operate the machine.

It was the first public demonstration of the Sikorsky Helicopter, conceived in 1908 and abandoned in favor of more conventional flying machines.

Minus Wings and Propeller.

Helicopters differ from airplanes in that they have no propellers in front for forward motion and no wings to sustain them in the air. Motion and lift are derived from a "wind mill" or rotor which revolves at a speed of several hundred times a minute.

Helicopters differ from gyroplanes or autogyros in that power is applied directly to the rotor. Moreover, gyroplanes, like conventional airplanes, have propellers in front to induce forward motion and the auto-rotation of the rotor.

Or put it this way: Sikorsky's new contrivance is the first flying machine ever made in America which, under perfect control, can rise vertically and, even in case of motor failure, descend safely.

Added to Sikorsky's advantage over the gyroplane is the fact that his machine is, in an engineer's terminology, more efficient than an autogyro. Today's flight was made with only a 75 horsepower motor.

Foresees Speeds Up to 150 M. P. H.

"I estimate," said the inventor, "that with proper horsepower—say 200 horsepower for two passengers—the helicopter will travel at a speed of 125 to 150 miles an hour."

Just what the implications of the invention are in this hour of national air rearmament remain for determination. Sikorsky said machines like his, considerably refined and with greater power, could be stationed at important points and rocket skyward to attack bombers in an emergency.

As for its use by the general public, he commented, "this machine as a private vehicle could be flown with safety from congested areas."

The United States is not the first nation to develop a successful helicopter. Germany two years ago produced one which was described by neutral engineers as of extraordinary merit. Some commentators advanced the belief that it was the "secret weapon" used to reduce the Belgian Liege forts.

Paris Omits Mention of Lindy Flight Anniversary

PARIS, May 20 (AP).—The 13th anniversary of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's take-off on his nonstop flight across the Atlantic passed unnoticed in the morning press of wartime Paris today. No plans were made for official celebration either of this date or of his arrival at Le Bourget airport on May 21.

CHINESE DENY PEACE PARLEY IS BEING HELD

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

CHUNGKING, China, May 20.—Chinese government spokesmen today categorically denied reports that Chungking emissaries are engaged in peace negotiations with Japanese delegates in Hongkong.

"The reports are untrue," he said. "There are no peace negotiations going on. On the contrary, we are intensifying our efforts to continue resistance and speed up the expansion of our industries and economic resources in southwest China."

Coincident with reports of the peace talks rumors were prevalent that Germany is manifesting an interest in promoting a settlement of the Sino-Japanese conflict and may assume the role of mediator. These rumors are entirely unsupported either in Chinese or German official circles.

JOINTLY OWNED AIR BASES CONSIDERED IN HEMISPHERE DEFENSE

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—Development of air bases in the western hemisphere, under the common sovereignty of all American republics, was suggested by some officials tonight as a partial answer to last night's speech by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Lindbergh demanded an adequate air defense of the hemisphere thru coöperation of all nations of the new world.

Some officials felt that common sovereignty over the bases, situated at strategic points, would be preferable to the acquisition or lease of further bases by the United States itself, which might arouse charges of "Yankee imperialism" in Latin America.

Urges Lindbergh as Chief.

Boston, Mass., May 20 (AP).—A proposal that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh "be put in charge of coördinating this whole gigantic undertaking" of preparing the country's air arm for defense was made today by Chairman Chandler Hovey of the Massachusetts Aeronautics commission. Hovey revealed that he had telegraphed Senator Henry Cabot Lodge [R., Mass.] advocating Lindbergh's appointment as "chief consultant on matters pertaining to aviation."

GEORGIA ORDERS FINGERPRINTING OF EVERY ALIEN

Drive Aimed at Nazi and Red 'Fifth Columns.'

Atlanta, Ga., May 20 [Special].—In a proclamation issued by Gov. E. D. Rivers today all aliens in Georgia were ordered to register with the nearest police, sheriff, or state highway patrol officer and be fingerprinted.

The order is in connection with a drive "against all Nazis, Silver Shirts, communists, and other subversive agencies in Georgia."

Peace officers were directed to seek out any alien who fails or refuses to be fingerprinted and request that he comply with the order, and to report him to the state executive department.

Reports to U. S. Government.

The order provides that any person suspected of subversive activities be questioned by the state patrol, police officers, or sheriffs, and if he refuses to register and submit to fingerprinting, that he be reported to the state and federal governments.

The governor ordered the state police bureau of identification to set up a special section for the recording of fingerprints of aliens and asked the coöperation of all peace officers of the state in maintaining and forwarding records.

Signed Complaints Pour In.

Attorney General Ellis Arnall said he is receiving numerous letters charging various individuals with pro-German activities. Other letters revealed meeting places of communists. The attorney general said a large number of signed communications are being investigated.

Attachés of the state law department are working on a digest of the laws of Georgia that can be used to prevent sedition in the state.

"If Georgia does not have laws to cope with the 'fifth column' situation, I will call an extra session of the legislature to enact such laws," said Gov. Rivers.

British Civilians to Get New Type of Gas Filter

LONDON, May 20.—An improved kind of filter which will increase the efficiency of gas masks against the "smoke" type of poison gases soon will be supplied free to everybody, it was announced today. The filter is contained in a small tin box that can be fitted to the gas masks used by civilians. The new filters, it is claimed, will make the civilian gas masks as efficient as those used by troops.

BRITAIN'S POLICE CLAMP DOWN ON PACIFISTS, REDS

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 20.—New wartime laws aimed at suppressing opposition to the British government's war policy and tightening restrictions against aliens, whether friendly or otherwise, have caused British courts and police departments to work at top speed.

All Fascist, communist, and pacifist political meetings thruout the country now are attended by a quota of policemen and detectives detailed to make notes of alleged inflammatory remarks and to watch the attitude of the crowds. Arrests and disturbances are frequent.

Demand Women Be Interned.

Sterner measures aginst aliens, including wholesale internment of German and Austrian women in this country, are being demanded in the editorial columns of most London newspapers. Already 7,000 men have been interned.

On orders of Sir John Anderson, home secretary, police tonight swooped down on gunsmiths in London and other parts of the country and seized all weapons and ammunition on the premises. The order was issued in an effort to see that weapons do not fall into the hands of fifth columnists. Anderson previously had issued a decree under which aliens of all nationalities are prohibited from possessing firearms, ammunition, and explosives without a special police permit.

Police are maintaining a strict watch on Dutch ships, scores of which have arrived in the Thames estuary since the German invasion of Holland.

Police Enforce Curfew.

Police also are enforcing rigorously the curfew on aliens in the area covering 29 counties on the south and east coasts of Britain. Jail terms and fines are being imposed on those ignoring the ban on entry into prohibited zones.

Mingling with aliens and political offenders in courts are numerous persons charged with violating domestic rationing and blackout laws.

London newspapers each day publish dozens of reports of breaches of wartime laws. Normally these cases are not given more than a few lines, they are scattered on various pages and evoke little comment editorially.

Cases Given Publicity.

Today's evening papers printed a large number of items devoted to war lawbreakers. The items include the following:

1. Mariana Borst, a Dutchman, who has lived in Britain for 10 years was sentenced to six months in jail for entering Portsmouth, a town now in the prohibited area, without a permit.

2. Johan Mogers, a radio operator, was held at Gravesend court on a charge of attempting to cause disaffection among Britain's allies.

3. A Briton, Michael Ryan, was held at Ealing court. He is charged with using insulting words about cabinet ministers while at a Fascist meeting.

4. Two Britons, Norman Kennedy and George Gosling, were charged in a London court with insulting the king and Prime Minister Winston Churchill in speeches at a public meeting.

German Girl Summoned.

5. Thomas Clark, a Briton, was summoned to court at Littlehampton, popular south coast resort, for obstructing a sentry guarding the sea front. Clark complained: "The soldiers were pushing people and children about with bayonets."

6. A German girl, Annelliese Teutsch, was summoned by officials at Eastleigh, Hampshire, for entering the protected area. The case was dismissed when she proved she had permission from the police.

7. Olive Baker, an English woman, was held for a week and charged in a Bath court with unlawfully distributing postcards relating to German radio propaganda.

8. A clerk, Walter Nichols, was sentenced by a Stratford court to a month in jail for calling the British government a "dirty government" at a meeting.

Seaman Faces Court.

9. George Lenton, member of the Portsmouth auxiliary fire service, was held for a week on a charge of recording in a book information about naval vessels.

10. A seaman, John Darby, is held at Chatham. He is accused of assaulting a policeman to whom he had denounced an innocent clergyman as a spy.

11. Julius Cohen was fined two pounds [about $6.44] in London for chalking a notice of a communist meeting along a roadway and thereby, police asserted, arousing the hostility of a crowd.

12. Reginald Torpy, municipal electrical engineer of Tunbridge Wells, was fined 25 pounds [about $80.50] for not properly obscuring the lights of his home.

Reimburses State

DOLLY KAY.

The state was happy yesterday to get $256 from Dolly Kay, a night club singer, but the state's attorney's office still would like a little chat with her.

Robert Myers, a senior clerk in the state unemployment compensation office, 175 North Ada street, who is accused of paying Miss Kay and other entertainers about $3,000 illegally, is to appear Monday in Felony court to face a charge of defrauding the state.

Miss Kay, in a note sent from Kansas City, Mo., said she had read about the case and did not wish to keep any money to which she was not entitled. Assistant State's Attorney Richard Austin, when informed by Martin P. Durkin, state labor department head, that Miss Kay had returned the $256 said he still wished to see her. Austin also is searching for Dennis [the Duke] Cooney, in whose Royale Frolics café many of the entertainers worked. Cooney is wanted as a witness.

Finds 600,000 Ready to Fight for Liberty.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERNE, Switzerland, May 20.—In these perilous days one has only to dine with the Swiss army in the field to feel the pulse of a nation that has had generations of good government and is deeply imbued with patriotism and dedicated to the survival of freedom.

The fully mobilized army, 600,000 strong, represents approximately one-eighth of the republic's population. All able-bodied men between the ages of 18 and 60 are under arms.

The host at the 30 minute dinner was a successful business man, a member of the national parliament, and the political leader of a substantial following. He is a corporal.

Ready for Any Task.

"I am glad," he said, "that my rank is only corporal, because it enables me to be closer to the men I represent in Berne and to show them that I can work shoulder to shoulder with them in any task."

His hands, unaccustomed to manual labor, showed many blisters from his work in constructing barricades.

There is no pomp in the Swiss army. The discipline and efficiency everywhere apparent are not the result of years of military training but the product of intelligent organization of a multitude of men intent upon achieving a common goal: The protection of their country and the defense of their liberty.

"Yes: We Will Fight."

There is no atmosphere of overconfidence, inferiority, or self-deceit. War to these men is simply a serious and obnoxious affair that must be encountered if their land is invaded. When asked if the Swiss could seriously oppose a powerful enemy, our host replied, "Yes; we will fight." He left no doubt as to the sincerity of purpose of these civilian soldiers.

The men are well fed and the thickly populated countryside furnishes billets.

Basel school children between the ages of 7 and 14 are going to the assistance of farmers in putting in crops.

It is generally believed here that Switzerland is safe from invasion until the outcome of the great battle in France and Belgium.

ARMY PROPOSES NATIONAL GUARD UNIT FOR ALASKA

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—Enlistment of a National Guard in Alaska is planned by the army as part of the new defense program for that area. Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, told senators about this when he won a $12,000,000 appropriation for defense in that area. The testimony has just been made public.

Pointing out that half of the 60,000 persons in Alaska were Eskimos, Aleuts and Indians, Senator Thomas [D., Okla.] asked whether they would make "good soldiers."

Gen. Marshall explained that the army expected "much more response from citizens than would be expected in this country," with almost "every able bodied man from 18 to 45 years" joining the National Guard.

"It is very important to us to have a unit in Alaska," he explained, "as such a unit constitutes a definite national defense asset, at a place and a time when it might be needed very much."

CANADIAN FLAYS NEUTRALITY AS ACT OF BETRAYAL

TORONTO, Ont., May 20 (AP).—Neutrality in the European war "amounts almost to a betrayal of modern civilization and the highest moral aspirations of mankind," Archdeacon A. P. Gower-Rees of Montreal said today.

Addressing almost 2,000 Canadian and American delegates to the First International Credit Men's congress, the Anglican church official said neutrality might be the "right national attitude" in some disputes, but added:

"The issues at stake in this present conflict demand that every nation shall decide without delay on which side it should devote its strength. By incessant threats the Nazi regime of Germany has almost paralyzed the economic life of many nations, and affected that of all nations."

NAZIS FINANCE INVADING ARMY WITH BIG CREDITS

BERLIN, May 20 (AP).—Germany raised a 3 billion mark credit today to finance her armies in the newest occupied territories, authorized sources announced. [The value of the mark nominally is 40 cents.]

As in Poland, Norway and Denmark, the reich introduced dual currency in the form of so called reich credit bank notes in Luxemburg, Belgium, Holland, and German-held parts of France.

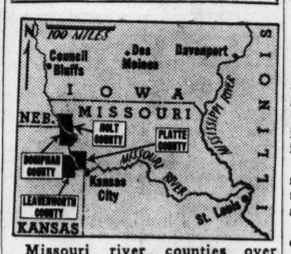
The rate of exchange for credit bank notes, it was announced, has been fixed on the basis of current quotations at one Dutch guilder for one mark and 50 pfennigs; and the Belgium and Luxemburg francs at 10 pfennigs [1-10 of a mark] and the French franc at five pfennigs.

AMERICA SAFE FROM INVASION, MEXICO IS TOLD

HERMOSILLO, Sonora, Mex., May 20 (AP).—The possibility of European aggression in the western hemisphere is "exaggerated," Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, pro-administration candidate for the presidency of Mexico, said today.

"I as a soldier can tell you that geographic conditions make a successful invasion impossible," he told cheering laborers and farmers who gathered at a political rally.

Boundary Disputed



Missouri river counties over which Missouri and Kansas are disputing.

Washington, May 20 (AP).—Kansas asked the Supreme court today for permission to file a bill of complaint against Missouri in a move to have the tribunal establish a boundary between the states.

The litigation is the result of shifting of the course of the Missouri river.

Changes in the river's course have given rise to disputes between states concerning the true boundary. The stream flows between Doniphan county, Kas., and Holt county, Mo., and between Leavenworth county, Kas., and Platte county, Mo.

Kansas told the court that because of the changes in the course of the river, Missouri had attempted to exercise control over tracts of land owned by Kansas since statehood.

FRANCE ORDERS WORKERS NOT TO ABANDON JOBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 20.—A warning to all French workers that they must not abandon their jobs until instructed to do so by civil or military authority was issued today from Prime Minister Paul Reynaud's office.

Severe penalties are provided for soldiers who desert their posts, said the communique, and these penalties are applicable to workers.

The communique said Germany, by circulating false news of the advance of her army, hopes to provoke the evacuation of industrial centers.

MAYOR TO SEEK COURTNEY AID IN MILK STRIKE

Conference on Settlement to Be Asked Today.

Mayor Kelly announced last night that he will ask State's Attorney Courtney to confer with him today in an effort to bring peace in Chicago's milk industry.

Leslie G. Goudie.

Courtney has made an exhaustive study of the problems involved in the present dispute, which already has halted most of the home deliveries and which threatens to shut off the store supply of milk. It is understood he will give the mayor the fullest coöperation.

Mayor Kelly made his announcement soon after Leslie G. Goudie had announced a plan for the striking drivers to go into the milk business for themselves. Goudie is head of the Teamsters' Joint council, with which the Milk Wagon Drivers' union is affiliated.

Seek Deliveries by Tomorrow.

He said the drivers would deliver milk to Chicago's homes at 10 cents a quart—3 cents below the present home delivery price. Goudie said he hoped to have the system in operation tomorrow.

The drivers' primary purpose, according to Goudie, is to keep their customers from transferring their business to neighborhood stores while the dispute is in progress. He said dairy farmers have promised ample supplies of milk.

Goudie's plan is this: The union will assemble a fleet of trucks to transport milk to the city. It will be taken directly to independent dairies which already have signed new wage contracts with the union. The union, calling upon the many truckmen in Goudie's teamsters' council, will supply enough trucks to distribute the milk.

Drivers to Ride in Pairs.

Striking drivers from rival firms will ride the trucks in pairs, seeing that milk is distributed to all their customers. The milk they distribute will be from the independent dairies coöperating with Goudie.

By this plan, Goudie said, drivers will be able to keep their wages up to the old levels—about $52 a week, including commissions. The drivers quit Sunday after the companies had sought to put into effect a new scale which the companies said would average $40 a week with commissions, and which the men said would average less.

The companies looked upon Goudie's plan as a threat intended to be used for bargaining purposes. They said lack of trucks and sufficient pasteurization plants would make it impracticable.

Plant Walkout Expected.

Other developments of the dispute, called a strike by the companies and a lockout by the drivers and inside workers:

Firemen, engineers, and oilers in the plants which have not signed new wage agreements at the old levels were to walk out at midnight. This meant no more milk could be handled in these plants and raised fears that supplies on hand might spoil if refrigeration systems are shut off.

Frank J. Gillespie, secretary-treasurer of the inside workers, said 89 of the city's 130 dealers had signed agreements. The big companies, however, had not signed.

Chief John Prendergast of the uniformed police assigned 59 squads to guard dairy plants and trucks against violence. Eighteen men were locked up in violence resulting from attempts to halt trucks bringing milk to Chicago from Wisconsin. Chief Deputy Sheriff Walter Atkinson drove 100 men out of Lake county on suspicion they meant to cause trouble over milk shipments.

Walter Dobroth, a driver, was recovering in the Belmont hospital last night from a bullet wound suffered early yesterday when pickets tried to halt milk trucks at Volo, in Lake county. Dobroth lives at 5541 Grace street. Other violence of the day included smashing of windows of shops which sell milk.

SUBWAY CUTTER PUSHES EARTH UP UNDER CAFE

Pressure caused by the subway "biscuit cutter," a giant shield boring southward beneath the west side of Dearborn street, yesterday caused the basement floor to push upward and a steel and concrete reinforced wall to crack and buckle in the Woods restaurant, in the basement at 158 North Dearborn street. More than 60 customers ran outside and escaped injury.

The restaurant ceiling cracked as the wall buckled, but an audience in the Woods theater upstairs was unaware of the disturbance.

R. A. Bonnell, who is in charge of tunnel construction for the city, and Elmer L. Clausen, head of an engineering firm in charge of structural examinations on subway work, both agreed that the "biscuit cutter" set up pressure in the underlying soil and caused the upheaval.

Snites Announce Expected Birth

YOUNG SNITES EXPECT A BABY IN SEPTEMBER

Man in Iron Lung Tells His Friends.

Frederick B. Snite Jr., who has spent most of the last four years in an "iron lung" since he was stricken with infantile paralysis, announced to friends yesterday that he and his wife, the former Teresa Larkin of Dayton, O., are expecting a child in September.

The announcement was contained in Back Talk, a mimeographed paper which he mails to several hundred friends. The paper was mailed from Snite's winter home in Miami Beach, Fla., on Saturday, and reached the addresses yesterday, according to Snite's father, Frederick Snite Sr., head of a Chicago loan company.

Uses "Junior Respirator."

Snite, who is now 29 years old, was stricken March 31, 1936, while traveling in China on a world tour. On Aug. 10 of last year he and Miss Larkin, then 25, were married in the Snite home in River Forest. Mrs. Snite attended Georgian Court school at Lakewood, N. Y., with Snite's sister, Mrs. Terrence J. Dillon, and first became acquainted with her husband about nine years ago.

Snite is unable to remain out of the "iron lung" for more than a few minutes without the aid of what he calls his "junior respirator," a portable breathing apparatus which covers only his chest.

Walks a Few Feet at a Time.

With the "junior respirator," however, he remains out of the lung for about six hours each day, according to his father. Occasionaly he walks a few feet, supported by nurses. A fortune has been spent on treatments for young Snite, whose condition is improving, altho slowly.

The paper, Back Talk, mentioned the arrival of babies of several couples who are friends of the young Snites. Then it referred to "the two legged bird expected by Tessie and Fred in September," and added that "God continues to shower us with all His choicest blessings, for which we are ever grateful."

Mr. Snite Sr. said the young people plan to remain in Florida until July 1.

Canada Will Issue War Savings Stamps as in '18

OTTAWA, Canada, May 20 [Special].—Canadians soon will be invited to purchase 25 cent war savings stamps to help finance the dominion's war effort. The stamps, similar to thrift stamps sold during the world war, will be on sale in postoffices, banks and chain stores. Twenty of them will be exchangeable for the $5 war savings certificates which will be issued shortly.

FIRE DAMAGES FACTORY.

Ten employes were driven to the street last night by fire which broke out in the Western Felt works at 4115 Orden avenue. Damage amounted to only $25.

OPENING OF WPA WEEK MARKED BY 4,300 IN CHICAGO

Approximately 600,000 workers on professional and service projects of the Work Projects administration gathered at dinners thruout the nation last night to celebrate the opening of "This Work Pays Your Community" week. The nation's largest single gathering was held at the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue, where 4,300 had box lunches and saw entertainment provided by WPA performers.

Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief administration, presided. Smaller meetings were held elsewhere in Chicago. The week is designed to acquaint the public with work being done on white collar WPA projects.

The feature of the evening was a radio broadcast from Washington, D. C. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, John M. Carmody, federal works administrator, F. C. Harrington, national WPA administrator, and Mrs. Florence Kerr, assistant WPA administrator, spoke on the broadcast, which was heard over the Mutual network and station W-G-N.

CITY TRACTION CONFEREES PLAN SECOND PARLEY

A conference yesterday of Mayor Kelly, the city's special subcommittee on traction, and transit lines negotiators ended with the agreement that the city group will meet by itself today. The city negotiators plan to meet again with transit lines representatives later in the week. Yesterday's discussion related to the inclusion of a forfeiture clause in the proposed new traction franchise and the city's proposal that the surface lines repave portions of streets occupied by tracks when street cars are removed and buses are installed.

The discussion of the forfeiture clause hinged on whether the city should have the right to demand forfeiture of the franchise with the surface lines having a right to contest such action in court, or whether the city should first be required to obtain a court order before demanding the forfeiture.

President Asks $475,000 for 2 World Expositions

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—Congress was requested today by President Roosevelt to appropriate $475,000 for federal participation in the New York World's fair and San Francisco exposition this year. Congress recently authorized federal participation in the two events, but made no appropriation. The President asked $200,000 for the San Francisco exposition and $275,000 for the New York fair.

WALLACE HINTS AT WAR POWERS NEW DEAL SEEKS

Warns Hearers Liberties May Be Sacrificed.

New York, May 20 [Special].—An indication that the New Deal may be considering asking for further dictatorial powers because of the threat of German militarism was seen today in an address of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

The secretary, speaking at a luncheon of Ivriah, the women's division of the Jewish Educational association, declared that "when democracy is threatened from time to time by a huge psychic entity like that of the imperial Prussian militaristic spirit it may be necessary to employ many of the weapons which we so heartily detest.

"Many individual rights," he said, "may have to be sacrificed for a time to the Democratic state in order to avoid the worse fate of being sacrificed to the imperialist state."

About 1,500 members of Ivriah heard the address which was entitled "The Jewish Heritage, and the Spirit of America."

Says Dictators Eye America.

Mr. Wallace warned that the dictators of Europe were eyeing America and that America's motto during these trying times should be "peace thru preparedness."

"To preserve our democracy, he continued, "we must realize that the dictators have definite designs on this hemisphere. Pan-America must stand on guard against both the desperate and ruthless. We must stand for peace in this hemisphere, but to make sure of that peace, we must be fully prepared."

Mr. Wallace hinted, however, that the real danger to the democracy of the United States may lie within the nation, but his reference was made only in passing to the possibility of a complete demolition of the totalitarian states within the next ten or twenty years accompanied by an even greater threat to democracy.

Says Peril Is Within.

"In the long run," he said, "the real peril to democracy is within our own nation, within our own groups, within our own hearts. It is quite possible that ten or twenty years hence the totalitarian states as we know them will be completely demolished and democracy will be even more threatened."

The present times call for a vast amount of spiritual fortitude, Mr. Wallace said.

"The struggle will be titanic and before we triumph, it will be necessary to summon every possible source of spiritual strength to give the necessary drive to our national strength."

Three Brothers Fight; Pistol Decides Battle

A week ago Andrew Gaydos, 22 years old, and his brother, Peter, 19, engaged in a fist fight in their home at 5338 South Hoyne avenue. Andrew fractured Peter's nose. Last night they resumed the fight in their home. This time, however, their older brother, Michael, 28, of 5418 South Damen avenue, was present. He joined the brawl to take Peter's part—with a revolver. He shot Andrew in the left arm. Police arrested the three fighting brothers.

Lilacs Blossom in Kankakee

Beatrice Dandurand among the lilac blossoms yesterday in Kankakee, Ill. Next Friday is the first 1940 Share Your Lilac day, when blossoms will be delivered to Chicago shut-ins.

Weather Helps

Lilac blossoms thruout Chicago opened more yesterday as balmy weather routed the chilly temperatures of the last week. In many places, especially in Kankakee county, the lilacs were in full splendor.

On Friday, May 24, and again on Tuesday, May 28, the lilacs will be distributed to the sick and shut-ins in city hospitals in the 12th annual "Share Your Lilacs" campaign.

The campaign is conducted by the Chicago Plant, Flower and Fruit guild and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Mrs. Stanley D. Grace of Highland Park is chairman of the guild general committee. The lilacs will be brought in by train and other conveyances and delivered by Tribune trucks, with clubwomen and other volunteers aiding in the direct distribution.

CHURCH LEADER WARNS BRITISH TEST HAS COME

LONDON, May 20 (AP).—The archbishop of Canterbury, writing in the Diocesan Gazette today, said "the real testing has come" to the English people.

"In spite of provocation which will be great," he said, "restrain the passions of war—righteous indignation is one thing, mere clamorous anger is another.

"Keep clear before your minds the hope of a peace which, because it is just, will be lasting, and in the final framing of which all nations shall have their part."

NANCY PUTS ON 500 POUNDS AND A MATERNAL AIR

A momentous event will take place at the Brookfield zoo this summer, probably in mid-August. Nancy, an elephant, has gained 500 pounds in preparation for it. She is going to have a baby.

If the zoo's astronomical and anatomical predictions are correct, the birth will take place around Aug. 12. By then, Nancy will have been waiting 19 months for her first child. However, she may have to wait as long as 22 months. Some elephants do.

Nancy, who now sways her 7,500 pounds about with a purely maternal air, is taking it calmly, Robert Bean, assistant director of the zoölogical park, said yesterday, but she is on an elephantine prenatal diet.

SEARLE QUIZZERS MAY ATTEMPT TO QUESTION HORNER

Procedure Hinted During Akers' Testimony.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 20.—A house committee appointed recently to investigate Illinois state house scandals and extravagances indicated tonight it will request a personal interview with the invalid Gov. Henry Horner. This intention was disclosed during the testimony of Milburn P. Akers, the governor's press agent, who has been described as the "voice of the sickbed regency."

"During the governor's prolonged sickness have you issued public statements in his name?" asked Representative Clinton Searle [R., Rock Island], chairman of the investigating committee.

"Only such statements as he authorized," Akers replied.

"In your opinion has he always been well enough to pass judgment on these statements?"

Not a Doctor, Says Akers.

"Is he well enough to answer questions of this committee?"

"In other words," interjected Representative Schaefer O'Neill [D., Alton], a friend of Lieut. Gov. John Stelle, "the governor is well enough to give you his judgment but not well enough to give this committee the benefit of his judgment?"

The question was unanswered.

"Who wrote the governor's message to the legislature?" O'Neill asked.

"I don't know," Akers replied. "I didn't write it. I know the governor worked on it."

O'Neill Gives Hint.

"Then you can't tell us how the governor expected us to provide money for old age assistance without passing additional taxes, or whether he expected us to raise old age pensions without imposing additional taxes?"

"No, sir."

"Well," concluded O'Neill, who is secretary of the committee, "we're going to find out what this is all about if we have to call upon the governor."

In its search for possible governmental economies so that old age assistance can be increased without additional taxation, the committee earlier today invited department heads to present any suggestions they might have on how they can cut expenses.

May Propose 10 Per Cent Cut.

There were predictions the committee, with Republicans in the majority, might recommend a straight 10 per cent reduction in state expenditures during the remainder of a budgetary biennium ending on July 1, 1941.

An increase in the old age assistance from $30 to $40 a month, to get the maximum from the government's 50 per cent contribution, will raise state expenditures between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000 a year. Finance Director Samuel L. Nudelman has testified that were departments to spend $10,000,000 less than their budgets, there would still be a deficit of $5,700,000 on next July 1, with no allowance for shrinkage in revenue.

Both houses of the legislature will convene tomorrow morning after a week-end recess. The Horner-Nash-Kelly constituents are expected to continue their efforts to abbreviate this special session before the investigation develops any deeper in the scandals of the sick room regency. What direction these efforts will take was speculative.

FATHER, 90, HELD IN SLAYING OF STEPSON'S WIFE

Wauseon, O., May 20 [Special].—Hiram Derby, 90 years old, is under guard in a hospital where he confessed today that he shot and killed his stepson's wife, Mrs. Florrie Whitcomb, 32, last night. Derby told Sheriff Harley Loveland and Coroner H. W. Warner of Fulton county, that the shooting was the result of a family quarrel at the Whitcomb farm home, seven miles northeast of Wauseon.

According to Whitcomb, his stepfather lived with them until a few weeks ago, when he left after a quarrel. He said Derby, a retired railroad conductor, returned yesterday and another argument ensued. Derby struck the Whitcomb child with his cane and Mrs. Whitcomb ordered him to leave, Whitcomb said.

Derby went to his car, obtained a revolver, and shot Mrs. Whitcomb three times. Whitcomb ran to his wife's aid and Derby shot at him. Whitcomb said he knocked the gun from Derby's hand and the older man attempted to stab him with a knife. Whitcomb then knocked Derby down and carried his wife into the house.

Envoy Cromwell Says He Will Quit Job Tomorrow

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—James H. R. Cromwell, United States minister to Canada, said today he would submit his resignation to President Roosevelt Wednesday. Cromwell is unopposed for the Democratic senatorial nomination in the New Jersey primary. He called on White House officials today and said he was leaving for New Jersey tonight. Cromwell said he had no idea who might succeed him at Ottawa.

Seeking Divorce

[TRIBUNE Photo.]
Mrs. Marion Taylor Hutton.

A young woman who was married when she was only 14 years old to a man 27 years her senior tearfully pleaded with Judge Rudolph Desort yesterday for a divorce. She is Mrs. Marion Taylor Hutton, now 17, who met and married Carl J. Hutton, 44, an attorney, in 1937 when he was preparing a divorce suit for her mother.

Carl J. Hutton.

"I never really loved him," Mrs. Hutton sobbed. "I didn't know what love was. We've had all sorts of misunderstandings." Hutton told the court he loved his wife and wanted her back, but she cried, "I'll never go back to him."

Judge Desort set May 27 for a hearing on Mrs. Hutton's petition for temporary alimony and directed that Hutton should file an answer in five days if his attempts at a reconciliation are unsuccessful. Mrs. Hutton lives with her mother at 9307 81st avenue, Palos Park.

LAWYERS' VOTE BACKS ELDER IN JUDGE ELECTION

Count Has No Effect on June 3. Plans.

In the opinion of the members of the Chicago Bar association, Edgar B. Elder, Republican nominee, is better qualified to fill the Graber vacancy in the Municipal court than George L. Quilici, his Democratic opponent.

Ballots mailed in a bar primary on this office were counted yesterday and showed 1,246 votes for Elder and 743 for Quilici. The sentiment, therefore, was divided by better than 3 to 2 for Elder. There were 2,001 ballots mailed to the association, but 12 were rejected because that many members failed to inclose their confidential signature slips.

No Effect on Election.

The result was considered decisive but the two candidates immediately indicated that it will have no effect on the election on June 3. Elder had challenged Quilici to enter into an agreement that the loser in a bar primary would withdraw, but Quilici, confident of his election, ignored the dare.

The original contention was that the elimination of one of the nominees would save Chicago taxpayers $300,000 by permitting the election board to limit the number of polling places to 640. Since then the board has announced it will go ahead with this economy plan even with two nominees in the race.

Elder's Determination Strengthened.

Elder, after the results of the bar primary became known, refused an opportunity to advance a contention that, because of the figures, Quilici should take his name off the June ballot. His statement was brief.

"The vote strengthens my own determination to continue as a candidate," he said.

Quilici issued a statement which read, in part:

"In the primary today fewer than 2,000 of the 11,000 lawyers in Chicago cast ballots. In the primary election on April 9, altho I had five opponents, I received approximately 325,000 votes. Mr. Elder, with but one opponent received only 170,000 votes. Naturally I feel confident of the outcome of the election on June 3."

DOUBT IS RAISED ON LA FOLLETTE VICTORY IN 1940

Attitude of Roosevelt on Senator to Be Vital.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., May 20.—Senator Robert M. La Follette's announcement he would run for reelection as a Progressive has silenced guessing as to whether he might enter the Democratic primary as a candidate, but has raised the question of whether he will not have a much harder time winning than he did six years ago.

Senator La Follette's announcement was made yesterday at the Wisconsin Rapids sixth birthday celebration of the Progressives. He also declared that altho he is strong for adequate American defense he would never vote to send American boys to fight overseas.

The declaration on the war policy was not the unreserved indorsement of the New Deal and President Roosevelt that Wisconsin Democrats would have liked to have heard. It was interpreted variously today.

Aided by Roosevelt in 1934.

Senator La Follette declared for a joint congressional committee to sit with technical experts to study the problem of defense. "The taxpayers and congress are entitled to know the present state of our national defense," he said.

The Democratic primary nominee six years ago was John M. Callahan, leader of the Al Smith Democrats and a wholehearted anti-New Dealer. It was during this campaign that Senator La Follette rode thru Wisconsin with President Roosevelt and received the presidential blessing in speeches here and in Green Bay. The President's indorsement swung enough Democratic votes to elect Senator La Follette and to carry his brother, Philip, into the governor's office on his coat tail.

New Deal Candidate Likely.

This year the Democrats are likely to have a New Deal candidate for the senate rather than one indorsed by the old line party members. Edward P. Curry, vice chairman of the Keller-Curry party organization group, said today there is growing sentiment in favor of Cornelius Young, state senator and former speaker of the assembly. Young was elected 5th district delegate to the national convention on the party organization Roosevelt ticket.

Whether the President would let his personal liking for La Follette lead him again to indorse the Progressive over a candidate who had been a loyal New Dealer or whether the President still feels as close to the La Follettes as he did six years ago are questions that will be asked continually until the fall election or until the President gives evidence one way or another. Without the President's aid there is a general opinion La Follette will be beaten.

State Strongly Isolationist.

The assumption has been that Wisconsin is a strong isolationist state. Both Wisconsin senators and all the state's congressmen voted against the repeal of the neutrality act. The Democrats contend that the vote for Roosevelt in the presidential primary was proof that it is a Roosevelt rather than an isolationist state. Senator La Follette, in his unqualified declaration against American participation in a foreign war, apparently felt Wisconsin voters will let no personal loyalty overcome their determination not to enter a foreign war.

Reuben W. Peterson, chairman of the public service commission, said today at Madison he was considering becoming a candidate for the Republican nomination for the senate. He has been indorsed by the Green Lake county Republican organization. He was Republican floor leader in the assembly at the last session.

Vote to Name a Dam After the Late Henry T. Rainey

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—The house passed and sent to the White House today a bill authorizing the designation of a lock and dam on the Mississippi river at Alton, Ill., as the Henry T. Rainey dam in honor of the late speaker of the house, an Illinoisan.

WIFE WILL GET FIFTH OF BRAND'S COIN COLLECTION

After months of litigation, the divorce case of Mrs. Erna Brand against her husband, Horace L. Brand, has been settled, it was announced yesterday in the court of Judge Rudolph Desort. Brand is the former publisher of the Illinois Staats Zeitung.

A signed agreement presented by both litigants to Judge Desort disclosed that Brand has agreed to give his wife one-fifth of his valuable coin collection, valued at between 3 and 5 million dollars, their home at 37 East Cedar street, other property on the south side on which there is a $50,000 mortgage, and half of his library of rare books.

Judge Desort directed Attorney Robert C. Cantwell, for Mrs. Brand, to draw up an amended complaint for an uncontested divorce and appear for final hearing today.

TWO GO ON TRIAL FOR SOUTH BEND STREET JOB PLOT

South Bend, Ind., May 20 [Special].—Seventeen months and a day after the indictment was returned, the conspiracy trial of J. C. Weer, street commissioner under the Freyermuth administration, and Jay S. Rose, supplies dealer, opened today in Circuit court with Special Judge Aldo J. Simpson of Goshen presiding.

After Judge Simpson overruled defense motions for discharge of the defendants under the three term statute, defense counsel began examining prospective jurors. Attorneys said it may take several days to pick the jury. The trial may last three weeks.

UTILITY BOMBER GETS SENTENCE OF 2 TO 14 YEARS

South Bend, Ind., May 20 [Special].—Frank S. Lung, 25 years old, of South Bend, was sentenced today to 2 to 14 years in the Indiana reformatory at Pendleton for the rôle he admitted playing in the dynamiting of Indiana and Michigan Electric company power line towers and poles.

Lung, who refused to testify for the state in the conspiracy trial of John A. Marks, Michigan City labor leader, is one of the two men who pleaded guilty to criminal charges in connection with the bombings.

Parrish E. Freeman, 31, of Joliet, Ill., is the other. He has not yet been sentenced. Freeman was the state's key witness in the Marks trial, which ended in acquittal. Marks is still charged with conspiracy and with violation of the federal anti-racketeering laws.

Falling Boom Injures Head of Stone Concern

Charles Laing, 62 years old, president of the Laing & Sons Granite company, 7055 South Chicago avenue, was injured seriously yesterday when he was struck by a falling derrick boom in a building at 237 South La Salle street, which is being repaired. At St. Luke's hospital physicians said he suffered a possible skull fracture.

The Milkman's Story

Have you ever been faced with the terrifying necessity of readjusting your standard of living over night to meet an $18 cut from your weekly basic wage?

That is exactly what happened to the union milk wagon driver on May 19th. When he arrived at the dairy that morning, ready to serve you as usual, he was greeted by a notice to that effect.

When, at 1 a. m. Sunday morning, Mr. L. G. Goudie, president of the joint council, was informed of the action taken by the dealers, he located Mr. Paul Potter, the dealers' representative, at the Union League Club and asked for an immediate conference, expressing his opinion that a lockout could be averted. Mr. Potter replied: "We don't believe a meeting would avail anything."

This is not the first time that dealers have refused to listen to the drivers and their suggestions. In a recent statement, published by the dealers, they say: "What we are trying to accomplish is a less expensive delivery service for our customers which will support a fair wage for our employes." To this we say that in our negotiations our committee agreed on a proposition which would virtually cut distribution costs substantially. The dealers turned it down.

As a matter of fact, every published statement put out by the dealers' association contains obvious misstatements as to the Milkman's weekly wage. Few, indeed, are the men who get anywhere near these sums, due to credit losses, sales taxes, commodity losses, book shortages, cut rate competition from stores and many other expenses, all of which substantially reduce the milkman's income.

Overnight Chicago's milkmen are faced with the specter of sharply reduced wages, the necessity of moving into still cheaper flats, the loss of insurance protection for wife and family, and all the other important little things that make up the wholesome American standard of living.

Actually, only a small group of milk dealers in this community are tieing up the distribution of milk and thereby disregarding the milk needs of the public by locking out their union drivers.

Realizing the needs of the milkmen, and fully cognizant of the health requirements of the community, 88 companies have kept their men working and today are delivering milk throughout the Chicago area. If your supply has been cut off consult the list below:

RAP LA FOLLETTE BILL AS 'TROJAN HORSE' SHIELD

Foes Assail Provisions to Hamstring Business.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—The La Follette labor practices bill was denounced in senate debate today as a measure to extend government protection to communistic Trojan horse activities and other lawless conspiracies. The measure will be laid aside, at least temporarily, tomorrow.

Senator Wiley.

Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, a supporter of the bill, said it would have to be sidetracked to make way for the 1 billion 821 million dollar war department appropriation bill. The senate is expected to pass the La Follette bill, but informed members of the house assert the rules committee will block it in that body.

Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, author of the drastic bill, was encouraged last week by administration leaders to bring it before the senate in order to head off the Walter-Logan bill.

May Serve New Deal Purpose.

Thus even if the La Follette scheme dies in the house, it may serve the purpose of killing the Walter-Logan bill in the senate. The latter measure, which passed the house by a 3 to 1 vote, is intended to halt the usurpation of authority by federal administrative agencies.

Senator Alexander Wiley [R., Wis.] told the senate that the bill sponsored by his radical colleague would protect communistic and Nazi fifth column activities in American industry and endanger not only the proposed national defense program, but the safety of the country.

Product of C. I. O. Pressure.

The La Follette bill is the product of the so-called civil liberties subcommittee, which was created at the behest of John L. Lewis and which conducted a four year inquisition into the affairs of industrial employers opposed by the C. I. O.

Industrial leaders contend that the La Follette bill goes far beyond the Wagner labor relations act in hamstringing employers. Since the Wagner act prohibits any interference with union activities, they maintain there is no justification for the La Follette proposal.

The bill would prevent employers from hiring any one to report upon the membership or activities of any labor union; would prevent the hiring of strike breakers or the employment of armed private guards, regardless of whether they held a lawful commission as peace officers.

Senator Wiley said it would prevent employers from making any investigation to ascertain whether there were foreign spies, communist or Nazi saboteurs, or racketeers among their employés.

FOUNTAIN TURNED ON FOR SEASON'S OPENING DISPLAY

The Clarence Buckingham fountain at the foot of Congress street in Grant park was turned on for the season yesterday. Free displays will be seen by the public from 4 to 6 p. m. and 9 to 9:30 p. m. each day until Sept. 7. During the remainder of September the evening water rainbows will be shown from 8:30 to 9 p. m.

The fountain, which surpasses the famous Fountain of Latonia at Versailles, France, in size, hydraulics, and color, was given to the city by the late philanthropist, Miss Kate Buckingham, in memory of her brother. It was erected at a cost of $500,000 and was dedicated Aug. 26, 1927.

The memorial is maintained and operated in perpetuity by the park district thru a trust fund of approximately $300,000 established by Miss Buckingham. The annual cost is about $14,000.

HOW THIS CHART HELPS YOU SPOT THE "PACK"

- ✓ Know what you're paying;
- ✓ Know what you're getting;
- ✓ See the value in the car;
- ✓ See all items in the price.

The old army game in this business is for the buyer to play one dealer against another to push up the trade-in allowance. Does it pay? Does the man who makes such a deal get the new car he really wanted in the first place? Does he get the car that represents the best value for his money? Indeed, does he get as much as he thinks for his used car?

The answer is—usually not.

For the dealer who wants to do business that way can easily add something in on the new-car price to make up for a padded trade-in allowance.

That's called "packing" in the trade and everyone agrees it's bad practice in the long run.

It makes you think you are getting a better deal—but doesn't reduce the money difference you actually pay out.

Our way of opposing the "pack" is through the "plainview" price charts, displayed on our showroom walls, and the price tags on all cars displayed.

You can see the price of the car itself—the charge for transportation from factory to you, based on rail rates—our charge for whatever extra equipment you may elect to buy.

Nothing is hidden or obscure; all charges are plainly in view.

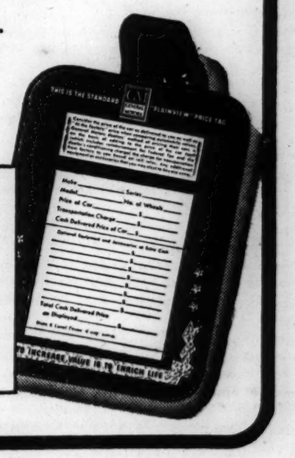
You see what you pay and you see what you get. You buy the car you really want—on value and not on an inflated trade-in allowance.

That lets you buy better. Come in and learn how it all works.



This is the standard price tag used by General Motors dealers to show what makes up the prices of new cars delivered to customers. "PRICE OF CAR" means the price we charge for the car itself, including reimbursement for Federal Tax and conditioning—"TRANSPORTATION CHARGE" means a charge for transportation from factory to you, based on rail rates—"OPTIONAL EQUIPMENT AND ACCESSORIES" means the charge for any extra equipment or accessories you elect to buy.

BEFORE YOU BUY, BE SURE THE FINANCE CHARGES SATISFY YOU

CRIPPLED INDUSTRY AND 50,000 WAR PLANES.

The United States is a great industrial nation. It is not a great military nation. Collectively we regard ourselves as great soldiers, just as individually our more adventurous spirits, gathered in barrooms, regard themselves as expert pugilists. There is just about as much ground for the first conclusion as for the second. We have fought all our wars the hard way, learning to fight after the fighting started, and no amount of warning from our military experts has ever broken that habit.

But we are a great industrial nation. When President Roosevelt urged in his message to congress that our industry be geared up to produce 50,000 airplanes a year, adding that we ought to plan an air force of 50,000 planes, the unthinking could almost see the 50,000 planes in the air at once. Was this not a task for invincible American industry?

It may be that American industry can be geared up to produce 50,000 planes a year. Whether it can achieve the President's goal and at the same time produce the myriad other articles essential to defense is another question. It is almost certain that the production of the planes alone would require radical rearrangement of our present industrial plant and would take a considerable time—perhaps several years.

There are great technical difficulties to be overcome. The American people are convinced of the magic of mass production, but they have little idea of what mass production really means. Mass production is possible only after long and painstaking accumulation of great batteries of automatic machinery to turn out the interchangeable parts on which mass production depends.

Those machines are not made by mass production. They are made, for the most part, by hand, and they require highly skilled mechanics to make them. Those who think it will be an easy task to triple the capacity of our aviation industry, which is the minimum expansion necessary to achieve President Roosevelt's goal of an annual plane capacity of 50,000, should read Ray Milholland's description of the present status of the American machine tool industry in the current Saturday Evening Post.

These technical obstacles can be overcome, and will be, altho it may take a longer time than the nation now thinks. But it is not technical obstacles alone that hamper the industrial machine of the United States. Its greatest handicap is that Franklin D. Roosevelt has been President for more than seven years.

Whatever the President and his appointees have done to waste the 8½ billion dollars that has been appropriated for defense during that period, the damage has been insignificant beside what they have done to the industrial machine that is the real backbone of our defense.

Unemployment, prolonged and promoted for political gain, has greatly reduced the force of skilled mechanics. Skilled men have died, have lost their skill by unemployment, have been forced into other occupations, and meanwhile there has been virtually no training of apprentices in the metal crafts.

Factory equipment has become obsolete. The prolonged depression has given no incentive to replace it and companies that have sought to do so have been deterred by punitive taxes.

The administration has supported by every resource at its command the organization campaign of the C. I. O., which has placed communists in control of the labor in key industries, including aviation, motors, and steel. President Roosevelt may have to ask Stalin's permission to expand the airplane plants.

Henrik Willem Van Loon, the Dutch-American author, resigned from a New York club the other day because, he says, during a discussion of Fifth columns his fellow author and club member, Clarence Budington Kelland, said, "Our Fifth column is in the White House."

Whether Mr. Kelland said it we do not know, but the reasons for such a statement are apparent to any one willing to look for them. If, from the day they sent the NRA bill to congress to the present, Mr. Roosevelt and the fellow travelers had worked deliberately to cripple the industrial system on which American defense depends they could not have acted more effectively than they have.

THE MILK CRISIS.

Violence and bloodshed have made their appearance in the controversy between the dairy companies and the milk drivers' union. With many of the facts in dispute, probably nothing is to be gained at this point by attempting to assess the blame for the breaking off of negotiations and the resumption of open hostilities. If the facts were all known it might be possible to say that the companies were solely responsible, or the union, or to conclude that they shared the blame.

But we do know that milk is being fed to the hogs on the farms instead of to the children of Chicago, and farmers and consumers are both suffering. They far outnumber the persons directly engaged in the controversy over union wages. As long as the strike or lockout goes on this injury to wholly innocent persons will continue.

In the circumstances, the people of Chicago are justified in expecting their elected officials to intervene on their behalf and force a prompt resumption of milk deliveries. Mr. Courtney was successful in bringing about a truce a few weeks ago and it is to be expected that he and Mayor Kelly will act with vigor this time.

AND NOW OREGON.

Oregon is another state in which the primaries have disclosed a substantial improvement in Republican prospects. Returns from about three-quarters of the precincts show that Senator McNary, running as a favorite son on the Republican ticket, polled a substantially larger vote than did Mr. Roosevelt on the Democratic ticket and, in fact, got almost as many votes as Roosevelt and Garner together. As the Garner vote is an expression of opposition to the New Deal, the prospect of a Republican victory in Oregon in November can be regarded as good.

Even more striking as an evidence of popular temper was the vote in a number of counties on the proposal to set up municipally owned utility districts for the distribution of power from the government's Columbia river projects. Portland is to Bonneville as Knoxville is to TVA, but Portland voted 2 to 1 against introducing any competition for its two private utility companies. Three other Oregon counties voted similarly against public competition with existing private utilities, and only in a fifth county, where the vote was close, did the collectivists appear to have the lead.

This must have distressed the New Dealers considerably. For one thing, it will make it difficult for them to bludgeon private capital into the forced sale of its facilities at sacrifice prices. For another, it indicates that the people are not nearly as enthusiastic for government in business as the New Dealers seem to think. If far westerners, who are supposed to be peculiarly receptive to this kind of thing, turn it down by substantial majorities, the prospect of a return to sanity and respect for the rights of private investors can be regarded as materially improved.

Some people place great store by the straw votes taken from time to time in the effort to determine the state of public opinion. Whatever the worth of these samplings may be, it is insignificant in comparison with the actual determination of public opinion in the primaries. These have been fairly consistent in northern and western states in disclosing substantial Republican gains and substantial losses for the New Deal. As an indicator of trend the Oregon primary may be particularly important, for it was held after the outbreak of hostilities on the western front. Evidently Mr. Roosevelt's edging toward intervention has not turned the tide which began to run against the New Deal in the 1938 congressional elections and is still gaining momentum.

THE FIFTH COLUMN HERE.

While the third termers talk of national defense in Washington they are harboring aliens, radical enemies of the existing order, and communist saboteurs not only on the government pay roll but in industries and services upon which the country is dependent. Nearly every country in Europe took alarm when the Fifth column arose in the Netherlands to meet the Nazi invaders. No internal enemy has been removed from a place of vantage here.

Harry Bridges, communist in everything but name, remains in control of west coast shipping and as a consultant of the labor board. That is to the satisfaction of Mme. Perkins who kept him there but it would scare any one responsible for military services on the Pacific side. John Lewis allowed communist activists to go into the major industries along with his C. I. O. organizers and they are still there where they can wreck tools and tie up production at a word from Moscow headquarters. It would be obeyed instantly.

There is another section of the Fifth column in this country which is trying to wreck the peace. It consists of those American citizens whose hearts are in foreign countries and who use their American citizenship to help the land of their choice at the sacrifice of the land in which they live. Many of these internal enemies in the various sections are political allies of the third termers. They trade support for protection, an alliance which the American people cannot afford to ignore. They must rally in self-defense.

Editorial of the Day

[Baltimore Sun.]

Not even the wage-hour division of the labor department argues that the movies are a submarginal industry. There are in the studios few pathetic sweatshop workers dragging out an existence at less than subsistence wages. Everything being relative, there are doubtless Hollywoodians who mope because they lack a second yacht. But the congress did not have such hardships primarily in mind when it passed the wage and hour act.

The wage and hour act applies, nevertheless, to a good deal of Hollywood. It is not so much the 30 cents an hour minimum pay rule that hurts as the provision holding hours to 42 a week. Like all artistic endeavor, the business of movie making is not yet wholly domesticated to routine. Hours are long one week and short the next; but when they are long the statute requires payment of time-and-a-half, which can run into money.

It is because there are obvious infelicities here that the wage-hour division now announces a resurvey of the "professional" and "executive" categories among the studio employés. This is now planned as merely part of a wider study of the whole question of professionals and executives in every line of business. For the fact is that congress meant primarily to legislate for low-paid workers lacking even union protection and so in special danger of exploitation by the little minority of predatory sweatshop employers.

The definitions of exempt classes were so vaguely drawn, however, that thousands of executive and professional workers are actually drawn under the act. By defining the two terms more closely the wage-hour administration now proposes to exempt these thousands and narrow the act to a sharper focus on its true task—the protection of the marginal worker. To be sure, there are certain overtones to this proposal not altogether pleasing to thoughtful students of government. Amendments aimed at just this refocusing were defeated in the congress. Now, despite the refusal of congress to legislate, it looks as tho the administrator proposes to go ahead and legislate anyhow. This technical question in the delegation of powers aside, there is no doubt that the redefinition now contemplated is a crying need.

LA VIE MILITAIRE.

Weygand now pitching for Gamelin, with the bases loaded. Too old at 73? Blücher was exactly that age when he brought his Prussians to the field of Waterloo in answer to Wellington's prayer.

* * *

Two days before, at the battle of Ligny, the old field marshal had been caught in a cavalry charge, unhorsed, and bashed severely. But he came up fighting and yelling "Vorwärts." His bruises were so painful that, as he drove the French armies back toward Paris, he swore he would blow up the Pont de Iena when he got there. This bridge commemorates a great victory of Napoleon over the Prussians. Wellington calmed him down, with difficulty.

* * *

Did you hear Maj. Eliot, radio military expert, saying that Gen. Weygand's family history was obscure, but that it was said he had a royal, possibly a Napoleonic ancestry? Thus the influence of the gossip columns is felt even in historical catastrophes. But if Weygand's alleged heredity comes from Napoleon III., one could not call it an auspicious military omen.

* * *

No matter how glittering Weygand's ancestry, you may be sure that he is not a member of "café society." A French general's salary is 10,000 francs a year, or about $200 a month in our money.

* * *

The American press always speaks of St. Cyr, alma mater of Weygand and Gamelin, as "the" French military academy. It is the traditional school for infantry and cavalry officers, but if your ambition is for the artillery or the engineers you go to the Ecole Polytechnique.

THE MASTER BUILDER.

The mallet on the marble harshly sounds,
The clang of iron rings heavy on the ear,
The odor of laborious sweat abounds,
Plaster is crumbling there and scantlings here;
But steadily the tower is being reared
With massive columns, porticos and stairs,
Odd coigns to be admired or to be feared,
Dungeons of mud lit up by lurid flares.

One superhuman workman tugs and strains
And quarries from his own volcanic mind
The tonnage for the citadel, with pains
To house the Comedy of Humankind.
O, silhouetted tower against the sky,
Long will it be ere you in ruins lie!

Typographical Error on a Sun Dial?

No matter what the experts in Scotch dialect may say, the inscription on the sun dial on the University of Illinois campus [May 9 and 14] reads:

"Take tent o' time ere time be tent." [Sharpshooters claim that the last "tent" should be "tint."]

Charles E. Janvrin, who has spent more than 25 years near that sun dial and who recently took a fresh look at it, testifies to this effect. We suggest that a commission of literary Scots, composed of "M'Tavish," the Line poet; Robert Ross, British consul in Chicago, and President Franklyn Bliss Snyder of Northwestern, a Robert Burns expert, go down to Urbana and straighten matters out.

An "Old Heidelberg" Echo.

The lyrics of some of the songs of the former German student corps ["Student Prince" broadcast, May 17] were a curious mixture of German and Latin, sort of "schoenste lengewitch" compositions. One, comparing other girls with the innkeeper's daughter, had the refrain:

Doch keine ist equalis der filia hospitalis.

Those billions went for dams and doles

They try to scare the rest of us

A Walk on South State Street.

When the cold, unfriendly ways of the city become too depressing, take a walk some warm evening along South State street. You'll see poverty and shabbiness, but you'll not mind them any more than the happy folk of Darktown do. You'll find every door open and every light burning as the neighbors come out to greet each other. Every one knows every one else, and their whole souled laughter will thaw even your allen heart.

The stores are crowded, with those come to visit as much as to indulge in hot fish, hamburgers, or haircuts. There are two ornately named churches in old stores in each block, and as you pass you'll hear singing and shouts of praise that ring with sincerity. The little children are playing everywhere underfoot, enjoying themselves hugely; and as you go home you may remember that after all they are the ones who may enter the Kingdom, and somehow find your courage renewed. WHY TEETH DECAY.

SOME of us are considerably disturbed because numerous dental cavities may require constant attention. A patient frequently inquires, "Why do I have more trouble than my sister or brother?" Despite the fact that boatloads of manuscripts have been written upon this subject, we are still at a loss to explain all the "whys."

In order to understand what goes on when decay occurs we should recall that the enamel or outer covering is the hardest substance in the body. It is composed largely of calcium and phosphorus plus a very small fraction of organic matter. Beneath this is the so-called dentine which also consists of these elements but, in addition, a far larger percentage of soft material. In the center of each tooth there is a hollow space wherein nerve tissues and blood vessels are housed.

How can infection penetrate the enamel? Many opinions have been set forth, but all the theories, together with the facts advanced in their support, have failed to give a clear picture of the exact machinery of the process. Nowadays research workers may be divided into two classes: those who believe that diet is the determining factor and those who feel that tooth environment is responsible. Perhaps neither is entirely correct. Eventually we may learn that each is off the track and that a third or fourth condition plays the major rôle.

Extensive studies have shown that individuals who are extremely susceptible to cavities exhibit highly acid areas between the teeth and about the gums. In some cases this is enough to dissolve calcium and phosphorus. It follows naturally that whenever this product comes into contact with the enamel some tiny break in its surface may allow it to act. How is this dissolver [acid] produced? There are certain bacteria constantly present in the mouth which, working upon starches and sugars, manufacture chemicals powerful enough to destroy bone. Dentists have long suggested that susceptible persons decrease their consumption of carbohydrates and, with many, marked improvement has been observed.

Concerning the belief that diet and general health are the prime motivating influences, we must consider the resistance of the body as a whole, including foci of infection which lower reserve. Normal well being may be depleted because of poorly balanced meals and some derangement may show itself in the character of the saliva. Needed minerals must be available in the edibles so that the "ivories" will not be drawn upon to meet demands made by other parts of the body. In addition, many investigators have proved that the teeth of experimental animals will undergo rapid destruction if the menus provided are deficient in phosphorus and vitamin D.

Foods that are too highly refined or that are predigested may be short of bone making essentials. English authorities, for some years, have been emphasizing rather strongly a reduction in the amount of cereals fed to infants on the ground that grains contain a principle that neutralizes vitamin D. Perhaps this contention has not been completely substantiated. At any rate the rule should be that when cereals are used freely vitamin D [cod liver oil] may be supplied and outdoor play encouraged.

What can we do toward prevention? Certainly we are not called upon to take sides on the question but we may adopt both points of view and see if they cannot aid us. We can keep the structures and their crevices clean and we can make sure that our nutriment does not include too many soft articles or an overabundance of cereals. In turn, it can be adequate in calcium, phosphorus, and vitamin D. It is also most important that we do not allow our sugar and starch rations to mount to improper proportions. If there is a definite tendency to cavities it would probably be well to eliminate all concentrated sweets—at least for a time.

Finally, we can visit the dentist at intervals to have our molars polished and inspected, as a clean tusk is far less likely to yield to caries.

ABOUT THE SAME.

PROBATE FOR TITLE.

Hinsdale, Ill., May 15 [Legal Friend of the People].—I wonder if you could please give me some information on the following.

My mother passed on a year ago, but my father is still living. He has real estate which he wants us to have but does not seem to want to go to the trouble of making out a will. He owns a three-story building and there are three children. He says if he passes on and we do not sell the building—just live there—he does not have to make a will. We all agree not to sell it, but some people tell us if there is no will the court appoints an administrator. He says that is not so.

1. Who is right?

When there is no will [2] can the children take over the property if they all agree on everything? J. D.

1. The preference of the heirs as to the selection of the administrator would control. 2. Yes, but probate would be necessary in order to produce a readily salable title.

RISES TO A POINT OF ORDER.

Chicago, May 17.—Just another little point of order: If The Tribune is trying to keep us out of war why in thunder does it allow its editors to write such unneutral and damaging remarks as today's editorial, "Why the Bridge Wasn't Held," which says: "Hitler and his government are so universally detested in this country that it is hard for Americans to recognize," etc. If that sort of talk is keeping us on a neutral path I'm crazy.

Some of you editorial writers imagine yourselves to be leaders of wholesome thought, while you are digging the graves of some of the very ideals you are trying to promote. G. F. S.

"OLD BALONEY"—THE BLANK CHECK.

Kewanee, Ill., May 18.—Mr. Roosevelt has at last acknowledged the airplanes are necessary to our national defense.

Last month he was prating about the value of cruisers and other ships of war. Now he wants 50,000 planes per year, but the old bologna crops out—a blank check.

We want Rickenbacker or some equally competent men to spend this money that will be appropriated. Get this plane building out of politics.

Give Roosevelt another blank check and he will have Bridges, Perkins, Lewis, and Ickes, as well as other pals of the same color, boondoggling in the plane industry.

Charles Williams.

WHAT SOME NATIONS FORGOT.

Forest Park, Ill., May 16.—To their sorrow four or five nations forgot that this is the Machine Age. Too late they have discovered that the armies of this new era are ah invulnerable horde when backed by mechanized units. A thousand men operating motorized units, shooting antiaircraft guns, and flying bombers or pursuit planes are worth more than a hundred thousand men equipped with old-fashioned weapons of World War I.

World War III., if there is any world left after the present war, will no doubt be fought with mechanical men and will be called the War of the Robots, having reached an almost esthetical state of purified mechanized warfare, with operations placed on a remote control basis.

Gerald Sohl.

HE FEARS THE WORST.

Chicago, May 16.—As one who has consistently maintained that one of the best ways of defending ourselves is by helping the allies with everything short of war, I note with interest your editorial "Mexico Is Our Exposed Flank." At long last you admit the weakness of the isolationist viewpoint.

When, for lack of American planes, the British navy has been captured or sunk and the French army has been shattered, the boastful Nazis will have the free run of the western hemisphere, and it will not be in our power, alone, or together with the weak South American countries, to stop their deadly espionage, sabotage, and militarism. Joseph J. Abbell.

THE MAN OF 40.

Chicago, May 13.—It is indeed refreshing to read D. B. D.'s letter championing the cause of the man of 40.

My case is perhaps typical of many: I am 40, intelligent, aggressive, and resourceful, but I find it extremely difficult to connect simply because "You are too old."

I agree with D. B. D. that obtaining unemployment compensation is distasteful to any one anxious to work. Len W.

NOT AMONG OUR ADMIRERS.

Chicago, May 17.—It must make the devil in hell sneer when you talk about our national defense—you, who for years have been publishing slurs and foul lies about conditions in the nation. You have published them for the aid, information, and guidance of Hitler, whose stool pigeon you are. S. H. Wilson.

AMERICANS NOT COWARDS.

Chicago, May 18.—Replying to the letter in the Voice of the People, "Finds Us a Nation of Cowards," I want to say:

America is not a nation of cowards. We are a civilized people, peace-loving individuals.

We Americans love America and everything that America stands for. Why should our young men go to foreign lands to fight? Didn't the last war leave enough wrecked lives?

We must have the strongest army, navy, and air force in order to protect ourselves in case some foreign nation tries to destroy us. We must defend ourselves, but we must not throw ourselves into a foreign war.

Young Americans, you who were born during the last war, as I was, who are soldiers of today and the fathers and mothers of the children of tomorrow, be courageous enough to stand for peace, for peace is civilization and we are a civilized people. Mary Kostial.

[The Tribune acknowledges receipt of numerous other letters replying to the charge that we are "a nation of cowards."]

PUTS US IN OUR PLACE.

Chicago, May 17.—The constantly changing viewpoints of your editorial staff approaches the ridiculous. About a month ago the announcement that the President was planning for an army of one million was met with the remark that it was an expeditionary force. Today you took another slam at him because the defense was below par. Evidently you would rather be right than be President. Why don't you stop talking like an old fogy about things such as military measures which you know nothing about?

Mr. J. Campler.

A SACRIFICE.

Chicago, May 14.—Poland, the first nation to oppose the invasion of the Huns, is now utterly destroyed. The Germans and Russians bombed and machine gunned nonmilitary objects and the helpless population and are now executing them in great numbers without trials.

They robbed the Poles of everything they had and are enslaving, starving, and torturing them.

Poland fought and is fighting for justice and independence, which is so dear to the hearts of the Americans.

THE MAID'S SIDE OF IT.

Chicago, May 18.—I read with disgust the letter from Mrs. O. about the difficulty of getting household help because of WPA. The reason is that the maids are getting tired of slaving. Most of you expect them to do two people's work while you sit smoking and bossing. They are also underpaid. I am a widow, trying to take care of my two children. I come home crying many a night after a hard day doing all your work. I have managed to stay off relief and WPA.

A Willing Worker.

BUG CLUB HEARS ALL SIDES.

Chicago, May 18.—By misrepresenting the "Bug club" that has been meeting regularly for over forty years in Washington park on the south side, a contributor to your column advocates the suppression of free speech in that park. I have listened to scores of batches of speeches, and I believe an overt actionist against our government, with guns to issue, would find precious few recruits among them. Because they are cowardly? No, but, because they are accustomed to hear all sides of every issue, they are too sober for mob violence. This goes for the colored forum as well, in the same park.

Propaganda? Why, these folks are experts in the detection of propaganda. Propaganda employs some truth, but for a subtle purpose. Where there is free speech all the truth is apt to be spoken, and all the truth is fatal to both propagandists and fanatics.

James H. Weir.

HAS THE EAGLE BEEN ASLEEP?.

Chicago, May 17.—It would seem the eagle has been hibernating not only for the winter periods but right thru the summers. Now our President recommends 50,000 planes.

What was wrong the last eight years? Didn't those whom we elected to handle the nation see the necessity for armament? Do we have to wait till the horse is stolen to lock the stable door? Where have gone the billions that were voted for defense? Could it be that we have been just dumping it into WPA and relief? Why not have done as Germany has—put all those unemployed to work making munitions and building planes?

The writer does not wish to be understood as opposing 50,000 planes—even tho we are late in starting them.

R. E. Wagner.

Hernando De Soto, Spanish explorer, died in what is now the state of Arkansas, and was buried in the Mississippi. De Soto and his men had landed in Florida four years before, and moved slowly west and north in search of gold. They built rude rafts near the present site of Memphis and crossed the Mississippi. After De Soto's death his men floated down the river and followed the gulf coast to Mexico. The region was not revisited by white men until 131 years later.

WILLKIE ASSERTS NEW DEAL CAN'T DEFEND AMERICA

Says It Has Failed in Peace Problems.

Somerville, N. J., May 20 [Special].—Assailing the theory that it is bad business to change horses in the middle of the stream, Wendell L. Willkie, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, asserted today that since the New Deal had demonstrated that it cannot defend the United States against itself, it could not be trusted with a third term and the task of defending the country against outside aggression.

Wendell L. Willkie.

Willkie's attack upon the New Deal's ability to carry out an adequate defense program, came at a Republican rally here on the eve of the New Jersey state primary tomorrow in which delegates supporting District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey are expected to win.

Assails New Deal Logic.

The whole country, without regard to party lines, recognized the need for an adequate and immediate defense program, Willkie asserted, but to his mind the logic of the third term advocates escapes him.

"Your willingness to change horses in the middle of the stream depends substantially upon your estimate of the ability of the horse you are riding to get to the other side," he said. "If you don't think he can, it would be better to change than to swim.

"France changed governments when confronted by far more immediate threat than any yet faced by the United States. And the British cabinet fell and was reformed in the face of the gravest emergency that has confronted England in nearly 900 years. It would have been madness for the British to have refused to change their government once the Chamberlain administration had been proved incompetent."

New Deal Proves Failure.

In eight years of administering the nation's affairs, the New Deal, Willkie continued, has proved itself unequal to performing as gigantic a task as a defense program presents.

After spending 60 billion dollars it has left the country with 10,000,000 unemployed, with idle and obsolete factories, a discouraged youth, a glut of stationary capital, a demoralized business community which has been deprived of the incentives of progress. These and other conditions, Mr. Willkie said, prove the New Deal's inability to cope with large problems.

"We have a piddling ordnance industry," he continued, "and owing to the New Deal's attacks upon what it called munitions profiteers, our capacity for making powder and explosives is virtually nil.

"While it is true that of the 60 billion dollars that will have been spent by the New Deal at the end of eight years, only about 7 billion dollars has so far gone directly into defense, yet 7 billion dollars is a lot of money, and it is clear enough that we have not got our money's worth."

THEFT SUSPECT SEIZED IN CHASE; 3 OTHERS HELD

Four young men were held by Chicago avenue police last night after one of them had been captured in a pursuit at Ohio and St. Clair streets.

The one seized after the chase gave his name as Gaylord Reemer, 20 years old, 4878 Magnolia avenue. Policemen John O'Donnell and Martin Harrison said they saw him and another man running with two cases of whisky taken from a truck.

Reemer named his companion as Patrick O'Donnell, 18. O'Donnell was seized in a flat at 2206 Lincoln avenue. Also arrested there were Paul Fruech, 19, and Harry Brooks, 25. Police found six pairs of handcuffs in the flat. The four were held for further investigation.

SEC ACCOUNTANT TAKES STAND IN BUCKMAN TRIAL

Identifies 100 Letters and Other Exhibits.

Madison, Wis., May 20 [Special].—The prosecution today completed its preliminary evidence in the federal court trial of B. E. Buckman, Louis C. George, and six former associates on charges of mail fraud and violation of security laws.

J. R. Espinosa of New York City, accountant for the Federal Securities Exchange commission, took the stand near the end of today's session to identify more than 100 letters and records of transactions of the now defunct B. E. Buckman Investment company.

Explained by SEC Agent.

The records identified are part of those studied by the SEC in its investigation of the Buckman company shortly after the firm closed its doors in November, 1937. A battery of accountants is to testify for the government, it is understood, to explain methods used by Buckman officials in handling company affairs.

These records will be examined by Judge Charles G. Briggle tomorrow, and defense counsel will be permitted to register objections before they are admitted as evidence.

Espinosa testified he came to Madison on Dec. 1, 1937, to study records of the Buckman company for the SEC. He will testify again tomorrow.

Custodian on Stand.

George F. Zwicky, custodian of records for the Buckman company after it closed its doors, testified he allowed no records to leave the office without a court order.

Testimony by other witnesses concerned letters and records sent by Buckman officials to branch offices and clients, principally thru the mails. A jury of nine men and three women is hearing the case.

Principals in Baby Farm Case

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an urban superhighway.

Mother in Court

True bills charging kidnaping are reported to have been voted by the grand jury yesterday against Mrs. Mae Smith and her daughter, Mary, operators of an alleged baby farm at 2415 Winnemac avenue which has been under investigation for several weeks.

Earlier, charges of operating an unlicensed maternity home and of operating an unlicensed welfare home were continued by Judge John V. McCormick to June 10. Conviction on the abduction charge carries a maximum penalty of one year to life.

The abduction case developed after Miss Ethel De Patie, 25 years old, 10546 South Oakley avenue, an unmarried mother, charged that the Smiths ejected her from the home after she had expressed a desire to keep the baby. She also said the Smiths demanded $150 to return the infant.

ORDER FULL QUIZ IN LOOP PARKING LOT CONDITIONS

Gun Attack Spurs Aldermen to Action.

While the police yesterday continued their investigation of the mysterious gun attack Friday night on Benjamin D. Kissel, owner of a number of loop parking lots, a city council committee ordered a full investigation into loop parking lot conditions. Kissel is in the Columbus Memorial hospital suffering from a bullet wound in his abdomen.

The council committee on buildings and zoning ordered a subcommittee, headed by Ald. James J. McDermott, to investigate every phase of the parking lot conditions after Ald. Dorsey R. Crowe, chairman of the full committee, asserted that nearly every parking lot in the loop is violating city ordinances.

Charges Monopoly Attempt.

Ald. McDermott charged that attempts were being made to create a monopoly of loop parking lots and garages and intimated that Kissel was shot as a result. He said:

"There is an effort being made by some major interests to control loop garages and parking lots. As a result, one man has been shot because he headed out too far in opposition. If that's the case, it's time that the council took some action."

Two resolutions dealing with the regulation of loop parking lots and garages and another resolution which would bar the further issuance of permits for driveways across sidewalks for parking lots until a full investigation is made were referred to Ald. McDermott's subcommittee.

Points to Old Ordinance.

Ald. Crowe said that an old city ordinance prohibited parking lots from being established on streets where there were car lines. "It looks like every parking lot in the loop is violating the law," he said. "I would like to know how all these parking lots were established in view of that ordinance," he added.

RAPIST BANDIT GANGS HUNTED IN 2 ATTACKS

Police searched yesterday for the assailants of two women who reported they had been raped by robbers in two separate attacks. Another woman reported to Austin police that a man had attempted to rape her in her home.

A restaurant cashier, 26 years old, told Central police she had been thrown into an automobile early Sunday at Van Buren and La Salle streets while walking to meet her husband. She said two men drove her to a flat, raped her, and took $40 from her purse.

Another young woman told Hudson avenue police that three bandits robbed her escort of $4, threw him from his auto at Evergreen and Halsted streets and raped her. She was taken to county hospital.

BELIEVED CRAZED BY WAR BROODING, HE SLAYS FRIEND

Mishawaka, Ind., May 20 [Special].—Apparently crazed by brooding over the war in Europe, John Sirok, a native of Bohemia, killed and decapitated his friend, Charles Campbell, today. Sirok told several rambling stories about the crime and will be examined by an alienist before charges are made against him.

According to the most coherent version of the killing police could obtain, Sirok, 38 years old and a resident of Mishawaka since his youth, walked the streets all night brooding. This morning he went to Campbell's rooming house and beat and stabbed Campbell before he was fully awake.

Campbell leaves six children by his divorced wife. Sirok, also divorced, has three children. Sirok was an employé of the Mishawaka Rubber and Woolen Manufacturing company for many years.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

DELAYS HEARING ON SEIZURE OF SLOT MACHINES

Judge Harry M. Fisher of the Cuircuit court yesterday granted a continuance until tomorrow of the replevin suit involving 105 slot machines of the old style one arm bandit type which were seized in a raid by county highway police last Friday. Attorney Maurice T. Davis, representing the Scully Warehouse and Express company, 8105 North Cicero avenue, Niles Center, asked that the sheriff be forced to return them.

Attorney James Todd, representing Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien, said the petition filed by Attorney Davis describes the seized articles as vending machines. Attorney Todd said he would ask that a few of them be brought into court to see if they vend anything except coins.

Assistant State's Attorney Emmet Moynihan said the warehouse company leased the basement to Edward Vogel, agent of the Capone-Nitti syndicate, for the storage of the machines. A new type of camouflaged slot machine has appeared in numerous sections of the county, and the 105 seized machines probably would have remained in storage, it was said.

TWO EX-CONVICTS AND WIFE SEIZED IN FORGERY PLOT

Herman Seiler and Philip Kaler were fellow prisoners in Leavenworth penitentiary seven years ago, serving sentences for violation of the postal laws. After Seiler was released in 1934 he passed several bogus checks and served until 1936 in Indiana state prison. Kaler was paroled in 1938 and he married and came to Chicago with his wife, Lillian.

Seiler came to Chicago last month, met Kaler, and was introduced to Kaler's wife. Mrs. Kaler told Sergts. John Murphy and Ben Ryan that he appeared later at the office where she worked and told her Kaler had violated his parole by getting married. She said he threatened to reveal this unless she agreed to help him in a forgery scheme. As a result, she made out five checks for $195 each on check blanks used by her firm, and Seiler was arrested while trying to cash one of them.

Kaler and his wife, who live at 644 Wrightwood avenue, also were arrested. Kaler disclaimed any part in the scheme. Seiler said he had paid Mrs. Kaler $50 to make out the checks.

WOMAN KILLED AS CAR CRASHES AFTER BLOWOUT

Mrs. Mary Olga Camp, 43 years old, 2906 Atlantic street, Franklin Park, was killed yesterday near Kenosha, Wis., when a car driven by her son, Harvey, 19, overturned after a tire blew out.

William Cowles, 10, of 2501 Newland avenue, died in West Suburban hospital of injuries incurred Sunday when he ran into the street near his home and was struck by an auto driven by Jerry Lama, 3525 Medill avenue.

Phillip Kovitz, 68, of 1531 South Kolin avenue, unemployed, died in St. Anthony's hospital of injuries incurred Saturday when he was struck by a car driven by Edward Heteniak, 1529 South East avenue, Berwyn.

Policeman Nealon Heard of the Albany Park station incurred fractures of four ribs and the left hip when his automobile was struck and overturned by a truck at Lowell and Wilson avenues. The truck driver was John Abdisho, 1520 Howard avenue, a rug dealer. Heard is 34 years old and lives at 4332 North Kilbourn avenue. He is in the American hospital.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 323 persons had been killed in Cook county in traffic accidents since Jan. 1. Of these 247 were killed in Chicago, where 8,078 were injured during the same period.

2 UNION OFFICERS GO BEFORE JURY IN SCALISE QUIZ

New York, May 20 [Special].—William L. McFetridge and Thomas J. Burke, president and vice president, respectively, of the Building Service Employes International, today appeared voluntarily before the grand jury investigating the affairs of George Scalise, New York gangster and former head of the union. The action of McFetridge and Burke, both Chicagoans, reversed their previously announced intention to fight testifying.

Scalise, a convicted pander and alumnus of Atlanta federal penitentiary, is under indictment on charges he and other union officers extorted more than $97,000 from hotel owners and others. He resigned as head of the union after the union voted to oust him and is now free on $40,000 bail.

McFetridge and Burke were served with grand jury subpenas on May 6 during the union's national convention in Atlantic City. It is understood they now have agreed to produce the international's books containing entries on some $1,500,000 of union funds that had been handed over to Scalise as president. The money ostensibly was used for "expenses" in union activities.

Safety Judge Sentences Two Motorists to Jail

Paul Seehafer, 56 years old, 1512 School street, was sentenced to 10 days in the County jail yesterday by Judge Harold P. O'Connell in Safety court on a charge of reckless driving. His driver's license was suspended for 30 days. Willis J. Turner, 29, of Detroit, Mich., got 30 days on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Infant Welfare of Evanston to Hold Benefit

Two Infant Welfare centers are making plans for interesting parties. The Evanston center is planning a "South American Sway" dinner-dance the night of June 15 at the Villa Moderne. The senior and junior boards, the junior auxiliary and the Service league all will have an active part in managing the benefit, and all groups will meet for tea today at Mrs. Addison Gardner's in Evanston to start the ball rolling.

Mrs. John Scott of Highland Park, assisted by Mrs. R. Ward Starrett of Evanston, is general chairman. Mrs. William Stahl, entertainment chairman, has arranged for professional dancers to give an exhibition of South American dances, and also to introduce the latest of them, the "Koky-Koky." Assisting Mrs. Stahl are Mrs. John Merriman, Mrs. John Kimbark, and Mrs. Samuel Riggs.

Further plans for the evening will be made at a meeting to be held next Monday at the Glen View club with Mrs. Henry Platt Jr. and Mrs. Robert Grier as hostesses. Other committee heads include Mrs. Hubert Downey, reservations; Mrs. Drennan Slater, Miss Betty Slaughter, and Mrs. Charles Tippett, tickets, and Mrs. Jervis Babb and Mrs. John O'Connor, publicity.

To celebrate 25 years of unceasing work on behalf of the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago, the 30 circles affiliated with the Oak Park and River Forest branch of the society will meet at the 19th Century club in Oak Park on the afternoon of May 28. Silver invitations have been issued to the gala party, at which Phyllis Bottome, well known author, will be the speaker.

The program and tea is not to be a benefit, and only 700 tickets will be issued. Mrs. Walters O'Neill is general chairman of the celebration. Mrs. George Woods is in charge of the program. Among the guests will be the woman who started infant welfare activities in Oak Park and River Forest, Mrs. Edward W. McCready.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

It's in the merry month of May, when May is its normal self, that the lilies of the valley make their annual appearance. We always feel that we should pass by their bed on tiptoe when they poke their dainty heads thru the ground. They're such tiny little flowers and they give forth so much fragrance that it seems too much to ask.

However, May isn't acting true to form, and if you're full of impatience waiting for these flowers we recommend a substitute. It's an excellent lily of the valley toilet water that is a true interpretation of the real fragrance. It has the same fragile, delicate sweetness that is so penetrating but still escapes being cloying.

There's an impressive quality to the fragrance of lilies of the valley that is never forgotten. And there is an impressive quality to its translation in this toilet water. Even tho you know you are wearing it, you'll still look around the room to make sure that you've not missed seeing a bouquet of lilies.

This toilet water is obtainable in one size, including an atomizer. If you want a more concentrated version you'll like the perfume, which comes in three sizes.

FLORENCE MURDOCH.

J. P. Keating Named to Arrange Orphans' Day Transportation

John P. Keating was appointed yesterday as transportation chairman of the Orphans' Automobile Day association. He succeeds M. J. Lamb, who has held the office for the last 25 years.

With his appointment, Mr. Keating, a former president of the organization, opened a drive for cars to transport more than 5,000 orphans, crippled children, and aged people to and from their 36th annual outing Aug. 21 in Lincoln park.

"We anticipate a record number of underprivileged guests at this year's outing and for that reason need more cars than in any previous year," the new transportation chairman said yesterday. "We have to depend upon the generosity of the public in supplying these automobiles, so that none of the children and aged will be disappointed."

Chicago Woman's Club Forms Red Cross Unit

The Chicago Woman's club yesterday organized a unit of the American Red Cross and opened its Jane Addams room to all Red Cross workers.

The room will serve as a workroom for sewing, knitting and bandage rolling. Mrs. B. J. Cahn is chairman of the unit and Mrs. Kenneth MacKenzie, vice chairman, but the workroom will be open to workers from any unit who choose to come.

Meanwhile, the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross is forging ahead in its drive to raise $1,000,000 in the nationwide Red Cross war relief drive. It has received approximately $75,000 to date.

Frances Drake Brings Home New Husband

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHEN former Gov. Frank O. Lowden's youngest daughter arrived from New York on Saturday she was accompanied by a bridegroom instead of a fiancé, as her family expected. Mrs. Frances Lowden Drake and Frederick R. Wierdsma were married quietly in New York last Wednesday. Their engagement had been announced by Mr. Lowden on May 5 and at that time it was stated that the marriage would take place in July.

Mr. and Mrs. Wierdsma spent Sunday with Mr. Lowden at Sinissippi farm near Oregon, Ill., and returned to New York yesterday. For the present they are living in the apartment he occupied as a bachelor, but they will move as soon as they find a larger place, for Mrs. Wierdsma has three children, two boys and a girl, who will be with them. Mrs. Wierdsma is leaving at the end of this week for Bermuda, where she has been living for several years, to close her house and to bring the three young Drakes back to New York.

Mr. Wierdsma, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Rypperda Wierdsma of Rotterdam, Holland, is a naturalized American. He is a manager of the Holland-American Steamship Lines for this country and Canada.

Albert Blake Dick III. and Elizabeth York to Wed.

One of the first fall wedding dates to be announced is that of Miss Elizabeth York of New York and Ithan, Pa., and Albert Blake Dick III. of Lake Forest. They will be married in Ithan on Sept. 14.

This week will be busy for Miss Lucille Freeman and Allison Cady Clough Jr., who are to be married at 4 o'clock on Saturday in the chapel of St. Chrysostom's church. Today Miss Evelyn Lawrence will have a kitchen shower and luncheon at the Saddle and Cycle club, and tomorrow Miss Dorothy Herbst will give a buffet supper at her home in Highland Park. Thursday will be taken up by a luncheon and linen shower, given by Miss Jane Hailand at the Barrington Country club, and by a cocktail party which Miss Virginia Skinner will give. The spinster dinner will be on Friday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Freeman.

Miss Julia Burley and Victor M. Harding Jr. will be married Saturday afternoon in the Winnetka home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Clarence Burley. Only relatives and a few close friends will hear the Rev. Samuel Harkness of the Winnetka Congregational church read the ceremony at 4:30 o'clock. A small reception will follow. Mr. Harding and his bride will be at home for the summer in the Burley home. Mrs. Burley spends the summers in Michigan.

Arts Club Professionals Give Recital May 28.

The Arts club has cards out for its annual professional members' recital to be held at 3:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, May 28. Jeanne Boyd, composer, will be at the piano for Robert Speaker, baritone, when he sings a group of her songs; Frances Coates Grace [Mrs. John G. Jr.] will sing excerpts from Menotti's new opera, "Amelia Goes to the Ball," with Robert MacDonald at the piano; Rose Lyon duMoulin will play a new rhapsody for piano by William Peltz and also solos by John Alden Carpenter, George Gershwin, and Alexander

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Recollection.

Hollywood, Cal., May 20.—It was just about two summers ago that we visited Rheims, and the French countryside was so peaceful that it was difficult to believe that here in this town Germans and French had shot each other to death.

"Within our lifetime," said the superintendent of the Pommerey wine caves, "you will see it happen again." That he was right and we were wrong when we disputed his pessimistic forecast is proved by the front pages of the newspapers. It is happening again, only this time on a scale more murderous.

That afternoon at Rheims they showed us the cathedral which had been reconstructed by Rockefeller money. Women were selling postcards outside the church and we bought some to send home, and inside the cathedral we bought rosary beads. "The Germans were based over there" said our informant, pointing to a spot just about a mile east, "and we were in position over there." Occasionally the fire of a battery would be directed too low and it was these random shots that nicked the cathedral spires.

Life went on in Rheims underground from 1914 to 1919. They took us down to the wine caves, cut hundreds of feet below the ground in the chalk deposits that make champagne possible and peculiar to that region of France. I'd never known until then that champagne and chalk were related, but the superintendent of the Polignace empire of grapes attested this relationship to be true. . . . "The reason that no other wine tastes like champagne," he said, "is because at one stage of the growth of the grape vines the vines must force their way thru the chalk. While that struggle is going on in the earth the vines are without nourishment and that is what gives the grapes of this area, called Champagne, their particular taste. You see, even wine is made better by hardship and sacrifice."

In the wine caves, in the chalk bowels of the earth, the people of Rheims lived and died and were born. The children went to school down there, mass was celebrated each Sunday and on holy days, and older people died and babies were born. "That boy over there turning the bottles was born in these wine caves in 1916," said the superintendent. "Just as he was born the Germans started shelling us, so he really was born to war. He will have his chance at it in a few years. These Germans will be back." Reading the terrible accounts from Europe, and seeing Rheims on the war maps, I wonder often if the boy who was born during the bombardment is still alive.

What has happened to the tens of thousands of bottles of wine? Are men still turning them at intervals so that the wine would age just so? Are men extracting the corks and draining the grape dregs out of them? A sculptor had carved in the chalk walls the banquet scene of Bacchus, the figures of the drinkers dancing eerily in the shifting electric lights. Has the thunder of the guns ruined the wine cache by disturbing the wine too greatly? Are people living again in the wine caves, and are babies being born again to the rolling reverberations of howitzers? Baby boys who will hear the guns again when they reach their 20s?

The people of Rheims, you see, are of agricultural stock, farmers who specialize in the growing of grapes. To them this is a good earth whose products are put away in bottles, liquid gold. They would much rather make things grow than make things or men die. But history has called them time and again from their grape vines, armed them with guns and converted them into killers and killed. The white chalk of Champagne has been reddened by their blood and the blood of those who lived in Rheims before them. At each declaration of peace they have returned to patch the grape vines ruined by canister shot, and then just when they had their vines growing again there has been another call to arms. "We can take the dregs out of wine," smiled the superintendent, "but nobody has learned how to take the dregs out of ambition."

Once Rheims sold heavily to Russia's nobility. "That was desecration," remembered the superintendent. "The Russians insisted on a wine so sweet that it almost was sirup. So we had to mix sugar with our champagne. The older men in the caves refused to work on the Russian orders. They refused, M'sieu, because of the traditions of champagne. They were disobedient, but they were honest. We should have released them for disobedience, but I think that the marquis of Polignace instead was proud of them." The desecration ceased. Stalin got rid of the Russian court and no more wine was ordered from Russia.

On the way back to Paris from Rheims we passed thru a town that had been destroyed by German gunfire in 1914. The menu of each little hotel in these towns called your attention to the fact. Outside of one of these little towns I asked the driver of the car to stop. To the right of the road was an acre of American flags, this was a United States cemetery. There were individual graves each with an identifying brassard, and there were long trenches in which unidentified American soldiers had been given community burial. If the Germans have swept past Rheims on their way to Paris this time, I guess the American dead will hear again the sound of marching feet, the rumble of cannon, the metallic clanking of the tanks. Perhaps the A. E. F. dead will be startled, because they thought that they had fought and won the war that was to save democracy. As the Pommerey wine caves superintendent pointed out: "Nobody has learned to extract the dregs from ambition."

Conflict Held Likely as Club Council Meets

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 20 [Special].—Rumors of approaching conflict over two resolutions concerning America's stand on international affairs were being circulated as hundreds of delegates arrived for the opening of the 49th council meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs here this evening.

Mrs. William T. Bruckner, president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, submitted her organization's resolution earlier today to the resolutions committee and to Mrs. Saidie Orr Dunbar, the general federation's president.

Illinois' resolution advocates uncompromising opposition to the United States' entering any foreign war. It demands adequate national defense, and further asserts "that the ultimate peace of the world will be better served and the continuance of our form of government will be insured only if we remain nonbelligerent."

This resolution was adopted by the Illinois Federation at the Chicago convention last week after delegates rejected a resolution sponsored by the national board.

The national board's resolution urges "our government to assist in securing a just settlement of the present conflict" and favors the United States' participation in "some form of world organization."

At a press conference today Mrs. Dunbar cautiously discussed the national board's resolution, which is known to reflect her personal views. "You know what my personal views are," she remarked several times, and twice she inquired rhetorically, "is there any way out unless we set up some machinery for international action?"

Further than this, Mrs. Dunbar refused to comment about the national board's resolution, explaining that the delegates' vote, not her individual opinion, will express the federation's will.

She explained that the federation is truly democratic in its workings and that neither the natioal board nor any leader can force an opinion upon the delegates.

"I wish that I could forge the federation into a spearhead to get action," she said, "but with such a loosely knit organization that is impossible."

Illinois' delegation was not so certain, of this, however.

Several delegates expressed doubt that their resolution will get past the resolutions committee, of which Mrs. Dunbar is a member. They declared themselves determined to get their resolution a hearing anyhow, but recognized that the opposition has the complexities of parliamentary law on its side.

Marry My Daughter

By Alice Duer Miller

(Copyright: 1940; By News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

SYNOPSIS.

Millicent Dunham's mother is killed saving Dick Shard from being hit by a truck and on her deathbed she makes Dick promise to marry Millicent. Altho Dick is in love with Constance Stewart, whose husband, Aleck, is an invalid, he feels obligated to keep his promise. Dick lives in New York and is rich and distinguished and is head of the Shard firm for which both Mr. and Mrs. Dunham worked in the Kansas branch before their deaths. Millicent, who has been left penniless and untrained, knows she doesn't love Dick, but thinks he loves her and upon the advice of Dr. Ogden, a family friend, marries him. On their way to New York after the wedding Dick tells her of his promise to Mrs. Dunham. Millicent is humiliated, but agrees to live with him for six months and then get a divorce. Dick tells her she will be free to do as she pleases during that time. Dick neglects his bride for Constance, who suggests that he hire a personal maid for Millicent to advise her on her clothes so that Dick will not be ashamed of her when he takes her out. Constance gives a party for the bride and groom and is astonished and furious when Millicent appears so exquisitely dressed and so beautiful that she takes the spotlight away from her hostess. In taking Dick's advice about leading her own life, Millicent makes a friend of Michael Curley, whom she has met at the Metropolitan museum, and with Donald Eaves, a suave worlding whom Constance has introduced to her. Curley falls in love with Millicent and confesses his love for her to Dick and begs him to help protect his wife against Eaves. Millicent, knowing that Dick is in love with Constance, will not heed his advice about Eaves, but is forced to telephone him to come to her rescue one afternoon when she is locked in Eaves' bedroom and Dick is having tea in his own apartment with Constance. Dick goes to the rescue and Millicent realizes she loves him, but upon their return home Constance telephones Dick that Aleck is ill and needs him. While he is gone Dr. Ogden arrives for a visit and Millicent tells him of her unhappy marriage. He demands that she get a divorce. Dick returns and is confronted by Millicent's plan to go to Reno. He tells her he will provide ample alimony, tho she says she will not accept any. Before she leaves she tells Dick what a selfish woman she thinks Constance is.

INSTALMENT XXVI.

RENO.

Millicent stopped, now really frightened at something she saw in Dick's face. "Hush, hush," he said. "You mustn't speak of Constance like that—she's in great trouble . . . Aleck died tonight."

"He's dead?"

"Do you suppose I would have gone out like that unless I had known it was something very serious? He died about an hour after I got there."

Millicent's first thought was that after all Dick had had a good reason for leaving her—her second that it didn't matter because now her marriage was certainly at an end. All her jealousy and anger seemed utterly trivial now. Aleck was dead—nothing now stood between her husband and the woman he had always loved—nothing but a small unimportant wife who could be immediately divorced.

She moved in silence toward the door. Dr. John, seeing her coming, rang for the elevator. He and she got into it without a word.

As Millicent drove away from the apartment house she felt sure her life was over. At 22 a woman feels surer that her life is over when she loses the man she loves than she would feel at 70 on finding herself in the death house. The only subject that seemed to rouse her interest was the question of alimony—her obstinate refusal to take a cent of her husband's money. Dr. Ogden argued vainly with her that night, and Mr. Lay, who arrived at the Windymere precisely at 10 the next morning, was no more successful. He was deeply distressed—so much that he even tried to enlist the assistance of Donald Eaves, whom he saw waiting as he came down—Eaves' pale golden head making a spot of light in the dreary lobby of the hotel.

Mr. Lay did not like Eaves—he distrusted him—he thought him one of those worthless young fellows whom a woman finds charming, even tho wiser people—Mr. Lay meant himself by wiser people—explain to her that he isn't charming at all. Sometimes he thought that his own dear discreet Cecilia had once been unduly interested in the young man—and here he was waiting to see Shard's wife . . . still he might serve a useful purpose—if he intended to marry her he would be interested in the question of alimony—a mercenary sort of fellow . . . Mr. Lay explained his difficulty.

It's so unfair to Shard," he said. "Every one will think he's niggardly—whereas as a matter of fact he wants to be generous—princely."

Eaves laughed and said he didn't suppose Mrs. Shard was much concerned about making Shard appear well to the world at large.

"She ought to—he has behaved very nobly."

"As nobly as Constance has allowed him to behave."

This speech had the effect it was intended to have. Lay stalked away, and Eaves sent up his name again.

But even Donald had no effect upon her resolution tho he, too, tried to shake it. She simply wouldn't discuss the question with him. She was very sweet and gentle about the incident in his rooms—she was sorry she had behaved like a school girl.

"I was frightened to death, Millicent," he said, "when I got word you had telephoned me. I was afraid Shard was in a rage, and then when you said to call you at his dump—but of course as soon as I heard about poor old Aleck I understood better."

She had never confided the whole truth about her marriage to him, but she had said enough to justify him in believing that the divorce would not find her heart broken. Still the lobby of a hotel didn't seem a good place for the avowal of his intentions. He asked her if she would mind if he came to Reno, and she said no; on the contrary, she would be delighted to see him. Only everything she said had a strange, dead quality—as if she were a little deaf—or were listening to some other sound at a great distance. And they were soon interrupted by Dr. Ogden, who nodded curtly at being introduced to Eaves, and looked as if he saw no reason for her talking to handsome blond young men in the hotel lobby.

Dr. Ogden had made a half-hearted suggestion that she come home with him—but Milly knew too much for that—not only she wouldn't be welcome in Mrs. Ogden's house, but she couldn't have borne all the interest and affection and sympathy she would have met with in her own town. She went straight on alone to Reno.

Mr. Lay had given her letters to a respectable middle-aged lady—a friend of his who had been driven to Reno by the gallivantings of a more than middle-aged husband, but Millicent didn't look her up. The lawyer Mr. Lay had recommended her to was kind, asked her to dinner at his house, and offered to find her more agreeable lodgings than a hotel in town, but she declined his offer. She sat all day long in her hotel room, reading detective stories and trying to do crossword puzzles—which she hated—brooding over her sorrows and being as miserable as possible.

This went on for about a week. Then one day, while she was having her hair washed in the first beauty parlor she saw, she fell into conversation with the woman in the next chair, who was quite frankly having her hair dyed.

Millicent was deeply interested in the process: "And it's much more becoming to you yellow?" she asked.

The woman laughed: "O, I don't know," she said, "it's a change anyhow—and they do it so well here. The first time I came out I had my hair dyed red—just to annoy my first husband . . ."

This was her third trip to Reno. She was extremely gay and amusing and had no secrets either from Millicent or the girls in the shop. Her first husband, she told Millicent, had been bootlegger. "Not that I or my family knew it—he said he was an importer—imported over the Canadian border—such a swell guy, too—only when he got a long term in Atlanta, I found there were several other girls waiting for him to get out. Then I was married to Michael Foray—never heard of him—he'd be surprised—he makes westerns, I was crazy about him. When he threw me out I thought I should die, but then I said to myself, there's one thing you can do, Zellie, my girl, you can take his money away from him, under the California law—and I took plenty."

Zellie knew every one—judges and lawyers and visitors and shopkeepers and cowboys, and tho Millicent was with her only in her less social moments, she heard a great deal of the life of the town, and knew for the first time that she had been very lonely. Zellie constantly asked her to go out with her to dine and dance, but Millicent refused. To Zellie such conduct was so strange that Millicent was obliged to offer an explanation—a simple one—she was still in love with her husband. Zellie was sympathetic and gave her new friend excellent advice.

"Look, dear," she said. "That's no use. If a man's thru—he's thru. They write books and stories how you win him back by being noble or indifferent or something, but I never saw it happen. There's only one thing to do—forget him."

"I know . . . I know."

"But you're not going about it the right way—sitting at home crying. You ought to be out in the hot spots looking for his successor."

Millicent did not like to say that she didn't think she was likely to find his successor in Reno. But a few evenings later she did consent to go out with her new friend, who was going alone to try her luck at roulette.

Mexican Memorabilia.

Yesterday morning, Mexico City; last night, Chicago—a smooth, comfortable, one day trip over miles of mountains, gulf coast, plains, and prairies. Mementos of the Mexican trip emerge from the luggage, each reminiscent of Mexican scenes. Indian woven belts and coral necklaces from Acapulco; the big Pancho Villa straw hat our companion acquired to wear deep sea fishing; a Tarascon Indian costume, with long, full, scarlet plaited skirt, embroidered blouse, and dark blue rebozo from beautiful Patzcuaro in the heart of the Tarascon Indian country, which with its lake and mountains is like Switzerland gone tropical; lacquered trays from the beautiful city of Morelia, with its Spanish colonial architecture, ancient aqueduct, and enchanting plaza; small, ancient clay heads of the Toltec and Aztec eras, the kind dug up in the vicinity of the archæological zone of Teotihuacan; the Diego Rivera water colors and drawings.

• • •

The visit to Diego Rivera's home at San Angel, just outside Mexico City, was taken with Mrs. Carlos Iturbe, friend of Artist Rivera's and representative in Mexico of the Committee on Cultural Relations with Latin America, which holds its fifteenth annual seminar beginning July 3. The two modern, bright blue and pink stucco houses which constitute his studio and dwelling are enclosed inside a high fence of organ cactus, and a lower wall of brick, against which are ranged stone heads and figures from Rivera's fine archæological museum. A parrot chattered in the garden; a burro munched placidly to one side; a monkey swung from a banana tree.

• • •

A tall Indian admitted us into his studio where Rivera, a great, kindly, bulky man in blue denim embraced our companion with affection and greeted us with impersonal courtesy. Fantastic giant papier-mache figures stood about the room, the Judas figures that serve as platform for fireworks burned at Easter time; the tables were cluttered with Mexican toys and figures of saints, some of which had served as models for an unfinished painting on the easel; and a tiny Indian girl, Modeste, in a long pink skirt, embroidered black blouse, red lacing in her black braids, and bright tinsel beads about her throat, played about the studio. She was the daughter of the tall Indian who acts as admittance man for Rivera, and she, too, appeared in some of the paintings Rivera showed us. One end of the studio is an archæological museum, with superb examples of Toltec and Aztec culture crowding the shelves and tables. A tall canvas of Rose Coverrubias, wife of the Mexican artist, in spreading pink skirts occupied one corner of the studio, and there were paintings done by Frieda, Rivera's former wife, propped against the walls.

If you don't own a dog yourself you undoubtedly have friends who do. For that person among them who "has everything" here's a grand idea: Make him or her a present of the good looking leather picture frame we saw the other day. It's designed especially for a photograph or enlarged snapshot of a dog and the lower edge of the frame is brass studded to look like a dog collar. His nibs is bound to look handsome in such a setting.

Tour to Be Conducted of Art Collection Today

A special tour of the Mrs. Robert R. McCormick art collection will be conducted at 6:30 o'clock this evening by Miss Helen Parker, head of the Art Institute department of education. The tour will start from gallery 2A on the first floor of the institute.

There are 25 paintings in the collection, 4 of which were done by the late Mrs. McCormick. Some of the outstanding pictures are "A Head of a Girl," by Renoir; "The Bathers," by Cezanne; "Sunflowers," by Paul Gauguin, and "Portrait of a Young Prince," by Goya. Also included in the exhibit are a group of French paintings of the 19th century by Rousseau and several modern works by Henri Matisse.

Every cook who is a cook knows how to make good baking powder biscuits. She [or he] can't afford not to know how to make them, for baking powder biscuits are the basis of strawberry shortcakes, quick cinnamon and orange rolls, meat and vegetable "pies" and shortcakes. And they are pretty important in themselves.

Fortunately, the baking powder biscuit cookery lesson isn't one which is hard to master. Learn the few simple rules and then practice them frequently. That's all there is to it.

Here's detailed recipe designed for a beginning cook, or for one who hasn't quite found that so-called knack for making good biscuits. The formula is standard, needless to say.

Baking Powder Biscuits

[1 dozen medium]
2 cups sifted all purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking powder
¼ cup solid fat
⅔ to ¾ cup milk

Sift the flour, salt and baking powder together twice. Use butter, margarine, lard, or vegetable shortening for the fat. Add it to the flour in small pieces. Using a pastry blender, or two knives, held one in each hand, or the tips of the fingers, "cut" the shortening into the flour mixture. This commonly used expression means to blend the shortening lightly with the flour mixture so that you have small pieces of fat coated with flour. Overmixing fat and flour will produce a solid biscuit. The idea is to blend until the mixture of fat and flour is in coarse lumps, "about the size of peas" you'll read in some recipes.

Now add the milk. Different flours have varying absorbent properties, so the best we can do is suggest ⅔ to ¾ cup of milk as about the right amount. Add the smaller amount first and stir vigorously to blend. If you have a soft dough which follows the spoon around the bowl, that is enough milk. If the dough still looks floury, add a little more milk.

Turn dough out onto a lightly floured board and knead it gently for 30 seconds. Don't push and punch it hard, as you would yeast dough. Fold it over and turn it around on the board several times. Pat out with the hands to about half an inch in thickness. Or use a rolling pin if you wish, but it isn't necessary. Cut out the biscuits and arrange them on an ungreased baking sheet, touching each other, unless you want them crusty. In that case, leave inch spaces between them.

Let the biscuits stand for a while if you aren't yet ready to bake them. When you are ready, to pop them into a 425 degree oven for 12 to 13 minutes, or until lightly browned.

HOW TO MAKE SHORTCAKE

If you're hankering for strawberry shortcake, use the same recipe and the same method, but add 3 tablespoons of sugar to the flour mixture as you sift it, and increase the shortening to ⅓ cup.

TO MAKE CINNAMON ROLLS

Instead of patting the dough out rather thickly, use the rolling pin to flatten it to a fairly thin sheet. Brush over with soft butter and sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Add a few raisins, currants or chopped nuts, if you like, then roll up jelly-roll fashion and cut the roll in inch slices with a sharp knife.

There are dozens of other variations. For good recipes, see "Better Homemade Breads and Rolls," 23 cents by mail.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

By WYNN

Tuesday, May 21.

Be kind to the boss and also to those less well off than you are today, particularly in the morning. Also, don't leap into long distance matters that involve decisions, writings or travel. Later hours show improvement; be ready.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead if you own this birthday is beginning of many changes, especially occupational and personal: important to do nothing thoughtlessly, hastily. Much secret activity. Danger: Aug. 14-25; Dec. 24-Jan. 7; May 11-19, 1941.

Tomorrow.

Up and at them early; in the rut in the evening emotions.

Do you want an individual interpretation for your own personal date? Every important period is indicated for you, according to the laws of astrology. Send 10 cents to Wynn, Tribune Astrologer, 286 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Write plainly your name, date of birth and address.

A 'Different' Play Suit

WOMAN'S AND MISS' PLAY CLOTHES.

If you want a really "different" play suit with all the comforts of the collarline, a novel patch pocket, an "action" plait in the back, and either long or short sleeves. The shorts have good tailoring for trim fulness. For street appearance there's a button-on skirt. All types of linens and cottons, tried-and-true style, you'll like this pattern. Its blouse has opened rever including flattering stripes, will make up well.

Style No. 2734 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 2½ yards of 39 inch material for play suit; 1⅞ yards for skirt.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the summer Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Checks, Stripes, Dots Brighten Summer Outfits

BY REA SEEGER.

Summer gayeties for head, hand, and beltline accessories that will revive a dated dress, are of cotton, in check, pencil stripe or the small dotted effects. There's an almost bewildering choice of hats, pert sailors, ruffed turbans, down brimmed small hats, with high crowns and a double bow of stiff grosgrain ribbon planted directly in front, wraparounds [will some one please invent a new idea to take their place], and berets. Matched to these are not only bags, but the newest headlines of fashion, parasols.

Where and how these parasols will be taken this summer remains to be discovered, but we'll bet on the appreciative shoppers. They'll find a way to justify such carryings-on. Places they'll blaze in all their gingham glory are the race tracks, the country clubs, and in the suburbs at afternoon parties and garden fêtes, and afternoon weddings.

When they invade the loop the fashion will be definitely established. Snowy white ribs and handles make the gingham coverings all the more effective, and handles also of painted white add more appeal. Green, red or blue and white small checked gingham models go out with all white costumes or with plain colored chambrays, linens, or ginghams. Striped affairs will highlight dimities, sharkskin, and monotone silks and linens.

If the necessary urge completely gets you, you may find footgear also of checks and stripes to complete the idea.

Some hats and bags are combined with straw for additional summer chic. These are sold as one, so you are assured of flawless matching. Others of bold checks come in taffeta and feature different styles of handbag with exact matches in the clever hats. Such a brilliant combine will accomplish magic with black or dark street sheers. Parasols of the same pattern can be found with extra shopping effort.

The cottons are easy on the most limited allowance, the taffetas are surprisingly low in cost. They're all crisp, bright, new and eye catching; summer accessories for fun and fashion!

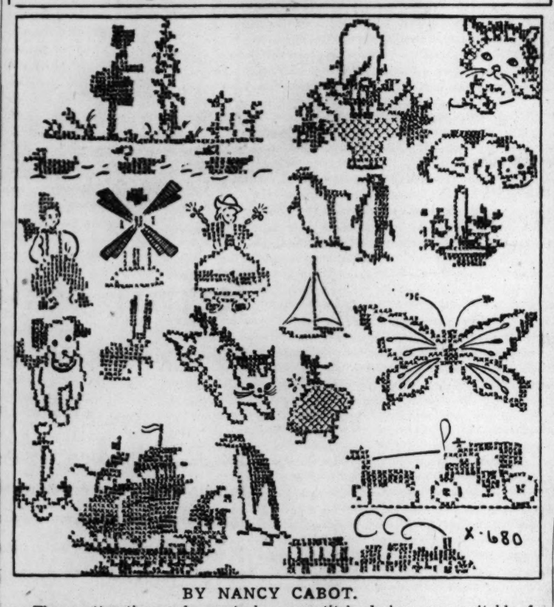
Advertising Women Meet.

The Women's Advertising club of Chicago will hold a closed meeeting at 6:15 o'clock this evening at the Chicago Woman's club. Marion A. McKinney, director of the women's travel department of the Union Pacific railroad, will give 17 vacation plans as made by the 17 year olds who went to Hollywood for the première of "Seventeen." Children of the Off-the-Street club will present folk and tap dances.

Simple Cross-Stitch Motifs



BY NANCY CABOT.

These attractive and easy-to-do cross-stitch designs are suitable for embroidery on towels, children's clothes, aprons, curtains, pillows, etc. The hot iron transfer design contains 23 motifs, averaging from three by three to five by six inches, also a complete chart of instructions and details of cross-stitch embroidery.

For the hot iron transfer pattern, No. X-680, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework bureau, Chicago Tribune, 320 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Steindel Leads Symphony in Expert Manner

Concert in the Studebaker theater, Monday evening, May 20, 1940, by the Illinois Symphony orchestra, Walter H. Steindel, guest conductor; Evelyn White, pianist.

The program:
Tragic Overture.....Brahms
Symphony No. 6, F major ["Pastoral"].....Beethoven
Concerto No. 4, C minor, for piano.....Saint-Saëns
Overture to "Tannhäuser".....Wagner

BY CECIL SMITH.

Walter H. Steindel, conducting the Illinois Symphony orchestra in place of Izler Solomon, who is now basking in the Miami sun, renewed the impression of excellent traditional schooling which his previous performances have always given. The Brahms "Tragic Overture," not too convincing a work at best, developed as much urgency and impressiveness as it ever could, for Mr. Steindel saw its structure as a large continuity.

That the overture is no more than a mediocre reiteration of a mood already better expressed in the first symphony is hardly Mr. Steindel's fault. The music perhaps comes as close as Brahms ever did to the morose vein more successfully exploited by Tschaikowsky.

Beethoven's "Pastoral" symphony—a much more beautiful work, needless to say—received an expert, well balanced performance. At the outset the first movement was slightly hurried, but it soon settled down into a delightful and well controled tempo. The slow movement was excellently phrased and transparently played by the first violins, tho the accompaniment figure in the lower strings was sometimes a bit rocky. In the main the symphony went extremely well, and the applause was enthusiastic.

When she did not blur her playing with excessive pedal or strain her dexterity to its limit, Evelyn White played the fourth Saint-Saëns concerto with considerable bravado and musicality. Why she played it at all is quite a question, for most of the music is rubbish.

SOPRANO IN RECITAL

A large and enthusiastic audience filled Kimball hall last night for a recital by Friedel Schlippert, a soprano of the Chicago City Opera company. With the dependable assistance of Edgar Nelson as accompanist she sang a program almost exclusively German.

All the faults and virtues commonly associated with the regulation German soprano have been acquired by Miss Schlippert. Her voice is rich and warm and particularly meaty in the middle register; higher up it gets pinched in the back of the throat.

Tansman, and Mae Doelling Schmidt will play a group of piano compositions composed by Eleanor Everest Freer. "Amelia Goes to the Ball" has been given at the Metropolitan in New York and in a number of European cities, but the bits that Mrs. Grace will sing will be the first time that any of it has been sung publicly here. Tea will be served after the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville H. Schell Jr. [Marjorie Bertha] of New York became the parents of a son yesterday at the Doctors' hospital in New York. The baby is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Bertha of Chicago. Mrs. Bertha departed for New York yesterday. The Schells have a 2 year old daughter, Suzanne.

Mrs. Dudley Root sailed Saturday in the Manhattan for Europe. She is going to work with Miss Anne Morgan's American Friends of France. Her daughter, Miss Denise, remained in Chicago with her father, John Root, and Mrs. Root.

Mrs. Donald F. McPherson Goes Soon to Summer Home.

Mrs. Donald F. McPherson is planning to depart on May 27 to open her summer place in the Berkshires. She is expecting some Chicago friends for a visit early in June. They are the R. Douglas Stuarts and their daughter, Miss Anne, who will be in Pittsfield for the graduation exercises at Miss Hall's school on June 5. Margaret Stuart is a member of the graduating class. So is Patricia Cathcart, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Cathcart, also will be in Pittsfield for commencement at the school. The McPhersons' younger daughter, Sally Ann, who is finishing school in Florida this month, will enter Miss Hall's next fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Nicolson are looking forward to a visit in the near future from their 2 year old granddaughter, Christopher Welles, who will be on her way to California. Virginia Nicolson Welles and Charles Lederer, a young writer, were married last Thursday in Phoenix. They have taken a house in Beverly Hills where Christopher will be with them. The Nicolsons recently moved to 202 East Walton place.

According to CULBERTSON

Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.

The only way to defend a hand properly is mentally to place one's self in the declarer's seat, to visualize his problems, to draw a logical conclusion as to his normal course of action and, finally, of course, to apply the proper countermeasures. The player who follows this plan will not be trapped as was East in today's deal:

North, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

	NORTH ♠ 4 3 ♥ 9 ♦ A 9 6 3 2 ♣ A K 7 3 2
WEST ♠ None ♥ 10 8 7 3 2 ♦ K J 10 5 ♣ Q 10 9 6		EAST ♠ Q J 10 8 ♥ A K Q 6 ♦ 7 5 4 ♣ J 5
	SOUTH ♠ A K 9 7 6 5 2 ♥ J 5 4 ♦ Q ♣ 8 4

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	1 heart	1 spade	3 hearts
Pass	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 spades	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

West opened his fourth highest heart. East won with the queen and, on the sound theory that declarer would try to ruff hearts in dummy, returned a trump to cut down dummy's ruffing power. Unfortunately, however, East made a very short-sighted selection of the particular trump to lead. Holding the almost complete sequence of Q-J-10-8, he made the superficially correct return of the queen. Declarer won and was none too pleased at West's failure to follow suit. However, refusing to admit defeat, declarer went about his task in a highly workmanlike fashion. He ruffed a heart, cashed the diamond ace, and ruffed a diamond. He reëntered dummy with a club and ruffed another diamond, then led his last club to dummy's remaining honor. When East had to follow suit, declarer was as good as home. He led a third round of clubs.

Obviously, it would have done East no good to ruff, since declarer merely would have discarded his remaining heart. East, therefore, threw off a heart. Declarer ruffed again, thereby shortening himself to the K-9-7 of trumps and one heart. East, at this stage, held the J-10-8 of trumps and the high heart. Declarer now merely exited with the heart. East won and returned the jack of spades. Declarer coolly ducked this trick and East then was forced to surrender the last two and fulfilling tricks to declarer's K-9 tenace, which lay over the 10-8.

The hand was well played as far as declarer was concerned, but shrewd defense would have defeated any one who was not actually clairvoyant. At the second trick, after winning with the heart queen, East should have returned the eight of trumps, not the queen. Despite the fact that East had doubled the four spade contract, declarer would not be able to read this lead as from Q-J-10-8 and certainly could not afford to put in his own nine spot with any hope of holding the trick. From declarer's point of view, East might hold honors in diamonds and clubs in addition to the A-K-Q of hearts. With the desirability of ruffing out at least one heart in dummy, it would be unthinkable for declarer to play any card except the ace or king of trumps on East's deceptive lead of the eight spot. Declarer could not dream that West was void of spades, hence would be afraid that the play of the nine would permit West to win and return a trump, thereby robbing dummy of both ruffers. If, as was entirely possible, East had a singleton spade and West the Q-J-10, it would be fatal for declarer to duck the eight spot.

Obviously, all East had to do was insure two spade tricks for himself while confining declarer to one heart ruff, and the contract would have been defeated.

Tomorrow's Hand.

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	NORTH ♠ K 10 5 ♥ Q 8 3 ♦ K 8 ♣ A K Q 7 4
WEST ♠ A Q J 8 6 4 ♥ K 2 ♦ 9 4 3 2 ♣ J		EAST ♠ None ♥ A J 10 7 5 ♦ A Q J 7 ♣ 10 8 3 2
	SOUTH ♠ 9 7 3 2 ♥ 9 6 4 ♦ 10 6 5 ♣ 9 6 5

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's column.

Good Morning!

KIND: French melodrama. Drenched in gloom and sordidness.

ACTING: Excellent. Jean Gabin and Michele Morgan [lovely little thing!] are brilliant players, and their fine work is supported by marvelously well turned out characterizations by the supporting cast.

DIRECTION: Morose, spotty, and unpredictable.

PHOTOGRAPHY: Atmospheric and effective.

STORY: Locale is in and around Havre, France. . . . Tale told is of a French soldier, deserter from the army, the unhappy lady of the night he meets in a lonely gin mill, her murderous and slimy guardian who looks and acts like a cross between Charles Laughton and Rasputin, and other unsavory characters.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: None, I would say. Personally I can see no reason or excuse for foisting such a depressing production on a world overburdened with stress, sadness, and apprehension. The film points no moral, and if it be art—then it's art that corrodes and does not inspire.

See you tomorrow.

THEY RAVE OVER TOLL HOUSE COOKIES

Here's a new cookie that everybody loves because it is so delicious, so different and so easy to make. With each crisp bite you taste a delicious bit of Nestle's Semi-Sweet Chocolate and a crunch of rich walnut meat. A perfect combination. Here's a proven recipe that never fails. Try it tomorrow.

1 cup butter
¾ cup brown sugar
¾ cup granulated sugar
2 eggs, beaten whole
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon hot water
2¼ cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped nuts
2 Nestle's Semi-Sweet Economy Bars (7 oz. ea.)
1 teaspoon vanilla

Important: Cut the Nestle's Semi-Sweet in pieces the size of a pea. Cream butter and add sugars and beaten egg. Dissolve soda in the hot water and mix alternately with the flour sifted with the salt. Lastly add the chopped nuts and the pieces of semi-sweet chocolate. Flavor with the vanilla and drop half teaspoons on a greased cookie sheet. Bake 10 to 12 minutes in a 375° F. oven. Makes 100 cookies. Every one will be surprised and delighted to find that the chocolate does not melt. Insist on Nestle's Semi-Sweet Chocolate in the Yellow Wrap, there is no substitute.

This unusual recipe and many others can be found in Mrs. Ruth Wakefield's Cook Book—"Toll House Tried and True Recipes," on sale at all book stores.

TRANSPARENT TENITE PLASTICS

LOVE SEAT, 69.95

MATCHING CHAIR, 29.95 COFFEE TABLE, 7.95

Plastics . . . a startlingly new media of expression! Of considerable import to the designing of sophisticated furnishings, the smooth, sparkling surface gives an illusion of fragility and airy delicacy, yet paradoxically combines advantages no other material possesses: great color variety, durability, low heat conductivity, weather resistance and little moisture absorption. The transparent stripes of plastic are loosely woven like reed or rattan into any desired shape. Enchanting effects are produced by the contrast or harmony of color, the use of transparent, translucent or opaque stripes. Tenite plastic furniture is a "craft" work of distinguished character, combining strength with beauty. Chairs priced from 14.95 to 32.50.

SOX END HOME JINX, 5 TO 4; CUBS WIN, 6 TO 4

SENATORS LOSE AFTER ROUTING RIGNEY IN 8TH

Three Foes on Bases When Game Ends.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Mark down May 20 as the date on which home loving White Sox fans saw their 1940 heroes win a ball game. After nine failures to win their first home victory, the Sox yesterday scored five runs in the first three innings to give them their total in a game which ended with the score: Chicago, 5; Washington, 4.

Moreover, the Sox hopped out of the American league cellar and allowed the New York Yankees to tumble back in, the world champions losing to the Indians.

The 3,000 Comiskey park loyalists who were on hand did not see the glorious reversal of form without squirming. Indeed they might not have seen victory at all if Cecil Travis hadn't missed a squeeze play sign in the ninth just before George Case executed what should have been a score tying bunt. As it was the game ended with the bases loaded with Senators.

Rigney Wins Second Game.

John D. Rigney won his second victory of the season, tho he tired in the eighth after holding the Senators to two singles and two walks in the first seven innings. John fancied yesterday's great weather and with a little more of the same he'll doubtless work into shape to accumulate a big winning streak. After Rigney had bogged down in the eighth, Clint Brown went in to halt the Senators at four runs. Clint had his anxieties in the ninth until the aforesaid wool gathering by the visiting base runners.

Manager Bucky Harris, possibly in a sympathetic mood over the Sox's inability to win a game in the first five weeks at home, obligingly sent forth a tall boy named Sidney Hudson, late of the class D Florida State league. Sidney was earnest, but somewhat inadequate. The Sox made two runs on three hits in the first inning and duplicated the act in the second inning. Then Sidney went away. The Sox made an unearned run off Joe Haynes in the third inning to conclude their scoring for the day.

Kennedy Starts Rally.

The Sox offensive opened with Bob Kennedy beating out a hit to Zeke Bonura. Joe Kuhel popped to Jimmy Bloodworth, but Mike Kreevich put Kennedy on third with a single to center. Taft Wright walked, loading the bases, after which Luke Appling singled to center, Kennedy and Kreevich scoring and Wright reaching third. Larry Rosenthal flied to Case and Hudson tossed out Eric McNair.

Mike Tresh started the second inning production with a single past second base and scored on Rigney's double to left center. Rigney moved to third on Kennedy's sacrifice and scored on Kuhel's single to right. Kuhel was caught trying to steal second and Kreevich struck out.

The winning run was acquired thuswise in the third: Wright was safe on Travis' fumble and went to third on Appling's single to right. Rosenthal sent a long fly to Johnny Welaj, scoring Wright with the Sox final marker. Thereafter the Sox attack consisted of an infield single by Kreevich in the fourth, Wright's single in the seventh [his first hit in 17 times at bat], and singles by Rosenthal and Tresh in the eighth off Alex Carrasquel, third Washington pitcher.

Enemy Hitless Until Fifth.

Rigney was hot stuff in the first four innings, in which he faced a dozen batsmen, the minimum. With two out in the fifth, Travis made the first Washington hit when he dumped a high fly in front of Wright, who was playing deep. The second hit was a single by Welaj in the seventh and it caused no anxiety.

Then came the eighth. Bloodworth was safe on Kennedy's fumble and stopped at second on Rick Ferrell's

THE GUMPS—PARTING OF THE WAYS

I HAVE NO SYMPATHY FOR HER—SUCH STUPIDITY—AND SHE A COUNTESS! IT'S HARD TO BELIEVE!
5-21
FAUGH! THAT SWEET-TALKING PRINCE CHARMING! IT DIDN'T TAKE ME FIVE MINUTES TO SPOT THAT CHEAP CLERK FOR A PHONY!
PERSONALLY, I THOUGHT HE WAS VERY NICE—HA-HA—NOW DON'T GET MAD, DEARIE—BUT THIS REMINDS ME OF THE OLD SAYING— "IT TAKES A PHONY TO SPOT A PHONY"
THIS IS THE END! YOU'RE THE LONGEST NIGHTMARE I'VE EVER HAD! AND IT'S TIME I WOKE UP! PACK UP AND GO BACK TO YOUR BEANERY, YOU OLD HASH-SLINGER! GET OUT! GET OUT, I SAY!!
VERY WELL! I WILL GO—I GUESS I CAN TAKE A HINT!

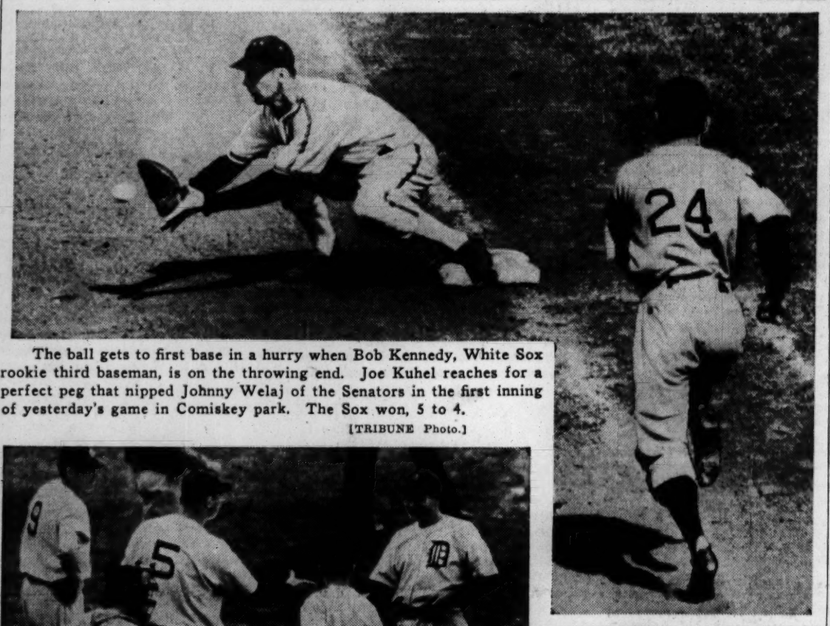
The Throw by Kennedy; the Homer by Higgins



The ball gets to first base in a hurry when Bob Kennedy, White Sox rookie third baseman, is on the throwing end. Joe Kuhel reaches for a perfect peg that nipped Johnny Welaj of the Senators in the first inning of yesterday's game in Comiskey park. The Sox won, 5 to 4. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Pinky Higgins, Tigers' third baseman, seems fresh, even tho he is making his third crossing of home plate in the seventh inning of yesterday's 10 to 7 victory over the Red Sox in Detroit. Higgins hit homers his first three times at bat. Hank Greenberg (No. 5) congratulates the former Red Sox star. No. 9 is Pete Fox, Detroit outfielder, and No. 2 is Gene Desautels, Red Sox catcher. Higgins Blasts 3 Home Runs as Tigers Win

Detroit, Mich., May 20 (AP).—Pinky Higgins hit three home runs in successive trips to the plate and batted in seven runs as the Detroit Tigers beat the league leading Boston Red Sox, 10 to 7, today.

Pinky hit his first two homers off Robert Moses [Lefty] Grove and the other off Jack Wilson. Rudy York was on base when Higgins homered in the fourth and fifth innings and Charley Gehringer and Hank Greenberg in the seventh.

Higgins' third homer clinched victory for Detroit. It was Detroit's first victory over the Red Sox in three games this year. Score:

'IDEAL' DEMPSEY MARRIAGE ENDS IN A SEPARATION

New York, May 20 (AP).—Jack Dempsey and his third wife, the former Hannah Williams, one time musical comedy star, have parted and the "Cheerful Little Earful" may sing again on Broadway.

The announcement of the formal separation—normally a prelude to divorce action—was made late in the day by Mrs. Dempsey's attorney, Moses Polakoff, with the remark: "I guess incompatability would cover it." He added that affairs were being adjusted amicably and that all arrangements would be made after the return to New York next week of the former heavyweight boxing champion.

Custody of Children in Doubt.

Polakoff declined to comment on plans for divorce, pointing out that under New York state law separation cannot be agreed upon with the asserted notion of divorce.

Nothing was said as to custody of the two children—Joan Hannah, 5 years old, and Barbara Judith, 3.

In the seven years since her marriage to Dempsey in Elko, Nev., shortly after her divorce from Roger Wolfe Kahn, she had made no public appearances save for a two week period in the musical "Hooray for What" and perhaps two or three microphone talks with her husband.

Broadway's "Ideal" Match.

Kahn, an orchestra leader, is the son of Otto Kahn, New York banker. Miss Williams' first husband was Charles Kaley, actor and musician.

The marriage of Dempsey and Miss Williams long was celebrated on Broadway as "ideal" because of its apparently assured success.

Dempsey now has wide business interests. His first two marriages—both ending in divorce—were to Maxine Wayne and Estelle Taylor, the actress.

ILLINOIS GOLFERS TOP BIG 9½ PLAY; OHIO STATE IS 2D

Columbus, O., May 20 [Special].—Compiling a total of 628 points, the University of Illinois golf team led the Big 9½ conference tournament at the halfway point tonight, six points ahead of Ohio State and eight points ahead of the third place team, the University of Michigan.

Billy Gilbert, sophomore at Ohio State university, held a comfortable lead for individual honors by putting together rounds of 71-74-145 for the 36 holes, one stroke over par. Gilbert made the trip this morning one under and this afternoon in the wind and rain he slipped to a 74.

Gilbert's Complete Card.

Par—Out	444	535	434—36
Gilbert—Out	444	426	534—36

Gilbert—Out	645	444	434—38
Gilbert—In	445	344	444—36—74—145

Bob Palmer, captain of the University of Michigan team, held second individual honors, eight strokes back of Gilbert, with a 153. Gene Modjeska of Illinois was third with 154.

The teams will play another 36 holes tomorrow to end the annual title play.

TRIBUNE'S GOLF SCHOOL SWINGS INTO THE SWING

Lesson No. 3 Scheduled Tonight on 4 Courses.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

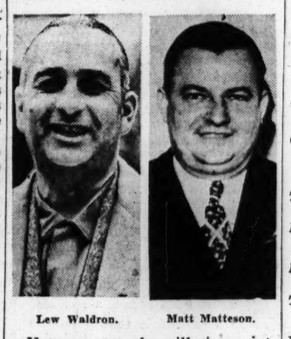
The eighth annual free golf school conducted by THE TRIBUNE enters the second semester of its curriculum tonight with the third lesson of this oldest and biggest plan of group teaching in the game on the four courses of the Chicago park district.

A majority of educational institutions insist on full time attendance in order to gain credits. This is not true of THE TRIBUNE school, which has one of the most elastic methods of teaching in the history of fundamental education.

Let's say you missed the first two lessons of the school last week. The first was devoted to the grip and the second to the stance. This week's two lessons, including tonight's class and the final instruction on Thursday, will stress the factors of the swing. Your absence from those first two classes does not mean that you are barred from attending the final pair.

A Review for Tardy Ones.

The members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' association who constitute the school's faculty today are extending an invitation to those late comers who may have missed those first two lessons to come out tonight and Thursday.



Lew Waldron. Matt Matteson.

Veteran pros who will give pointers on golf swing tonight.

They have promised to review the A B C's of the grip and the stance, before going into the swing.

Last week, in the face of a double postponement of the opening lesson, which eventually was combined with the second lesson on last Thursday evening, more than 22,500 men, women and children attended the free lessons given by Illinois P. G. A. members. The weather man last week put on a three-night blitzkrieg, which threatened to call off the whole show, but this was averted by the spirit of the 8,500 students, who came out Tuesday night in spite of an official postponement. Whether or not the civic meteorologist has a fifth column concealed in the clouds for this evening, he has admitted the possibility of showers.

Remember, It's Free.

If you have an interest in golf and its first principles [and without these no sound game ever has existed] bring a club tonight and Thursday to the park course most convenient to you. All classes will begin promptly at 7 p. m. The four courses are Columbus park, Jackson boulevard, and Central avenue; Marquette park, Marquette road and Kedzie avenue; Jackson park, 63d street and Stony Island avenue, and Diversey, in Lincoln park at Diversey boulevard and Lake Michigan. If you don't own a club, borrow one, and be there at 7 p. m., or before. There is no charge for any of the lessons.

Following Thursday night's closing class, the P. G. A. professors will name the eight most apt pupils at the four courses. These 32 finalists will meet Sunday afternoon in Columbus park in a swinging contest for prizes awarded by THE TRIBUNE and the Chicago District Golf association.

The same head teachers will be in Brief Case.

Whenever I walk a city street
I am always intrigued by the swarm
Of men who are dashing hither and yon
With a brief case under the arm.

Tall men and small men
And men who come in between,
Hurrying here, scurrying there,
With brief case of yellow or green.

In taxicab and on motor bus,
On a fleeting streamlined train,
The brief case brigadiers are there
On every side again.

What do those little bags conceal?
That's the burden of these stanzas,
The plot of a play, bungalow plans,
Or get-rich-quick bonanzas?

I've always wanted to one day be Around when one flew open,
But up to date, it's been my fate
To take it out in hopin'.

In any town and in many a town
I view, but without alarm,
This dashing, flashing army of men
With a brief case under the arm!

HEAVY HITTING SAVES LEE AND 'DREAM' INFIELD

French Chokes Off Dodger Rally.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 20.—On the wings of another "dream" infield, made necessary by an addition to the hospital corps, the Cubs floated to victory again today over the Dodgers, whose pennant bubble seems about ready to explode. Without giving any thought to their haphazard defensive arrangement, the Cubs simply hit the ball and dusted off the local happiness boys for the second consecutive day. The score was 6 to 4. The happiness boys now have dropped eight of fifteen since the nine straight with which they opened the season.

Al Todd.

The result, while it benefitted his skimpy 1940 record, wasn't exactly painless for Bill Lee. He recorded his fourth victory, but for the fifth time in eight starts he couldn't finish. He wilted in the sixth with a five run lead, so Ken Raffensberger cleaned up a four run mess and Larry French then was placed in charge.

Slugging Does It.

The Cubs didn't give much of a break to Hugh Casey, who once was a member of their party. They got rid of him in the fourth inning, the net production during his stay being three runs, due to clouting by Bill Nicholson, Glen Russell, Al Todd, Bob Mattick, and Billy Rogell. Rogell teamed up with Phil Cavarretta and Jim Gleeson for two runs off Vito Lefty Tamulis in the sixth, rounding out the five run advantage Lee and Raffensberger almost lost a moment later. The only other Cub run was a Todd contribution. He hit a seventh inning home run which helped to repair some of the damage done in the sixth when Babe Phelps hit a homer with two aboard.

The "dream" infield had to be formed hastily when Augie Galan, subbing at second base, joined cripples Billy Herman and Stan Hack. Galan injured a foot while struggling to play second base yesterday. With his manpower practically exhausted, Hartnett sent Cavarretta to first, shifted Rogell from third to second, and turned the third basing over to First Baseman Russell. The combination was as slick as a worn dime, not only fielding flawlessly but sharing in production.

Cubs Start Early.

The Cubs' profitable second inning was a neat little coup in which Casey was peppered three times before retiring a man. Nicholson started it by singling to right. Russell singled to center, putting Nicholson on third. Todd also singled to center, Nicholson scoring and Russell going to third. Casey then began to strike pay dirt. Mattick grounded to Reese, forcing Todd at second, but this gave Russell time to scamper home. Lee fouled to Phelps and Rogell closed the inning with a tap to Hudson, making the ex-Tiger's 20th consecutive appearance without a hit.

New Trier at Highland Park.

Tilden Tech handed Lindblom its first defeat of the season yesterday, winning a 5 to 4 decision in 10 innings in Sherman park, but the upset failed to dislodge Lindblom from the central section lead in the Public High School league baseball race. Farragut was deprived of a chance to share first place, losing to Harrison Tech, 8 to 7, in Douglas Park.

Despite six errors, the fourth place Tilden team fought an uphill battle to upset Lindblom by scoring twice in the last of the seventh to tie the count at 3-all, sending the game into overtime. Tilden won in the 10th on successive hits by Scott, Wagner, and Stamik.

Lane Only Unbeaten Team.

Lane Tech thus remained the only undefeated team among the 31 in the league, gaining its ninth consecutive triumph by beating Senn, 6 to 1, in Revere park, and increasing its north section lead to two games over Amundsen. Von Steuben handed Amundsen its third loss in 11 games, winning 5 to 4 in River park. Herb Schmiel of Lane struck out 13 and gained his fourth victory.

Calumet retained a half game lead over Hirsch in the south section, beating Parker in Foster park, 5 to 4, while Hirsch won from Harper, 4 to 1, on the two-hit pitching of Lutz in Grand Crossing park. Stevenson's one hit pitching enabled Fenger to shut out Morgan Park, 5 to 0, in Fernwood park and remain one game behind Hirsch.

Steinmetz, Crane Win.

Steinmetz whipped Kelvyn Park, 5 to 1, in Shabbona park to remain four games in front of Crane in the west section. Crane meantime beat Foreman, 7 to 2, in Altgeld park. Marshall, seventh place team in the west section, defeated last place Washburne, 2 to 1, on two hit pitching by Ward. Pike's one hit pitching enabled Kelly, sixth in the central section, to whip last place Englewood, 13 to 1. Scores:

MORTON WINS TEN IN ROW

The undefeated baseball team of Cicero's Morton High school strengthened its hold on first place in the Suburban league yesterday, defeating Evanston, 8 to 3, for its 10th consecutive victory. Second place Proviso, with five victories in seven games, was idle, but gets a chance to hand Morton its first defeat in Maywood this afternoon. Yesterday's contest was a playoff of a postponed game originally scheduled for May 2.

Oak Park took over third place, defeating New Trier in Winnetka, 7 to 4, while Waukegan dropped to fourth, losing on its home field when last place Highland Park gained its first triumph of the season, 5 to 1. Oak Park has won five and lost four; Waukegan's record is the reverse. Scores:

BEES BREAK OUT IN RASH OF HITS; QUELL REDS, 13-4

Four Cincinnati Hurlers Driven from Mound.

Boston, Mass., May 20 (AP).—The Boston Bees cavorted in two big innings today—a five run third and a six run fourth—as they coasted to a 13 to 4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. Aided by homers by Al Lopez and Carvell Rowell, each of whom hit with two men on base, Dick Errickson went the route, allowing eleven hits, but tightening up when danger threatened. The Bees drove four Cincinnati pitchers from the mound. Score:

PHILLIES' RALLY WINS.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 20 (AP).—The Phillies, putting on a dramatic ninth inning rally today, erased a six run deficit and hung up their second consecutive triumph over Pittsburgh, 8 to 7. It was the third straight victory for Philadelphia. Four Pirate hurlers worked in the wild ninth, Mace Brown going out with a sore arm, Max Butcher and John Lanning being knocked out of the box and Dick Lannahan ending the game. Manager Frankie Frisch and Bob Elliott of the Pirates, and Joe Marty of the Phils were banished for disputing decisions. Score:

GIANTS' CASTOFF HUMBLES YANKS; INDIANS WIN, 10-2

Cleveland, O., May 20 (AP).—Al Smith, a southpaw pitcher formerly with the New York Giants and resurrected from the minors, held the New York Yankees to three hits today as the Indians humiliated the world champions, 10 to 2, and sent them back to the American league cellar. Smith had the Yankees shut out on one hit—a double by Buster Mills in the second—for eight innings, but in the ninth Bill Knickerbocker singled, Joe Di Maggio walked, and Bill Dickey doubled for two runs. Wright Makes a Call on an Old Pal

Taft Wright, White Sox outfielder, plunges into home in time to beat Outfielder Welaj's throw to Catcher Rick Ferrell in third inning of yesterday's game with the Senators. The umpire is Red Ormsby and No. 7 is Eric McNair waiting his turn to bat. Wright and Ferrell were teammates with Washington last year. The Sox won, 5 to 4.

single to left. Sammy West batted for Haynes and flied to Rosenthal, but the bases were loaded after Case singled to center. Buddy Lewis popped to Kuhel, but Welaj singled to left, scoring Bloodworth and Ferrell and putting Case on third. Welaj reached second when Rosenthal threw to the wrong base. Gee Walker singled over third, scoring Case and Welaj. Rigney was replaced by Brown and Zeke Bonura fouled to Kuhel.

Mr. Travis Goes to Sleep.

And now for the aforesaid ninth inning. Travis opened with a single and moved up on Bloodworth's sacrifice. Ferrell flied to Wright, but Buddy Myer, batting for Carrasquel, beat out a bouncer to Kennedy, Travis reaching third. Case bunted perfectly toward third and had Travis known what was going on he could have scored easily. Kennedy, surprised as much as Travis, played the ball as rapidly as he could and, seeing Travis dozing at third, threw toward first. His throw was wide and got away from Kuhel. However, with Travis still anchored at third Joe had plenty of time to recover the ball. So the bases were full with two out. Lewis flied to Kreevich and the Sox had won their first 1940 game at home.

Jack Knott, proud possessor of two victories with no defeats attached, will pitch for the White Sox at Comiskey park this afternoon in the final with the Washington Senators. Jack held the Athletics to three hits in six innings on May 7 and withdrew after yielding another hit and walking three in the seventh. Pete Appleton protected the lead thereafter. In Detroit May 11 Jack and Tommy Bridges each yielded two singles and Jack's side was the winner, 1 to 0. That was Knott's last assignment up to today's.

The Athletics, who have the dubious distinction of being the only team on whom the Sox are up in the season series to date, will come in tomorrow for a two game series. The A's visit will wind up the first invasion by eastern teams.

Hooray!

Cubs Turn to Bats; Wallop Dodgers, 6-4

the faces of the Dodgers in the first inning. He fanned Reese, Walker, and Lavagetto. In the second he restricted them to a walk, which went to Camilli between outs by Phelps and Cullenbine. The pass was quickly erased on Gilbert's grounder to Mattick. The third fetched the Dodgers out of the no-hit class. Casey singled to center and was forced by Reese. Walker also singled, sending Reese to third, but the Dodgers' joy was short-lived. Lavagetto bounced to Russell for the third out.

Cubs March On.

The Cubs didn't start on Casey until after the first two men had been retired in the fourth, but before the inning ended they had a run and Casey was among the departed. Mattick hung out the sign for action by caroming a single off Casey's glove. Lee walked and Rogell broke his hitless fetters by singling to left, scoring Mattick. The Rogell single was enough to make Manager Leo Durocher recall Casey and substitute Tamulis, who walked Cavarreta, filling the bases. Gleeson bounced to Lavagetto, who stepped on third, leaving three stranded.

The Cubs also waited until after Mattick and Lee had been set down in the sixth before they started on another two run foray. Rogell got farther away from his slump by singling over short. A moment later he scored on Cavarretta's double to left. Gleeson doubled off the scoreboard in right and Cavarretta scored. Gleeson went to third on a wild pitch, but Leiber fouled to Phelps.

Lee Goes Away.

The Lee decline started when Reese opened the sixth with a double. He was nailed trying to stretch it into a triple. Walker and Lavagetto then walked and on the first pitch Phelps blew his homer over the right field wall. Camilli doubled to right, so Lee was tabled and Raffensberger took his place. The rescuing southpaw's first offense was a pass to Culenbine. Koy batted for Gilbert and singled to center to score Camilli, but the Cubs received unexpected help from Koy, who tried to go to second on Gleeson's momentary bobble. He was cut down, after which Hudson closed the incident by flying to Leiber.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 20.—The injury that put Augie Galan of the Cubs on the bench today occurred in the first inning yesterday when he slid into second base. He bruised his left little toe, but stayed in the game. Extreme pain developed during the night, so the foot was X-rayed this morning. The plates did not indicate a fracture.

Matteson and Foulis High in Pro-Pro Play

Foulis collaborated with Bill Brown of the home club for a best ball of 34—34—68, which was duplicated by Matteson and Harley Greenamyre of Acacia.

Best individual performance of the day was submitted by Tom Armour of Medinah, who had a 34—35—69 on his own ball. This served to bring him a best ball at the same figure with the two partners with whom he played—Bill Rhodes of Sunset Ridge and Charley Penna of Medinah.

After the tournament, the members concluded their 1940 clinic in a two hour session presided over by President Alex Cunningham of North Shore. Tomorrow night, the professionals will take time out from their duties as teachers in the TRIBUNE'S eighth annual golf school for their own yearly party in the terrace room of the Morrison hotel. TRIBUNE MEDALS AWARDED 3 KNOX COLLEGE CADETS

Annual Review Linked to 'Old Siwash' Premiere.

BY BRUCE DENNIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Galesburg, Ill., May 20 [Special].—On a drill field warmed by a bright May sun, the Knox college R. O. T. C. marched today in its annual review. A crowd of several hundred—students, men and women from Galesburg and the surrounding Knox county area — cheered the trim, smartly trained cadets, 152 strong, as they swung along.

Highlighting the review was the presentation of Chicago Tribune gold, silver, and bronze medals to the three oustanding members of the battalion. Dr. Carter Davidson, president of Knox, and Maj. E. D. Porter of the United States infantry, commandant of the corps, made the presentations.

The gold medal, awarded to the outstanding senior, went to Cadet Lieutenant Colonel Henry R. Lewis of Willmar, Minn. The silver medal, for the ranking junior, went to First Sergeant Robert R. Mariner of Galesburg. A bronze medal was pinned on the uniform of Royce Davis of Avon, Ill., a sophomore, as the leading basic student in military training.

Premiere Seats All Sold.

The crowd was augmented by hundreds of persons here for the beginning of Galesburg's two day festival, to be climaxed tomorrow night with the world première of the Paramount film, "Those Were the Days," at the Orpheum theater. The theater's 1,100 seats were snapped up in an hour last week, and the movie will be shown simultaneously at two other theaters.

The picture is based on the Old Siwash stories of George H. Fitch, Knox college alumnus, humorist and newspaper man, who died in 1915. Mrs. Fitch, now dean of women at the University of Oregon, arrived by auto this afternoon to attend the première.

On a train came 14 eye-taking college girls, finalists in a nation-wide contest to pick the all-American co-ed. They will compete with Hollywood actors, here for the première, for the favor of Galesburg autograph collectors.

More Celebrities on the Way.

Movie personalities already on hand are Jay Theodore Reed, director of "Those Were the Days"; Lynne Overman, J. Carroll Naish, Vaughan Flaser, and Muriel Angelus.

The all-American co-ed will be selected tomorrow morning, and her name will be announced just before the première. She will get a trip to Hollywood and a screen test. Those in the contest, and their schools, are: Marjorie Booth, University of Wisconsin; Grace Chapman, Connecticut; Camille Wachter, North Dakota; Ruthe Minor, Mississippi; Jean McKenzie, U. C. L. A.; Barbara McNerney, Colorado; Ann Khrenbrink, University of Cincinnati; Betty Labrandt, Kansas City Junior college; Mary Lou Bullard, West Virginia; Roberta Ludden, Utah; Doris May Pierce, Rhode Island State; Lucille Smoak, Florida State; Bettie Cox, Nebraska, and Betty Anderson, Mount Union college. Alliance, O.

Military training at Knox dates back to 1862, when the boys wore grey uniforms and forage caps. The R. O. T. C. unit was established in 1920. Sharing its direction with Maj. Porter are Maj. H. W. Lehr and Sergt. M. J. Fauset.

The current enrollment of 152 is made up of 21 seniors, 21 juniors, 44 sophomores, and 66 freshmen. The total is up 20 per cent from last year. Knox has 350 male students.

R. O. T. C. enrollment is not compulsory. Freshmen and sophomores elect it instead of gymnasium work. Because of limited facilities, advanced training is limited to 21 men each from the senior and junior classes. They are paid 25 cents a day, year around, except during camp periods. Juniors get $29 uniform allowance and seniors $7 for uniform maintenance.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Helen Francoeur.

Funeral services for Mrs. Helen Francoeur, a Chicago resident for 84 years, will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 5200 North Western avenue. Mrs. Francoeur, who was 85 years old, died Sunday in her home at 5015 North Paulina street. She was born in Rotterdam, Holland, and was brought to this country by her parents before she was a year old. Her father, John C. Hendricks, was an architect with offices at Monroe and Halsted streets. During the fire of 1871 the family lived near the famous O'Leary barn where the conflagration originated. Mrs. Francoeur is survived by three sons, Arthur L., Louis V., and J. Alfred Francoeur.

William L. Burmeister, who walked 225,000 miles during 39 years as a mailman, died yesterday in the Mercy hospital at the age of 77. Mr. Burmeister retired as a letter carrier in 1928. His entire postal career—from 1889 to 1928—was spent at the Armour substation. Surviving are three daughters, Miss Marguerite, secretary to Sanitary Trustee James M. Whalen; Mrs. R. W. Ives, and Mrs. E. O. Scherrer. Funeral services will be held from his home at 6436 Ingleside avenue to the Holy Cross church at 9 a. m. Thursday. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

Mrs. Maria Boyle.

Funeral services for Mrs. Maria Boyle, 7756 Colfax avenue, were held yesterday afternoon in a chapel at 79th street and Emerald avenue. Burial was at Mount Olivet cemetery. Mrs. Boyle was 92 years old and had been a resident of Chicago for almost 70 years. Born in Australia in 1848, Mrs. Boyle was taken to London, England, as a child. She came to Chicago with her husband, Peter, in 1872. Surving are a son, John G., and three daughters, Mrs. E. H. Moran, Mrs. W. F. Thayer, and May Boyle.

Mrs. Elizabeth Morrison.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Morrison, 85 years old, who died in her home at 35 North Austin boulevard Sunday, will be held at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow in St. Catherine of Siena church, 38 North Austin boulevard, Oak Park. Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery. Mrs. Morrison was the mother of the Rev. Joseph M. Morrison, pastor of that church, until his death two years ago. She was the grandmother of two priests. Three sons and a daughter survive.

Walter Gerts.

Walter Gerts, 70 years old, retired secretary of Gerts, Lumbard & Co., brush manufacturers, died yesterday in his home in Altadena, Cal. He formerly lived in Rivert Forest, moving to California after his retirement in 1934. His father, George E. Gerts, founded the brush company in 1850. Mr. Gerts, a former director of the Chicago Rotary club, is survived by his widow, Ethel, and a daughter, Polly. Funeral services will be held in California.

Mrs. Sarah Levy Snitzer.

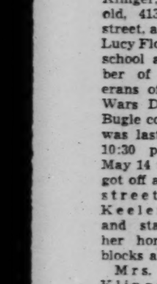
Mrs. Sarah Levy Snitzer, a resident in Chicago since 1878, died yesterday in her home at 4942 North Monticello avenue. She was 82 years old. She is survived by four sons, Louis, Samuel, Joseph, and Perce Snitzer, and two daughters, Mrs. Jennie Weil and Mrs. Fannye Levy, five grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren. Funeral services will be held in the home at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Burial will be in Waldheim cemetery.

Dr. Meyer Nuta.

Dr. Meyer Nuta, a physician, surgeon, and dentist in Chicago for more than 35 years, died yesterday in his home at 4437 Jackson boulevard. He was 66 years old. Dr. Nuta was a graduate of the University of Bucharest. He had maintained offices at 3152 Roosevelt road. He leaves his wife, Laura, and a son, Alexander. Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 3654 Roosevelt road. Burial will be in Waldheim cemetery.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRL MISSING; POLICE BEGIN AN INQUIRY

The police yesterday were investigating the mysterious disappearance of Miss Helen Klinger, 17 years old, 4138 Lake street, a senior at Lucy Flower High school and member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Drum and Bugle corps. She was last seen at 10:30 p. m. on May 14 when she got off a Madison street car at Keeler avenue and started for her home three blocks away.



Helen Klinger.

Mrs. Frank Klinger, her mother, told the police that she believed her daughter had been kidnaped or may have met with foul play. Miss Klinger had attended band practice with the bugle corps at 9 North Franklin street just prior to her disappearance. Several witnesses said that she got off the car and started to run for home because it was raining. She did not reach home.

Miss Klinger has dark brown hair and blue eyes. She is 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 126 pounds. When she disappeared she was wearing a dark green pleated skirt, a pink blouse, a tan plaid jacket, and no hat.

METAL EXPERTS TELL GROWTH OF THEIR INDUSTRY

Jobs Made and Products Are Bettered.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., May 20 [Special].—How private industry is pushing back the frontiers of unemployment to make better products and more jobs was related today in a survey by the Milwaukee Chapter of the American Society of Metals. George Dreher, chairman of the chapter, cited instances of half a dozen Milwaukee firms which by engineering and scientific experiment have developed products enriching the nation.

Similar progress against stagnation in industry is being made in almost all industrial concerns here, Mr. Dreher said, and Milwaukee is only a cross section of what private industry is doing everywhere to find new products and new ways of processing.

Metallurgy Lowers Costs.

The metallurgist improves metal products by lowering costs and increasing safety and adaptability Mr. Dreher explained.

"Lowering costs does not mean less use of labor," he said. "The tendency is to put more work into metal by alloying it and treating it to make it lighter, stronger and in the end cheaper to the consumer. The new product opens the field to much greater employment."

The A. O. Smith corporation here has developed a welding method that makes the weld stronger than the parent metal and is thus able to produce great pressure vessels to withstand tremendous strains in cracking crude oil into gasoline, the survey declared. Without these vessels, there would still be gasoline but the quality would not be as high nor the cost as low. These same pressure vessels have been used in the process of creating high octane rated gasoline for aviation, a fuel superior, it is said, to that available to other nations.

Makes Glass-like Steel.

Dr. H. K. Ihrig of the Globe Steel company has developed a process of changing the surface of metal treated into high silicon alloy. It is like glass, extremely resistant to acid attack and is beginning to find use for automobile parts and in the oil industry. The Globe Steel company also has developed stainless steel tubes able to withstand the 1,400 degrees fahrenheit temperature reached in the catalytic process of creating high octane gas.

The metallurgist is helpful not only in ponderous affairs but he has his lighter moments, the survey indicated. The Globe Union company, has a surface that hardens roller skate wheels so they will last longer.

The Ampco company which was a five man foundry in 1932 when shops everywhere were idle because of the depression now has 150 men in its metal department all working on metal alloys developed in the company. They make fatigue-resisting and nonfreeze parts for airplanes used on 66 models of planes produced by 42 companies, replacing steel and bronze.

Gears Heat Treated.

The Falk corporation perfected a process for heat treating large gears and castings for drive units, increasing strength without additional weight. The Falk company also is developing a new type of clutch for marine service that will cut in two the time it now takes a vessel to reverse its direction by power.

The Sivyer Steel company and the Wehr Steel company coöperated to cast steel sections for high speed army tanks with an alloy lighter and stronger than steel previously used.

Metallurgists at the Chain Belt company have developed an alloy and a process of heat treatment for cast iron that made possible a concrete pump that cuts the cost of handling soft concrete.

Christian Ruhle, Former Kankakee Alderman, Dies

Kankakee, Ill., May 20 [Special].—Christian Ruhle, 84 years old, former Kankakee alderman and head of the Ruhle Construction Material firm, died today of a heart attack. Surviving are two daughters, Miss Meta Ruhle and Mrs. W. I. Holcomb of Kankakee, and two sons, William Ruhle of Springfield and Dr. George Ruhle, naturalist at Glacier National park.

Boy, Scolded for Missing Classes, Hangs Himself

Victor Sienkiewicz, 17 years old, hanged himself in the basement of his home at 1331 North Ashland avenue last night after he had been scolded for missing school classes. He was a third year pupil in Austin High school. Policeman Frank Cronin of the Racine avenue station said the boy's older brothers, Alfred and Stanley, had reprimanded him.

George A. Warne Funeral Will Be Held Tomorrow

Funeral services for George A. Warne, copy chief and art director for the Wade Advertising agency, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the Jefferson Park Congregational church, 5318 Giddings street. He died Saturday in his home at 5120 Pensacola avenue. He was 61 years old. Burial will be in Oakridge cemetery. Surviving Mr. Warne are his widow, Grace; a daughter, Helen, and a son, Ray.

VOTE FRAUD JURY TOLD OF PRECINCT CAPTAIN'S SPYING

The bench trial of four election officials of the 3d precinct of the 24th ward began yesterday before Judge James F. Fardy in the Criminal court. The defendants, Joseph Schneiderman, Democratic precinct captain; Mrs. Leonora Roberson, Democratic judge, and George Martens and Mrs. Shirley Moser, Republican judges, are charged with conspiracy to violate the election laws in the April, 1939, mayoral election.

Dwight H. Green, Republican candidate for mayor in the election, received 15 votes, according to the precinct election board's report. A recount ordered by the County court gave him 90.

Miss Bertha Van, one of two election clerks indicted with the defendants, testified as a state witness. She said she had seen Schneiderman spying on voters as they marked ballots. She said he later told her to tell the grand jury the election was honest. Robert Hafkey, the other clerk, also will be a state witness.

GEORGE GIBBS, 79, ELECTRIFICATION EXPERT, IS DEAD

New York, May 20 [Special].—George Gibbs, a leading authority on railroad electrification, died last night. He was 79 years old.

Gibbs helped accomplish many engineering feats that revolutionized the railroad industry in the last half-century, and in 1917 was a member of the advisory commission of railway experts sent to Russia by the state department.

He was descended from two of the oldest families in America, and was born in Chicago on April 19, 1861, the son of Francis S. and Eliza G. Hosmer Gibbs.

Gibbs was a bachelor. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Laura G. Miller of Baltimore; a nephew, Wolcott Gibbs of New York, and by four nieces, Mrs. W. F. Peterson of Baltimore, Mrs. Robert Canfield of Port Washington, L. I., and Mrs. Joseph McGrath and Mrs. R. N. Williams, both of Milwaukee, Wis.

Father of John Boettiger Dies in California Home

Adam C. Boettiger, former Chicagoan and father of John Boettiger, son-in-law of President Roosevelt, died last night in his home in San Diego, Cal. He was 74 years old. Mr. Boettiger was assistant secretary of the old Union Trust company, in charge of the collateral held by that bank. He retired in 1922 after 33 years of service and moved to California immediately afterward. His wife, Mrs. Dorothy Ott Boettiger, died in San Diego in 1931. John Boettiger, a former member of THE TRIBUNE editorial staff and Washington bureau, is publisher of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

The Alfred P. Sloan foundation has granted funds to the University of Chicago for the third year for continuation of the university's radio broadcasting of educational and economic information. University officials have announced that the new grant is $43,310, an increase of about $5,000 over last year. The foundation grants have permitted the university to widen the scope of its Round Table broadcasts.

Von Heidenstam, Swedish Nobel Prize Writer, Dies

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 20 (AP). Carl Gustaf Verner von Heidenstam, Swedish writer, who won the Nobel prize for literature in 1916, died here today. He was 81 years old. His publications included Endymion, Hans Alienus, Modern Barbarism, Dikter, Karolinerna I. and II., and Nya Dikter, which won him the Nobel prize.

[ADVERTISMENT]

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

SUPREME COURT OUTLAWS STATE CHURCH 'CENSOR'

Lifts Connecticut Ban on Solicitors for Funds.

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—Altho recognizing "the probability of excesses and abuses" in the exercise of religious freedom, the Supreme court today held unconstitutional a Connecticut law requiring solicitors for religious causes to obtain permits.

The statute in question required the secretary of the public welfare council to determine, when a solicitor applied for a permit, whether his cause was actually a religious one and, if not, to reject the application. The court termed this provision "censorship."

Father and Two Sons Rebel.

Newton Cantwell and his two sons, Russell, 18, and Jesse, 16, who asserted that they were ordained ministers, had refused to apply for a permit to solicit funds on the ground that to do so would be an "insult to almighty God and result in their eternal destruction."

In addition, Jesse was convicted of a breach of the peace as a result of playing a phonograph record on a New Haven street before two Catholics to whom he sought to sell books. The record attacked the Catholic church.

No Breach of Peace.

The testimony showed, Justice Roberts' opinion said, that when the hearers became offended, Cantwell "picked up his books and walked up the street" and the court found that this conduct constituted no breach of the peace.

"In the realm of religious faith, and in that of political belief, sharp differences arise," the court said. "In both fields the tenets of one man may seem the rankest error to his neighbor. But the people of this nation have ordained in the light of history that in spite of the probability of excesses and abuses, these liberties are, in the long view, essential to enlightened opinion and right conduct on the part of the citizens of a democracy."

CEMETERY FRAUD DEFENDANTS GET 1½ TO 5 YEARS

Sentences ranging from 18 months to 5 years were imposed by Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday on 14 persons recently found guilty of using the mails to defraud in connection with the sale of cemetery lots.

Christian W. Beck of Cleveland, O., whom A. Bradley Eben, government prosecutor, termed the principal defendant, got five years in Leavenworth penitentiary. Robert Stickney, Boston, Mass., general sales manager of the First Commonwealth Trustees of Chicago, the company which sold the lots, got a four year term, and Michael Gordon of Cleveland, O., sales manager, a three year term.

Eleven other defendants, most of them salesmen, received sentences of from 18 months to 3 years. The government alleges $200,000 worth of lots were sold in an undeveloped section of a cemetery near Twinsburg, O., on the promise of large profits.

4 MILLION DOLLAR ESTATE LEFT BY JAMES SIMPSON

An inventory filed yesterday with Probate Clerk Frank Lyman showed that James Simpson, utilities head who died last Nov. 25, left an estate of more than four million dollars. The bulk of his estate consisted of $3,167,000 in bonds, according to the inventory. Stock holdings, including more than 2,000 of Marshall Field & Co. stock, amounted to $225,000, and cash was $530,000. Real estate also was listed, but its value, estimated at several hundred thousand dollars, was not given. Mr. Simpson left most of his properties to his family, but also specified considerable bequests in his will for charitable purposes. He was chairman of the Commonwealth Edison company and its associated utilities and also chairman of the executive committee of Marshall Field & Co.

[ADVERTISMENT]

HOSPITAL TESTS REVEAL GREAT DISCOVERY FOR CONSTIPATION

Tests in a world-famous hospital have proved a "little daily dose" of Kruschen (world-famous formula, now at last obtainable in pleasant tasting "bubbling" form) actually produces nature's own gentle, pleasant, "daily" bowel movements by keeping the waste matter in the colon moist, soft and easy to expel.

Scientists report: "Kruschen can be taken for years without having to increase the dose." Also acts as a mild Antacid and Kidney Stimulant. Gives you MORE for your money, too! A jar that costs only a trifle lasts for WEEKS. Over 245,000,000 jars have been sold thruout the world. Kruschen MUST be good—it MUST do the work! Made in U. S. A.

Now Comes In Pleasant Tasting "Bubbling" Form!

SUPREME COURT RULES GUFFEY COAL ACT VALID

Holds Federal Price Fixing Legal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—The bituminous coal act of 1937, under which a division in the interior department is engaged in a determination of minimum prices to be charged for bituminous coal delivered at mines thruout the industry, was pronounced constitutional by the United States Supreme court today. The court divided, 8 to 1, with Justice James C. McReynolds dissenting.

Justice J. C. McReynolds is dissenter.

The power of the government to "stabilize" the coal industry by fixing prices and imposing regulations for the elimination of "unfair competition" was upheld just two weeks after the court's decision in the so-called Madison Oil conspiracy case that the Sherman antitrust act forbids any action on the part of private industry to control prices and eliminate unfair competition.

Douglas Writes Opinions.

Justice William O. Douglas, who wrote the opinion in both the oil and the coal cases asserted that, "if the coal industry acting on its own had endeavored to stabilize the markets thru price fixing agreements, it would have run afoul of the Sherman act."

The first Guffey coal act, passed in 1935, was held unconstitutional on the ground that its marketing provisions were so inextricably interwoven with invalid labor relations provisions as to transcend the power of congress to regulate interstate commerce. The labor provisions were eliminated and a new law was passed in 1937.

The national bituminous coal commission withdrew its proposed minimum price schedules in 1939, after its procedure had been condemned by the federal courts, and President Roosevelt later transferred the functions of the commission to a division in the interior department.

Price Schedule Pending.

Minimum prices recommended after hearings by trial examiners now are pending before Howard A. Gray, director of the division, who will hear oral argument on exceptions to the recommendations beginning May 27. His final determinations, which are subject to the approval of Secretary Harold L. Ickes, are expected to be proclaimed in July.

The coal act has been denounced by some of the largest bituminous producers in the country. It has been condemned likewise by consumers generally, since the proposed minimum prices will greatly increase the nation's coal bill.

The act organizes the coal industry under a so-called code with about 20 district boards of code members operating as an aid to the authority in Washington but under its domination. The act imposes a tax of 1 cent a ton on the sale of coal by all producers and an additional tax of 19½ cents a ton on the sale of coal by producers who are not members of the code. Justice Douglas observed that "there are strong inducements for joining the code."

Company Challenges Act.

The Sunshine Anthracite Coal company, an Arkansas producer, objected to the payment of the penalty tax and challenged the constitutionality of the law, contending congress lacked the power to fix minimum prices and that the act unlawfully delegated legislative and judicial power.

Justice Douglas conceded that the tax was not designed for revenue purposes, but said congress has authority to "impose penalties in aid of the exercise of any of its enumerated powers."

"The regulatory provisions are clearly within the power of congress under the commerce clause of the constitution," said the Douglas opinion. "These provisions are applicable only to sales or transactions in, or directly or intimately affecting, interstate commerce. The fixing of prices, proscription of unfair trade practices, and establishment of marketing rules respecting such sales constitute regulations within the competence of congress under the commerce clause.

Demand Federal Intervention.

"For a generation there have been various manifestations of incessant demand for federal intervention in the coal industry. The investigations preceding the 1935 and 1937 acts are replete with an exposition of conditions which have beset that industry.

"Overproduction and savage, competitive warfare wasted the industry. Labor and capital alike were the victims. Financial distress among operators and acute poverty among miners prevailed even during periods of general prosperity. The history of the bituminous coal industry is written in blood as well as in ink."

Altho private industry is forbidden by the Sherman act to take concerted action for the elimination of unfair competition, Justice Douglas said, congress retains the power to modify what it has forbidden in that law.

"It may do so by placing the machinery of price fixing in the hands of public agencies," the opinion declared. "It may single out for separate treatment, as it has done on various occasions, a particular industry and thereby remove the penalties of the Sherman act as respects it."

Utility to Cut System Under 'Death Clause'

Middle West corporation yesterday responded to the Securities and Exchange commission's integration notice by proposing to confine its holdings of operating untility properties to two geographical areas and to dispose of eight companies outside the areas. Hearing on the proposal was set for June 28.

Middle West, key holding company of the former Insull system, suggested that in addition to certain nonutility properties it dispose of the Central Power company, Kansas Electric Power company, Michigan Gas and Electric company, Missouri Gas and Electric Service company, Albion Gas Light company, Arkansas-Missouri Power corporation, East Missouri Power company, and Northwestern Public Service company.

These companies provide about 8 per cent of the system's total revenues.

Plans Southwest Group.

Asserting the companies "constitute a single integrated public utility system," Middle West plans to group in its first geographical area properties located in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Louisiana.

Utility assets in this area are owned by Central Power and Light company, West Texas Utilities company, Pecos Valley Power and Light company, Southwestern Light and Power company, Public Service company of Oklahoma, Oklahoma Power and Water company, and Southwestern Gas and Electric company.

Properties in this area consist of the Central Illinois Public Service company, Kentucky Utilities company and its subsidiaries [Old Dominion Power company, Dixie Power and Light company, and South Fulton Light and Power company], Kentucky Power and Light company, Wisconsin Power and Light company and its subsidiary [South Beloit Water, Gas and Electric company], and Lake Superior District Power company.

Asks Dismisall of 52.

Listing 52 companies which it denies are its subsidiaries as claimed by the SEC, the company requested that they be dismissed from the integration proceeding. These include Canadian subsidiaries deemed not to be within the purview of the objectives of the act and the subsidiaries of companies that are in reorganization proceedings and in the hands of trustees appointed by courts.

Included in the reorganization status are Midland United company, Midland Utilities company, Commonwealth Light and Power company, Midland Power and Light corporation, Gary Electric and Gas company, Central Indiana Power company, Public Service company of Indiana, Northern Indiana Public Service company, Gary Heat, Light and Water company, Northern Indiana Power company, and Chicago, South Shore and South Bend railroad.

Another company for which dismissal was asked is the Missouri Public Service corporation, in which Middle West has contracted to sell all of its interest, subject to SEC approval.

Middle West's answer stipulated that proceeds from the disposal of properties may be used for the expansion of properties in the two proposed geographical areas.

Will Press for Sale.

The answer also asserted that Middle West is cognizant of the desirability of disposing of its nonutility company stocks. "Business conditions," it said, "have not been favorable to a sale of these properties but opportunities for their sales on reasonable terms will be vigorously pursued."

Altho the Middle West answer evidenced a disposition to work out the integration problems in coöperation with the SEC, it also provided for the preservation of all legal rights by alleging the public utility holding company act is unconstitutional.

The big utility system acted under the "death sentence" provision of the holding company law, which has also been applied to other major systems. The law empowers the SEC to force geographical grouping of utility properties and simplification of holding company capital structures.

BOND OFFERING BY TEXAS CORP. IS POSTPONED

Underwriters for a $60,000,000 issue of Texas corporation 2¾ per cent bonds, scheduled for public offering tomorrow, announced yesterday that the financing will be deferred until the market recovers from last week's upset. Texas corporation is a large producer and refiner of oil.

Jersey Central Power and Light company filed with the Securities and Exchange commission an amendment stating that the company will offer $38,000,000 of 3⅛ per cent first mortgage bonds due 1956. Originally the plan was to issue $39,000,000 of bonds due 1964 and $3,225,000 of serial notes.

Domestic Air Lines Set New Passenger Records

Domestic airlines flew 79,885,146 revenue passenger miles in April, an all time record, the Air Transport Association of America announced yesterday. The figure represented a 68.45 per cent increase over April last year and 9.29 per cent over March, 1940, the previous peak month.

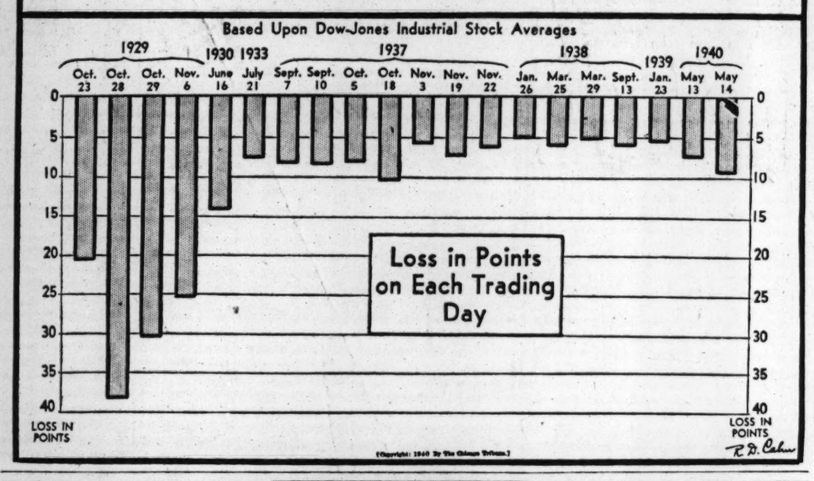
Weak Markets in May Compared with Previous Stock Breaks



Rally in Stocks Bogs Down in Lighter Trade

New York, May 20 (AP).—The stock market tried for a sizable rally today, but many leaders, including steels, retreated in the final hour and finished just about where they started or a little lower.

Trades seemed to have shaken off some of their war tremors and buying in the forenoon, when gains ranged from 1 to 3 points, was attributed partly to the belief stocks were "oversold." Better resistance to the German onslaught in northern France also improved sentiment.

Many speculators, however, turned sellers, cashing in on the morning bulge. The result was a seesaw after midday that left definite trends in doubt.

Average Shows Small Gain.

Altho there were several soft spots among aircrafts and elsewhere, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks managed to hold a net gain of .2 of a point at 40.6. Volume lagged appreciably on the morning upswing. Transfers of 1,237,780 shares were the smallest for a full session since May 9. They compared with 3,074,340 shares last Friday.

Steels lost their climbing power at the finish, notwithstanding this week's mill operations were estimated at the highest level since the latter part of January. United States Steel was unchanged, Bethlehem off a small fraction, and Republic and Youngstown up slightly.

Aviation Issues Mixed.

Douglas Aircraft and United Aircraft finished off nearly two points each. Modest improvement was retained by Boeing, Glenn Martin, Sperry, and Curtiss-Wright. Finishing higher were General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, Western Union, American Smelting, du Pont, American Telephone, Santa Fé, and Great Northern.

Losers included Westinghouse, Montgomery Ward, Dow Chemical, Allied Chemical, Philip Morris, and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

SILVER DEALER LIFTS PRICE TO 35 CTS. AN OUNCE

New York, May 20 [Special].—Handy & Harman today boosted its New York price for silver to 35 cents an ounce. This is the first change since Dec. 26, when the metal was quoted at 34¾ cents, which is the standing bid price of the United States treasury, less ¼ cent brokerage.

The price rise followed the news that the British board of trade had made exports of silver bullion subject to license. Financial circles interpreted the British order to mean that no license will be granted to export silver except at the official rate for sterling, which is $4.03½.

Liverpool Halts Trading in Cotton for Three Days

LIVERPOOL, May 20 (AP).—The directors of the Liverpool cotton market ordered the market closed today, tomorrow and Wednesday under rules providing for such an action in any special emergency. The purpose was to give the market time to stabilize following recent large price declines.

FRANCE, BUILDING UP ITS WAR CHEST, CALLS IN DOLLARS AND GOLD

PARIS, May 20 (AP).—The French finance ministry today called in all American and Canadian dollars and gold in France under its policy of "putting at the disposition of the country the foreign exchange resources indispensable to the conduct of the war."

Dollar banknotes were ordered turned in to the Bank of France or to an account in some other French bank before June 30. The same deadline was set for delivery to the Bank of France of gold which already had been called in under the exchange control law.

COURT REVERSES SEC EXPULSION OF C. C. WRIGHT

New York, May 20 (AP).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today reversed an order of the Securities and Exchange commission directing the expulsion of Charles C. Wright from the New York Stock exchange and other national exchanges.

The case was remanded back to the commission to determine "in its discretion whether or not to modify its order to one of supension rather than expulsion."

Wright was charged by the commission with having manipulated the stock of Kinner Airplane and Motor company during 1935 and to have engaged in the practice of "matching orders," both in violation of the Securities and Exchange act.

The court found the evidence that Wright "matched orders" was not sufficient, but it sustained the commission's findings with respect to manipulation.

BILL IN CONGRESS ASKS 100 MILLION MORE FOR FSCC

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—Congress was asked today to give the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation an additional $100,000,000 for the purchase of farm commodities in an effort to check recent price declines.

Senator Bilbo [D., Miss.] and Rep. Harrington [D., Iowa] introduced identical resolutions in the senate and house in behalf of leading agricultural organizations and the conference of southern commissioners of agriculture.

The resolution would direct the FSCC to purchase $10,000,000 of lard and cottonseed oil immediately.

Secretary Wallace requested congress today to increase by $500,000,000 the amount of obligations that may be issued by the Commodity Credit corporation. The present limitation of $900,000,000, Wallace said in a letter to Speaker Bankhead, is inadequate.

Foreign Currencies Rise; British Pound Up 5 Cents

Currencies of Great Britain, France and Canada rose in the New York market yesterday. The pound sterling advanced 5 cents in terms of the American dollar to $3.27. The franc was 0.025 cent higher at 1.8525 cents, and the Canadian dollar, closing at 79⅝ cents, was up ⅝ cent. The Swiss franc held steady.

Pierre du Pont Quits; Lammot New Chairman

Wilmington, Del., May 20 (AP).—Pierre S. du Pont, 70 years old, retired as chairman of the board and Lammot du Pont resigned as president of E. I. du Pont De Nemours & Co. today at a meeting of the company's board of directors. They are brothers, sons of the late Lammot du Pont Sr. Pierre S. du Pont had been chairman 21 years.

Third Brother Steps Down.

A company statement said that Lammot du Pont had quit the presidency because he had reached an age [he was 59 last October] when he realized a younger man must soon succeed him and because he wished more leisure than the duties of the office allowed him.

Lammot also retired as chairman of the board's executive committee and was succeedd by Carpenter. The committee itself was reduced from nine to eight, Carpenter's place not being filled.

In a further change Irenee du Pont, another brother who is 63 years old and a former company president, resigned as vice chairman of the board of directors. The position was left unfilled for the present. He and Pirre will continue members of the board.

Echols Finance Chairman.

Angus B. Echols, a vice president, became chairman of the finance committee, a position formerly held by Carpenter. J. B. Eliason, company treasurer, was elected a vice president and a director.

"The action taken by the board today is indicative of the company's time honored philosophy of management. It will be observed that those retiring from active positions are men who have reached an age where retirement is not only normal but frequently incidental to desire for relief from responsibilities.

"The new president, Walter S. Carpenter Jr., typifies the policy here mentioned. A man in the prime of managerial life, of proven ability, and extraordinary energy, he is selected from the many of long experience and training."

PARLEY TO MAP AVIATION BOOST LACKS HARMONY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—A conference today between administration officials and representatives of the aviation industry produced more disagreement than agreement on a program to expand American airplane production.

The conference called by the government was aimed at laying the groundwork for coöperation between the government and industry to speed up warplane production capacity to 50,000 planes annually and give United States defense forces an equal number of ships, compared with less than 5,000 at present. President Roosevelt has estimated present production capacity at 12,000 planes a year.

100 Manufacturers Attend.

More than 100 representatives of the industry attended the meeting in the office of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and some of them expressed dissatisfaction over results of the conference. They complained of hearing nothing except talk of "coöperation" from government officials and no specific proposals.

"In order to be of assistance to those industries that may need credit to meet increased demands upon them as a result of the program for national defense, the Reconstruction Finance corporation will coöperate with banks in making loans either for production or plant expansion by taking 75 per cent of any such secured loan that a bank may make, the bank carrying 25 per cent of the loan.

"Where a bank wishes to carry the entire loan, the RFC will give the bank a definite take-out agreement for 75 per cent of the loan under the schedule of rates now in force, or that may be agreed upon. The administration and the RFC hope to have the fullest coöperation from banks in meeting whatever credit demand there may be."

Surprised at Disappointment.

Morgenthau, the President's liaison representative with the interdepartmental committee for coördinating aircraft production, which supervises allied and domestic purchases, later professed surprise at the manufacturers' disappointment.

"If they didn't ask the right questions," Morgenthau said, "they're dumber than I think they are, and I think they're a pretty smart bunch of fellows."

Morgenthau made it clear in talking with reporters that the administration has no intention of relaxing its social reform and tax policies for the sake of accelerating the armament program.

The secretary said that no embarrassing questions were asked by the aviation men on relaxing restrictions of the Walsh-Healy act, which imposes minimum wages and maximum hours on government contract labor, the Vinson-Trammell act, which limits war profits, or the wage-hour law.

No Relaxation Intended.

"I'm glad they didn't," Morgenthau said, "because we have no intention of doing so. We're asking industry to make the first move. After all, if I were a manufacturer, I think I would get the attitude of the government. The government indicated that it is giving industry the first chance to do this thing."

The implication was that the government might take over the aviation

Price Support Will Cut Trade, Says Expert

The props set under grain futures prices to prevent them from breaking thru last Saturday's close after a week of precipitous decline will reduce trading activity in the grain markets, Nat C. Murray, grain statistician for Jackson & Curtis, stock and commodity brokers, asserted yesterday.

Nat C. Murray.

Minimum prices below which trading in grain for future delivery would not be permitted to drop were fixed Sunday by the Chicago Board of Trade and other domestic grain markets in response to an appeal by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. His request came after wheat prices had collapsed 32¼ to 34⅛ cents a bushel and corn 14 to 16¾ cents a bushel from closing prices on May 11.

Says Trading Is Discouraged.

Murray said that the setting of minimum prices by the exchanges introduced increased uncertainty in the markets because the support might be removed at any time.

"What inducement is there to trading when the prospective buyer does not know whether the peg will be pulled out and prices may go down?" he said. "If the board has the right to raise or lower the peg at any time then those who want to buy and those who want to sell short are frightened out of the market. Such a situation is not encouraging to trade."

Drawing parallels from the experience of the Chicago grain market when minimum prices were in effect from Aug. 1 thru Aug. 15 in 1933, would be unwise, Murray said, because present conditions are vastly different. The 1933 "floor" under grain futures prices was the first ever employed by the Chicago Board of Trade and was used to stop the breakdown of the market after the bursting of the "inflation bubble" that fall.

Cites 1933 'Peg' Results.

In 1933, Murray said, wheat prices tumbled after the prop was removed and sank to about the level from which the market had started on a steep advance late in June that year.

The experience of the support operation in 1933 was that prices climbed sharply for three days and then slid back in nine days to the minimum price level. Trading continued at the fixed prices for the remaining three days until the peg was removed. Then wheat tumbled and did not regain the abandoned minimum prices until more than a month later.

Wallace's action, it was indicated, also safeguarded the value of grain owned by government agencies or pledged to the government by farmers as security for crop loans. The government holds about 5 million bushels of wheat and has pledged to it under seal from 15 to 20 million bushels of wheat for loans, according to unofficial estimates.

The government also owns 90 million bushels of corn acquired when farmers defaulted on 1937 and 1938 crop loans and farmers have sealed 461 million bushels of corn as security for government loans.

Egg Futures Regain Part of Last Week's Declines

Egg futures regained part of last week's losses on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Octobers closed at 18.25 cents a dozen, up 0.30 cents, influenced by smaller receipts and a sharp decline in storings at major markets. The FSCC bought 416,250 dozens of graded eggs in the local cash market, and 184,500 dozens at New York. Butter futures gained 0.05 cent a pound.

GRAIN FUTURES IGNORE 'PEG' IN STRONG RALLY

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$ .83⅞	$ .78⅛	$ .74⅛
Corn	.62⅜	.58⅛	.50⅝
Oats	.34⅛	.33⅛	.32⅛
Rye	.49¼	.44½	.51½
Soy beans	.92⅝	.89½	.93¼

Futures prices of all grains rallied yesterday, with the result that the price supporting machinery which the Chicago Board of Trade and other grain exchanges had prepared to put into operation at the request of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace was not needed.

Wheat closed 5⅞ to 6¼ cents higher, corn 3¾ to 3⅞ cents higher, oats at gains of 1⅜ to 2⅜ cents, and rye 4 to 4¾ cents higher. Soy beans finished 1½ to 3¼ cents higher. Trading was light, however.

[Secretary Wallace yesterday announced that the loan rate on the 1940 wheat crop would average 64 cents a bushel, compared with 63 cents on the 1939 crop. Details on page 23, column 1.]

Pegged at Saturday Close.

Wallace, as a result of wide tumbles in grain prices last week, had requested that the exchanges to prohibit transactions at prices lower than those prevailing at the close last Saturday. On Sunday the Board of Trade's directors decided to heed Wallace's request.

However, prices in all domestic grain markets were strong from the start yesterday, and no minimums were invoked at any time.

Wheat prices on the Winnipeg exchange touched the official minimum of 71⅞ cents for the July delivery early, but firmed quickly on reports of fair export sales to the United Kingdom for late July shipment from Montreal. Greece is said to have been a good buyer of Australian wheat.

Part of the early upturn in wheat was due to buying attributed to mills, which are estimated to have sold more than 250,000 barrels of flour, equal to about 1,250,000 bushels of wheat, over the week-end, in addition to large sales in the preceding week.

View on Farm Selling.

Many operators expressed the belief that in view of the uncertain situation in Europe and the poor outlook for export business, farmers would probably sell wheat in the open market as long as they could obtain more than the federal loan price. Offerings below the loan level, however, are expected to be relatively small. Harvesting of the new winter wheat crop is expected to start in the advanced sections of Texas and Oklahoma within a few days, and hedging pressure is expected to become a market influence early in June.

Representatives of the Canadian government and the Winnipeg Grain exchange were in conference yesterday discussing the wheat situation in that country. Another conference is expected to be held today. Reports from Winnipeg indicated that trading in wheat futures might be banned for the duration of the war, but that trading in rye, oats, and barley would continue, following the precedent established during the European war of 1914-'18.

Traders scanned the news reports from Europe, seeking a ray of hope for an early peace. Peace rather than war is now regarded as a bullish factor, the reverse of the condition which prevailed in 1914-'19. Only peace, brokers said, will bring back a big world's demand for wheat.

How Automobile Insurance Saved a Home

A motorist in an eastern city injured a child. He was not at fault; however, suit was filed for $50,000. Unable to prove his innocence, the motorist was ordered to pay damages amounting to $35,000. The verdict . . . except for automobile insurance . . . would have meant sacrificing his home and other assets.

Unusual? Not at all. Here in Chicago the traffic toll since January 1 numbers more than 8,231 deaths and injuries . . . an average of 1.75 deaths and 57 injuries every day. This is a substantial and steadily rising increase over last year. Most of these accidents resulted in claim for damages.

If you own or operate a car, you need Continental Automobile Bodily Injury insurance. The cost averages only two or three dollars a month. Ask your agent or broker to explain why this protection may be the cheapest . . . but most important . . . purchase you will ever make.

New York Bonds.

New York, May 20 (AP).—Bonds rallied selectively today, but continued weakness of rail and utility liens gave the list a ragged appearance at the close. Helped by a marked drop in "war selling," a number of foreign dollar issues, United States government loans and various low yield corporates made substantial gains.

The poor performance of rails seemed to be the result of further liquidation of holdings originally built up on expectation of some rail legislation at this session of congress. Prospects for such action began to decline a few weeks ago and with the recent concentration of interest on national defense aims traders virtually abandoned hopes for any immediate Washington aid for the railroads.

Transactions totaled $6,371,600 face value, against $9,729,000 Friday.

Chicago Stocks.

Sufficient rallying power developed on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday to leave gains more numerous than losses at the close, but the market nevertheless was highly irregular. Trading was light. Three of the 10 volume leaders closed unchanged, one was lower and six advanced. Commonwealth Edison, the most heavily traded, rose ¾ point.

BASIS OF WHEAT LOANS FOR 1940 IS RAISED A CENT

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace announced today that the wheat loan rate on the 1940 crop would average 64 cents a bushel against an average rate of 63 cents last year. The announcement came after a week in which wheat prices dropped as much as 34 cents a bushel.

Department of agriculture officials said the average loan rate of 64 cents, together with parity payments of 19 cents, assured wheat farmers coöperating in the federal crop control program of a return of at least 83 cents a bushel on the farm regardless of market prices.

Raise Soft Red Wheat Basis.

The most important change in the loan values was an increase in the soft red winter wheat region. This increase was made, the department said, on the basis of experience which indicated that previous loan values in that area were too low compared with normal market relationships. The protein premium schedule is the same as that in effect last year.

The average loan value of 64 cents is about 57 per cent of the parity price [price at which wheat would have the same purchasing power as in 1909-1914], which was $1.13 on April 15.

Many Same as Last Year.

In many areas loan values at country points will be identical with those for 1939, the department said. Loan values will be as follows at these principal terminal markets:

No. 2 hard winter—Kansas City, 77 cents; Omaha, 76¼ cents; Chicago, 81 cents; gulf ports, 83 cents.

No. 2 dark northern spring—Minneapolis, 87 cents.

No. 2 red winter—Chicago, 81 cents; St. Louis, 81 cents.

No. 1 soft white—Portland, 73 cents.

Deviations from last year's rates included an increase of 1 cent on No. 2 hard winter at Chicago, a decrease of 2 cents on No. 2 hard winter at gulf ports, and an increase on No. 2 red winter at Chicago and St. Louis.

The loans will be made by the Commodity Credit corporation and will be available to producers who comply with wheat acreage allotments under the 1940 AAA program.

Chicago Bank Stocks Regain Part of Last Week's Losses

Chicago bank stocks strengthened in over the counter trading yesterday after last week's heavy losses. Northern Trust was the only major issue to decline. Firmness in the market was attributed to livelier buying interest attracted by the relatively low prices of the shares and to the slight improvement in the listed stock market.

First National, which had declined widely last week, advanced $5 to a bid price of $190. Continental-Illinois rose $2.50 to $67.50; Harris Trust $2 to $285, and Chicago Title & Trust, $1 to $105. Northern Trust, quiet last week, dropped $30 to a bid of $500. American National and City National were nominally unchanged.

Attributed to War Fears.

Dealers in bank stocks said that last week's precipitous drop in these shares followed the lead of the stock market. With buyers avoiding high priced bank stocks and with the market thin, the small lots liquidated caused wide fluctuations which would not have occurred if the market had been more active, they said.

Much of the selling was caused by war fears, brokers said. Prospective buyers are cautiously following developments of the war before making any commitments, according to one dealer.

Table Shows Reductions.

	Mar 20.	May 13.
American National	200	210
Chicago Title	105	118
City National	105	107
Continental	67½	79
First National	190	238
Harris Trust	285	290
Northern Trust	500	580

"The break was not caused by any weaknesses in the banks' themselves or by a drop in bank earnings," one dealer asserted. "The situation abroad caused some holders to throw bank shares overboard at sacrifice prices. With buyers frightened out of the market, any liquidation of this sort inevitably would result in sharp declines."

PARLEY TO MAP AVIATION BOOST LACKS HARMONY

industry if the manufacturers proved incapable of handling the expansion program. This expression of attitude alone should have made the trip to Washington worthwhile, Morgenthau said when asked for his reaction to comments by some western aviation men that the trip was without results.

The meeting, Morgenthau said, was intended as "a get-together for an exchange of views." He said he is satisfied with the general attitude of the aviation industry. There can be no relaxing of wage and hour regulations as long as workers are unemployed, Morgenthau said. He expressed the opinion there is no shortage of skilled labor, but that if there were the secretary of labor has discretionary powers to ease the rules.

No Requests for Capital.

There apparently is plenty of working capital for the aviation industry, the secretary said, asserting he has heard no complaints on that score. He added that no one brought up the question of government money for plant expansion. Morgenthau gave President Roosevelt an informal report on the conference, and Mr. Roosevelt will discuss details of the meeting at his press conference tomorrow, the secretary said.

Some airplane manufacturers charged that the meeting was arranged by the administration as a publicity stunt to influence speedy enactment of the President's national defense requests, which total 1 billion 182 million dollars in addition to the current military programs.

"Little was accomplished," one manufacturer said. "The army people indicated the program was thrown at them so fast they didn't have a chance to prepare for the meeting."

Term Meeting Premature.

Others expressed the opinion the meeting was premature. It is likely, however, that other conferences will be held from time to time. Government officials who attended the parley included Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson, and Acting Secretary of the Navy Lewis Compton.

Johnson said that with "the present temper of the country, under the leadership of the President, we'll get things done." He asserted the smaller plane manufacturers would be called upon to help in the program.

Compton stressed the close coöperation among government agencies and said he expected the same of industry. "I am convinced there is no substitute for private management when it comes to economy and speed of production," he declared.

Robert H. Hinckley, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, said that plans are in a formative stage for cushioning the aviation industry from a "let-down" when the military emergency has passed.

EASTMAN URGES RAIL EFFICIENCY AS AID TO LABOR

Railroad labor can benefit more from increased economy and efficiency of railroad operations than from legislation too closely restricting the displacement of employés in consolidations, Joseph B. Eastman said last night.

Eastman, chairman of the Interstate Commerce commission, spoke at a meeting of the Western Railway club, of which O. N. Harstad, general manager of the Milwaukee railroad, was recently chosen president.

The pending Wheeler-Lea bill would give rail employés the protection of law granted no other class of workers, Eastman said. Eastman suggested that the railroads create a board for engineering research.

Eastman also declared that the railroads erred in cutting less than carlot rates severely in efforts to meet truck competition.

COURT CONSIDERS WARD'S APPEAL IN WAGE ORDER

Legal questions involved in the refusal of Montgomery Ward & Co. to submit records of its Kansas City plant for examination by the wage and hour administration were taken under advisement yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. Judge Walter Treanor, Otto Kerner, and James H. Wilkerson heard arguments on a company appeal from an order by Judge William H. Holly directing it to produce the records.

Counsel for the mail order company contended the administration lacked power to compel submission of the records and that the subpenas were so sweeping that they violated constitutional safeguards against unreasonable search and seizure.

LIFT STEEL MILL RATE AGAIN; WAR BOOSTS DEMAND

Steel mills in the United States, reflecting the quickening pace in the war industries, have boosted production schedules again this week to the highest levels since the end of January, the American Iron and Steel institute reported yesterday.

The average rate of ingot output in the industry, the institute said, climbed to 73 per cent of capacity, from 70 per cent at the beginning of last week.

In the Chicago area, steel companies said that employment will be increased if operations continue to expand. However, no important additions of men have been made so far, it was indicated.

Report Britain Sends Oil Negotiators to Mexico

Tulsa, Okla., May 20 (AP).—Vincente Cortes Herrera, general manager of Mexico's oil industry, said today two representatives of Great Britain were en route to Mexico to open negotiations over oil properties expropriated two years ago.

MARTIN AGAIN NAMED EXCHANGE PRESIDENT; HIGH POST FOR BOYLAN

Robert P. Boylan, becomes vice chairman

Martin became chief executive of the exchange more than a year ago, following a reorganization of its administration. He was installed as the first salaried president to serve "at the pleasure of the board."

Robert P. Boylan, a former president of the Chicago Board of Trade, was named vice chairman of the board, succeeding Charles B. Harding, who was made chairman at the May 13 election. Harding and Boylan are members of the exchange and serve in their present capacities on a nonsalaried basis.

WAR MAY CAUSE FURTHER LOSS OF TOBACCO TRADE

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—The department of agriculture said today that wars in Europe and the orient, having caused a severe reduction in American tobacco exports this season, may accentuate the downward trend.

Despite increased world consumption in recent years, international trade has been dwindling because many countries which previously imported most of their tobacco have turned to domestic production in efforts to become more nearly self-sufficient.

The United Kingdom, one of the world's principal importers, obtained about 90 per cent of its tobacco from the United States in the early '20s.

Business Done by Check Rises in 7th Reserve Area

Business done by check in the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district thru 159 banks in 41 leading cities during the week ended May 15 increased 10 per cent over the preceding week and 11.1 per cent over the corresponding week in 1939, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. Total debits aggregated $1,262,984,000 compared with $1,147,980,000 in the preceding week and $1,136,318,000 a year ago. Debits to deposit accounts in Chicago totaled $717,023,000 compared with $624,729,000 in the preceding week.

MEMBER BANK REPORT

Commercial loans made by member banks of the federal reserve system increased $10,000,000 in the week ended May 15, reversing a downward trend that had prevailed for several weeks, the federal reserve board reported yesterday.

COURT DIRECTS COUNTY TO HOLD TRUSTEES' FUNDS

7½ Millions Unclaimed in Foreclosure Sales.

A decision by which Cook county may gain as much as 7½ million dollars in unclaimed funds held by trustees in mortgage foreclosures was made yesterday by Judge Grover C. Niemeyer in Superior court.

Judge Niemeyer made his ruling in a case involving $4,905 held by the Chicago Title and Trust company as trustee of the Rogers Park Apartment Building corporation. He directed that the money be turned over to the Superior court clerk. The suit was brought to test the right of the court to supervise equities of bondholders who could not be located after the foreclosure sale of an estimated 5,000 properties in the last eight years.

Seeks Safety for Funds.

"My interest," Judge Niemeyer said, "is to have the unclaimed funds —estimated at 4 to 7½ million dollars —turned over ultimately to the county treasurer for safekeeping. A situation where so much money is held by the trustees is dangerous."

The case was developed on the theory that the courts retain jurisdiction of the proceeds of a forced sale until distribution to bondholders is complete. Other foreclosed properties are under the jurisdiction of the Circuit court, but no such proceedings have been initiated there.

Vernon Welsh, attorney for the Chicago Title and Trust company, argued that the court was without jurisdiction and that the decision was a breach of trust.

Shamberg Urges Action.

Assistant State's Attorney Jacob Shamberg declared the trustees are not creditors and therefore have no right to the unclaimed funds.

Before any of the other similar cases are brought to trial yesterday's ruling will be contested in the state Supreme court. If it is upheld the funds will be turned over to the Superior court clerk and eventually to the county treasurer, who would be required to pay any future claims. The rest would escheat to the county.

Grumman Aircraft Order Backlog Sets New Record

New York, May 20 [Special].—Leroy R. Grumman, president of Grumman Aircraft Engineering corporation of Bethpage, Long Island, today announced a backlog of orders approximating $9,500,000, the largest in the company's history. Orders are now being filled for fighting planes for the French government and for twin engine patrol planes for Portugal, and a considerable number of fighters are being built for the United States navy, he said.

FIDELITY INVESTMENT.

Two years ago I invested $15 a month with the Fidelity Investment Association of Wheeling, W. Va., but now I am thinking of discontinuing payments. I would like to have a report on the company showing the present condition.—A. B.

Answer: The Fidelity Investment association, Wheeling, W. Va., is an investment company which sells annuity contracts on the instalment plan. Money paid in by contract holders after deducting sales commissions and operating expenses is invested in securities.

A separate fund is maintained for each type of contract and the securities are deposited with the proper authorities as required in certain states in which the association operates. More than 100 various options are available to contract holders in settling their contracts. Insurance protection is also offered and provides for payment of all unpaid premiums if the holder dies.

Capitalization of Fidelity consists of 9,110 shares of 5 per cent participating cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value and 8,123 shares of common stock of $100 par value.

The association does not issue a balance sheet combining all of its several funds. Assets on Oct. 31, 1939, of its separate investment funds, totaled $30,001,973. Actuarial reserves against outstanding contracts totaled $26,497,666. The balance sheet for the general fund and agency division listed total assets of $2,177,730 which included $1,714,753 in securities.

Formation of a new company with capital of at least $500,000 to take over the association was proposed recently to stockholders. The new company would issue annuity contracts similar to those of Fidelity and would register them with the Securities and Exchange commission.

The promoters of the contemplated company, Allen G. Massick and Barnet L. Rosset, both of Chicago, would receive all of the new preferred stock and 80 per cent of the common stock. The present stockholders of Fidelity would receive 20 per cent of the new common stock.

Instalment investment contracts of this type should be purchased only after careful consideration of their provisions to determine whether they meet the investor's individual needs. Such an investment is not recommended if the investor is not sure he can carry the contract to maturity because he can surrender the contract in its early years only at a loss.

Personal Loans
On Your Own Signature.

Here salaried men and women [single or married] can get $25 to $250 or more entirely on earning capacity and personal responsibility. We prefer to make these loans the way most people like—without security—without endorsers.

NO WAGE ASSIGNMENTS.

Simply do this:

1. Make application. [Can be in person or by phone.]
2. Come in, sign and get the cash.

Pick Your Own Payments.

Take a year, or more, to repay. You know best how much you can afford each month—you make the payment which best fits your income.

PRIVACY.

We keep the entire transaction strictly between us. Your employer, friends or relatives are not notified.

SIMPLE TO GET.

Our loans are made on the simple basis of your ability to make small, regular payments, and if you can, you should not hesitate to see us for a loan at once. Come in or telephone.

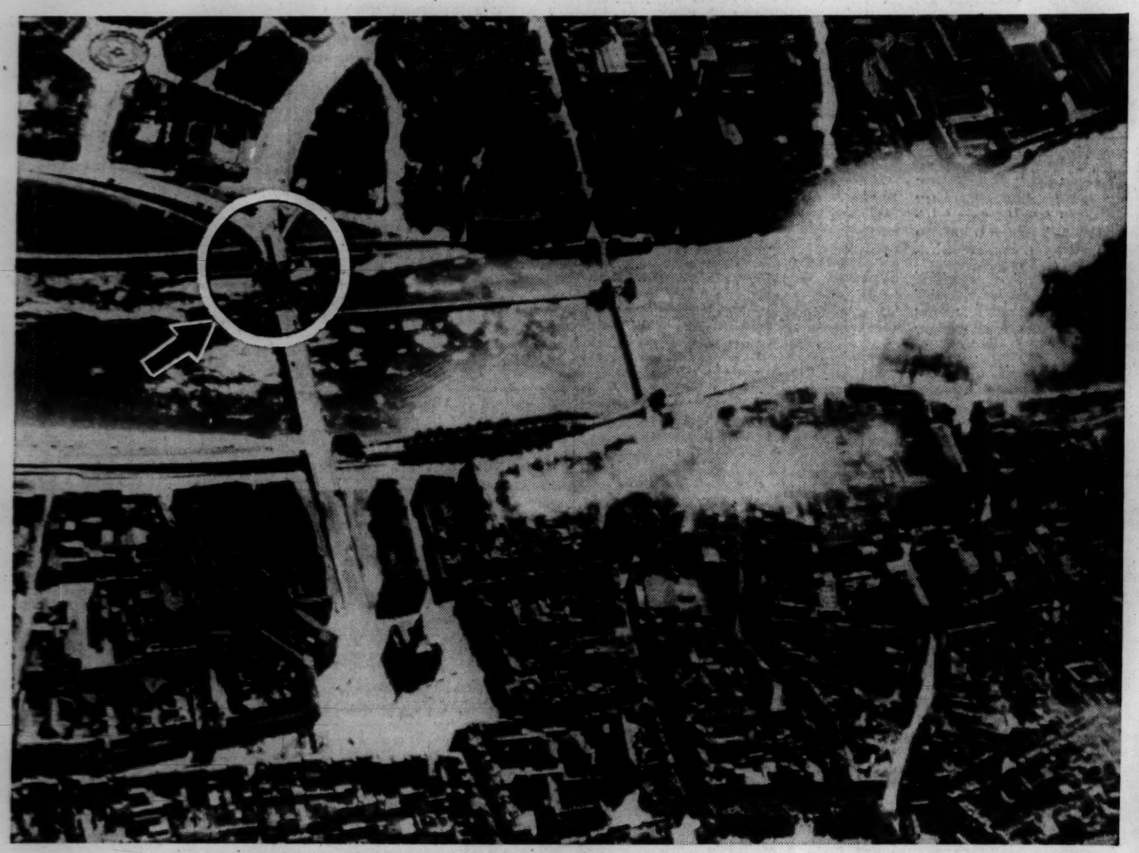
Germans Gain in Drives on Channel Ports and Paris; Capture Laon—New Pictures From Battle Zones



[Associated Press Wirephoto: Sent by Clipper.]

A British air view of Maastricht, Holland, after it had fallen into the hands of Germans. The British caption said the picture showed damage to bridge (circled) over Albert canal and smoke rising from bomb struck areas of strategic city.

[Associated Press Wirephoto: Sent by Clipper.]

The German army has started a pincer movement aimed at channel ports in northern France and designed to cut off a reported 300,000 allied troops on the northern front. The Germans also say they have captured Laon, France. The battle line's course is based on German claims, which are denied in part by the French.

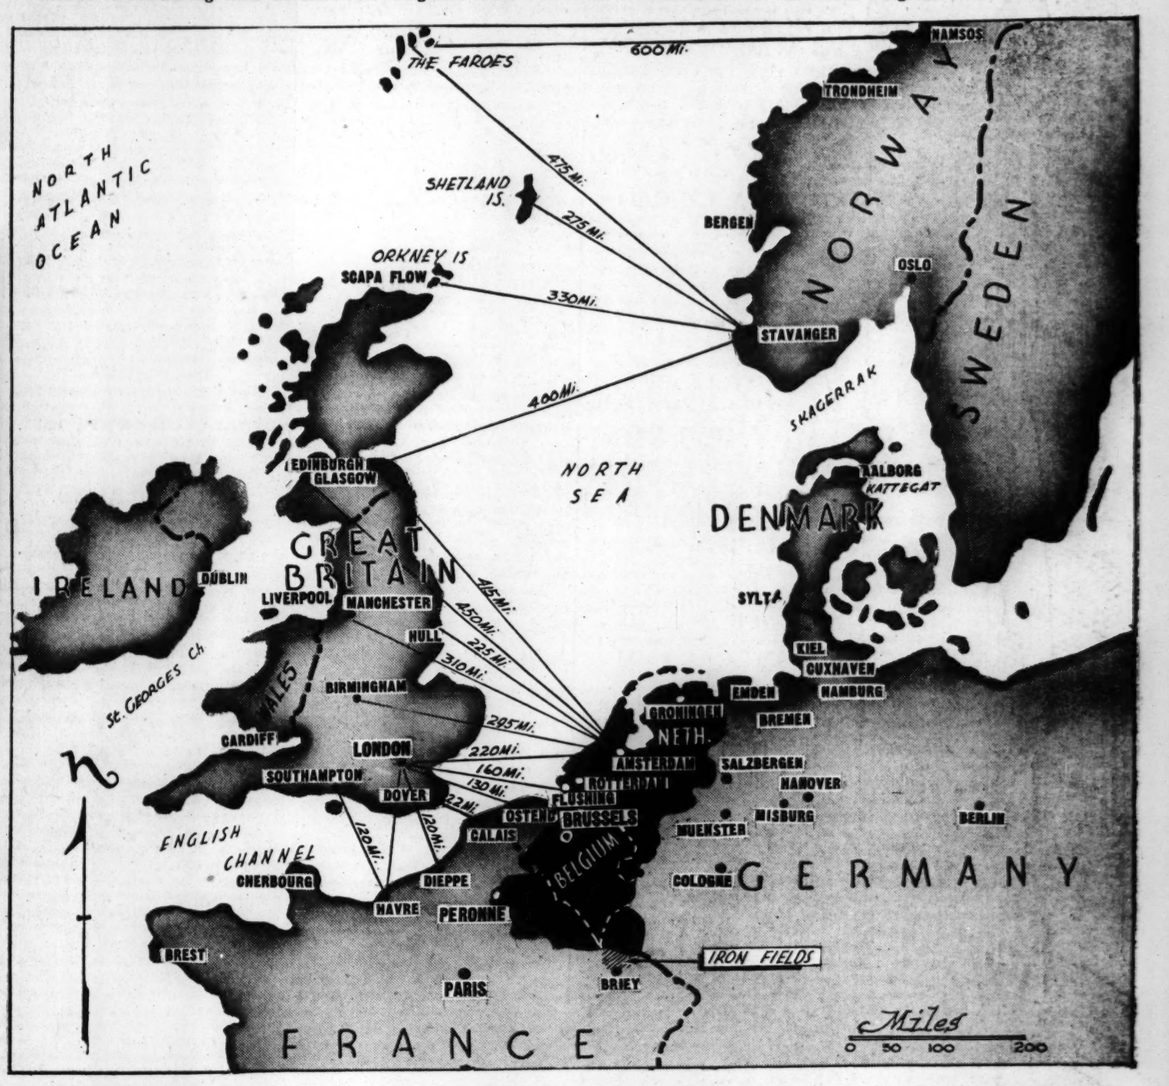
This picture, according to the German caption, shows German tanks and heavy guns going around a blockaded and wrecked street during their advance into Belgium. The censor did not announce the location in Belgium.



With German army advancing on channel ports the shortened distances between German occupied areas and Britain become of interest because of the German threat of attack. Black indicates areas taken by Germany since drive on the Low Countries began. Distances mark miles between strategic British points from coastal cities now held by the Germans in the Low Countries and Norway. Distances are also indicated from French cities at which Germans are aiming.
